Many Mysterious Aspects Crop Up

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal investigating groups sifted through a mass of evidence today seeking the cause of the crash of the Trans World Airlines Constellation that killed 78 persons. Officials did not rule out the possibility that the big airliner disintegrated while still in the air.

"We can't afford to rule out anything," said Melvin N. Gough, safety director of the Civil Aeronautics Board when he was asked if sabotage was being considered.

Gough said it was significant, but he didn't say precisely how, that one piece of the plane's tail was, 200 to 300 feet from the rest of the wreckage.

Explosion Time Uncertain

Gough said there was nothing to indicate that the plane exploded in the air before it crashed into a cornfield near suburban Hinsdale minutes after taking off from Midway Airport at 2 a.m. Friday. All aboard, 73 passengers and 5 crewmen, perished in the flaming wreckage.

It was the nation's third worst U.S. commercial plane accident and the worst involving a single commercial plane.

Deepening the horror of the tragedy was the accent of youth among the victims—20 children—and the wiping out of one family of seven and two others of six and five each. It was an all-tourist class flight.

Members of a full scale investigation headed by the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Agency filtered through widely scattered debris, witness accounts, operations reports and detailed analysis of the crash scene seeking clues to the disaster.

Many Mysterious Aspects

A routine radio exchange between the pilot and the control tower at Midway with no indication that anything was wrong.

A piece of tail section which plunged to earth some 300 feet from the rest of the wreckage and conflicting reports from witnesses of an explosion before or after the crash.

On its normal course the plane would have been traveling southwesterly but fell to earth heading due north indicating the pilot may have been attempting to return to the airport.

More Data Is Likely On Defense

Last Trial Blasts Held in 1958 Fall

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's explosion of a nuclear test device was expected today to hasten a decision by President Kennedy on resumption of U.S. nuclear weapons testing.

Well informed officials now consider it likely Kennedy will make a decision early next week and that it will be to start up U.S. testing again. The ast U.S. test explosions were held in the fall of 1958.

To Clip Secrecy

It was also learned that the administration is considering some modification of the secrecy policy covering this country's nuclear weapons arsenal. The reason: to give the American people and the world a better idea of the amount of atomic force available to the United States for its own defense and the defense of its allies.

Kennedy said Thursday, after a meeting with Cabinet officials and congressional leaders, that this country's atomic weapons systems were "wholly adequate" to deal with the policy of "atomic blackmail" whch he declared was now being practiced by Russia.

Would Tell Strength

But some of the President's advisers feel that the public, here and abroad, should be given a better idea of the proportions of American strength and the military purposes for which it is designed. Among other objectives, they evidently would like to dramatize and make understandable what they now call Russia's 'policy of overkill."

That term was used by Ambassador Arthur H. Dean in a statement at the White House Friday following a meeting with the President. At the meeting Dean reported on his fruitless negotiation with Russian representatives at Geneva on a nuclear weapons test ban treaty. Referring to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's statements about development of a 100-megation nuclear bomb, Dean said "the Soviet policy is the policy of overkill."

The term comes from military sources and means the destruction of human life beyond the limits of military necessity.

The White House announced Friday the first Soviet nuclear explosion known to this country since Russia, the United States and Britain imposed moratoriums and began their test ban conference at Geneva almost three years ago.

"The device tested had a substantial yield in the intermediate range," the statement said. "It was detonated in the atmosphere."

In London, a British Foreign Officer spokesman said the explosion in the atmosphere rather than underground "increases by an amount as yet unknown the danger to health from radioactivity."

The Soviet decision to resume testing was announced Wednesday night and since that time the President and his advisers awaited an actual explosion.

Meanwhile, the White House concentrated in its public statements on the propaganda aspects of the new situation created by Russia. Officials said they wanted to allow maximum time for the impact of the Soviet decision to make itself felt on governments and peoples outside the Soviet bloc. The judgment here was that the Soviet government was paying a very high price in goodwill, particularly among neutralist countries, for its decision.

Thus, there was no immediate announcement concerning U.S. nuclear testing plans.

Nkrumah Urges JFK And Khrushchev Meet

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana told the nonaligned nations conference today he is shocked by Russia's nuclear test explosion. He urged President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev to meet and discuss their disputes.

Fresh from a visit to Moscow, Nkrumah was the first speaker of the day to comment on Friday's Soviet explosion.

Stresses Danger

"It is a shock for me and for you too," he told the 24-nation meeting. "This shock shows what a big danger humanity is facing."

Nkrumah said he is ready to make his African capital, Accra, available for a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting. From this platform, he said, " I call on my friends, President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev . . . to meet."

So far attacks on Western colonialism have dominated the conference rather than concern that the Berlin crisis would erupt into a world war.

Major Criticism

The major criticism of the Soviet Union at the opening session Friday came from President Gamal Nasser of the United Arab Republic. He was the only one to assail Moscow for resuming nuclear tests.

No matter what the Soviet motive, Nasser said, the main thing was the "clear bearing on the deterioration of the dangerous international position." But other delegates criticized the Soviet proposal to replace U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold with a three-man panel.

Although the chief criticism of the United States was its long opposition to admitting Red China to the United Nations, many U.S. allies came in for harsh criticism because of their colonial policies.

France was the chief whipping boy. President Charles de Gaulle's government was attacked for its policies in Algeria and Bizerte. French nuclear tests also were criticized.

Blamed for Colonies

Portugal and Britain were criticized for retaining colonies in Africa, the Netherlands for holding on to West New Guinea in the face of Indonesian demands.

But Prime Minister U Nu of Burma, in a speech that balanced the criticism of others against the West and colonialism, termed the threat of war the overriding issue.

The world "is closer to war than coexistence," the Buddhist leader said. Unless the situation takes a more sensible turn, he added, the world seems doomed.

Indonesian President Achmed Sukarno accused the Western powers of failing to realize that the colonial era had ended. He and other speakers blamed the West for continuing colonial policies.

Glover Is Facing Manslaughter in Buffalo Slaying

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Twenty year-old Donald Glover was charged with first-degree manslaughter Friday night in connection with the slaying of Donald F. Moran, a Minneapolis chemist, a week ago.

Golver, from West Roxbury, Mass., a Boston suburb, will be arraigned today in City Court.

He was returned here Friday from Boston after being arrested by Massachusetts authorities at his home and held on a fugitive-from-justice charge. He was later turned over to Buffalo police.

The nude, blood-spattered body of Moran, 26, was found in his sixth-floor hotel room last Friday. He had been employed by General Mills Inc., and was sent here last Thursday for work on a new food product.

Glover admitted to two friends here that he might have killed a man in a hotel room, Buffalo Police Commissioner Frank N. Felicetta said.

Police said they had evidence that Glover was in Moran's hotel room early last Friday morning.

Both of Glover's friends, Kenneth Becker, 21, of nearby Cheektowaga, and his girl friend, Miss Norene Fisher, 18, of Buffalo, voluntarily reported Glover's admission to police, Felicetta said.

Cuff Market Employe Get $500 in Cash

Cuffed to the steering wheel of his car with a pair of Japanese handcuffs, Harold King, an employe of the New Paltz Grand Union-Empire Market, last night drove four miles back to New Paltz to report to Officer Harry Tifverman at the police station that he had been held up and robbed of the day's proceeds at the market.

On his way to the Huguenot National Bank, Main Street and North Manheim Boulevard, King was carrying approximately $7,000 in checks and over $500 in cash when he was accosted near the bank by two white men who demanded he drive them in his car to a secluded spot. There, about four miles south of New Paltz on the Althusen Road, Town of Plattekill, they handcuffed him to the steering wheel of his car and after relieving him of the money, left. It is presumed they left in an unidentified car.

No Clues Yet

State Police BCI men and New Paltz police officers were still looking for the men today. No clue as to the identity of men had been reached this morning after an all night search.

After being handcuffed to the wheel of his car, King drove back to New Paltz and gave the alarm.

It was about 9:10 that King was accosted at the bank and New Paltz police were notified of the hold-up at 9:30 when King drove to police headquarters, it was necessary to secure a bolt-cutter to release King from the car.

Continue Hunt

State Police at both Highland and Kingston were notified of the holdup and an alarm was immediately sent out. Police officials, including the BCI units, worked throughout the night in an effort to catch the two men, and are continuing the hunt.

Police reported the amount of checks which Manager Kenneth Swanson, had sent to the bank with King, was "about $7,000" and New Paltz Police Officer Edward Walsh said the amount of cash was "approximately $536".

Hits Hotel Canopy, Pole In Mishap

A 27-year-old East Greenbush man today was charged with reckless driving after his 1957 car knocked down parking meters and and a light pole on Albany Avenue, crashed into a parked vehicle, damaged the canopy in front of the Governor Clinton Hotel and struck a tree on the Academy Green.

James Arthur Dunn, of East Greenbush, was summoned to appear in City Court Tuesday to face the charge. He posted $100 bail.

Car Jumps Curb

According to Police Sergeant William Hanley, Dunn was driving west on Albany Avenue at 7:25 p. m. when the vehicle jumped the curb near the Park Diner and knocked down a parking meter post. The car continued along the sidewalk for some distance, knocking down two more parking meters and a light pole.

Dunn's car continued on out of control, struck the canopy in front of the hotel, veered off and crashed into the rear of a parked car owned by LeRoy Russell Morris, of Columbus, S. C. The Morris 1960 car was badly damaged.

The Dunn vehicle veered into Albany Avenue, spun around and went backwards over the south sidewalk barely missing a police car in charge of Patrolmen Thomas Kearney and Bernard Bouton.

Dunn's car came to a stop against a tree on Academy

Claims Strengthened, But

Goulart as President Would Have Power Cut

By EDWART T. BUTLER

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Joao Goulart's claim to the presidency was strengthened today as the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies gave overwhelming approval to a constitutional amendment that would instill him with limited powers. The measure now goes to the senate.

Weary deputies in the hinterland capital of Brasilia voted 233-55 after an all-night session to set up a parliamentary form of government that would make the leftist vce president a figurehead and leave the top power in a prime minister.

Needs Two Thirds

The senate must give the measure a two-thirds majority before it is adopted. Then it is up to Goulart to decide whether to accept or reject the conditions. Congressional leaders report he has already agreed.

Goulart was proclaimed chief of state by 50,000 cheering followers Friday night as his plane arrived from Uruguay at Porto Alegre, capital of Rio Grande do Sul, his home state and political stronghold in the south.

Goulart conferred with local leaders there, apparently making plans to name a cabinet and try to make peace with military leaders in the north who oppose him.

Insist He's the Man

Backers insisted that Goulart automatically became president upon flying Friday night from Montevideo to a landing on Brazilian soil at Porto Alegre. The governor of that southern state is Leonel Brizola, Goulart's brother-in-law.

Brizola broadcast an appeal to Congress to turn down the amendment, which he reported "comes as a surprise." The governor said the military cut telephone communications between Porto Alegre and Brasilia Friday night and "the constitutional president, Goulart, has no knowledge of such important decisions."

Brizola Makes Appeal

Brizola appealed to Senate President Moura Andrade, Chamber President Sergio Magalhaes and senators and deputies to reject the amendment on the ground "your present attitude is not harmonious with the mandate given you by the people."

"You must preserve the constitution and the only way to do that is to inaugurate Goulart," the governor said.

After that, he added, "it would be possible to debate an amendment to the constitution."

Goulart still faced stubborn opposition, however, from the nation's three military chiefs who insist they will not accept the controversial leader under any conditions.

Heads of Brazil's army, navy and air force had ordered the armed forces to attack the pro-Goulart 3rd Army in Rio Grande do Sul, but there were no reports of significant military action.

Cunha Mello, first secretary of the Senate, said in Brasilia a caucus of congressional and party leaders had approved the de-

Ward Company Makes Survey, to Remain at Locale

It was reported this week that Montgomery Ward and Company, with a large department store at 25 North Front Street, has made a study of the shopping center situation about Kingston. No decision has apparently been arrived at and it was stated that there was "nothing in the immediate future" in the firm's plans to vacate its present Kingston store and locate in a local shopping center.

The large department store, formerly operated by Rose & Gorman, located on North Front at the head of Wall and Fair Streets, has been under long term lease to Montgomery Ward and still has some time to run, according to a spokesman for the firm. At the rear of the store is a large parking area used by the store and as a public parking area.

A rumor that Montgomery Ward was to vacate the store and to open in one of the local shopping centers and that the Ward store would be taken over by another department store operator, has had wide circulation the past few days.

It was learned that Montgomery Ward and Company had "made a study" of the shopping center situation in the Kingston area "as is done by all big firms in this trend toward shopping centers" but that "no decision" to locate at a shopping center has been made for "the immediate future." The report that Ward is to relinquish its leased property on North Front Street was called "nothing but a rumor yet", by a Ward representative.

Polio Hurts Fair Opening Day, Safe Says Wickham

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "It's perfectly safe to come to the State Fair, officials reiterated today in the wake of a polio outbreak that reportedly was partly responsible for holding down opening-day attendance.

Visitors Friday totaled 32,729—7,693 fewer than the record opening-day crowd of 40,422 last year.

Sixteen of the 53 high-school bands that had been scheduled to participate in a statewide competition yesterday canceled appearances.

State Agriculture Commissioner Don J. Wickham said at least some of the bands had canceled because of what he called publicity about polio.

"They had to make their own decision," Wickham said.

But he noted health officials had given assurance that the 41 cases of paralytic polio reported in Onondaga, Madison and Oneida counties this summer did not constitute an epidemic.

"I see no reason for anyone to stay away from the fair," the commissioner said.

Fair officials are looking for an attendance of 500,000 for the nine-day run through next Saturday.

The record for attendance, 517,799, was set in 1959. Last year, 507,462 saw the fair, the second highest number in the exposition's 115 years.

NEW YORK (AP) —The threat of an automobile strike hangs darkly over the economy.

A strike's effects would spread far beyond the auto industry itself. In addition to creating a shortage of new cars, it would cut sharply into orders for steel, rubber, glass and many other items which go into cars.

A ray of hope appeared when negotiations were extended six days to Sept. 6.

However, the United Auto Workers Union appeared determined to strike against its first target, General Motors, if agreement isn't reached before the deadline.

The UAW's precedent-shattering, profit-sharing agreement with American Motors complicated negotiations with the industry's Big three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

The Big Three said they have no intention of following along with profit-sharing.

The UAW said it isn't insistent on a profit-sharing provision in other contracts as long as equal gains were forthcoming.

An unsettled labor situation developed in the railroad industry, too, during the week.

Venezuelan Visitor Says U. S. Policy Change Hailed as Sign of Interest

Neil Malloy, an American living in Venezuela for the past 12 years reported that Latin Americans have hailed the new U. S.-sponsored long-range aid and development program for South America as a long awaited sign of a renewal of the U. S.'s interest in South America.

Malloy, an official of an electric company in the capital city of Caracas, made these and other observations while visiting Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation Thursday and Friday.

Although Central Hudson was selected as one of two U. S. utilities for Malloy to visit because of its comparable size, it was also an opportunity to renew old acquaintances with Central Hudson Production Manager Henry L. Walker, Ridgeview Road, Poughkeepsie. Malloy and Walker were both employed by the Shanghai (China) Power Co. beginning in 1939 and were interned in a prison camp by the Japanese during most of World War II.

The Electric Company of Caracas, with which Malloy is associated is an investor-owned utility which, he says "like Central Hudson is undergoing a period of very rapid growth." He hoped to learn through his visit here, about the local utility's procedures for budgeting construction expenditures, about its program of automating aspects of its electric transmission system, about its safety standards and about maintenance and operating procedures and standards. He discussed these subjects with President Lelan F. Sillin Jr. and other company executives.

3rd Worst Airliner Tragedy

Many Mysterious Aspects Crop Up

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal investigating groups sifted through a mass of evidence today seeking the cause of the crash of the Trans World Airlines Constellation that killed 78 persons. Officials did not rule out the possibility that the big airliner disintegrated while still in the air.

"We can't afford to rule out anything," said Melvin N. Gough, safety director of the Civil Aeronautics Board when he was asked if sabotage was being considered.

Gough said it was significant, but he didn't say precisely how, that one piece of the plane's tail was 200 to 300 feet from the rest of the wreckage.

Explosion Time Uncertain

Gough said there was nothing to indicate that the plane exploded in the air before it crashed into a cornfield near suburban Hinsdale minutes after taking off from Midway Airport at 2 a.m. Friday. All aboard, 73 passengers and 5 crewmen, perished in the flaming wreckage.

It was the nation's third worst U.S. commercial plane accident and the worst involving a single commercial plane.

Deepening the horror of the tragedy was the accent of youth among the victims—20 children—and the wiping out of one family of seven and two others of six and five each. It was an all-tourist class flight.

Members of a full scale investigation headed by the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Agency filtered through widely scattered debris, witness accounts, operations reports and detailed analysis of the crash scene seeking clues to the disaster.

Many Mysterious Aspects

A routine radio exchange between the pilot and the control tower at Midway with no indication that anything was wrong.

A piece of tail section which plunged to earth some 300 feet from the rest of the wreckage and conflicting reports from witnesses of an explosion before or after the crash.

On its normal course the plane would have been traveling southwesterly but fell to earth heading due north indicating the pilot may have been attempting to return to the airport.

Hits Hotel Canopy, Pole In Mishap

A 27-year-old East Greenbush man today was charged with reckless driving after his 1957 car knocked down parking meters and and a light pole on Albany Avenue, crashed into a parked vehicle, damaged the canopy in front of the Governor Clinton Hotel and struck a tree on the Academy Green.

James Arthur Dunn, of East Greenbush, was summoned to appear in City Court Tuesday to face the charge. He posted $100 bail.

According to Police Sergeant William Hanley, Dunn was driving west on Albany Avenue at 7:25 p. m. when the vehicle jumped the curb near the Park Diner and knocked down a parking meter post. The car continued along the sidewalk for some distance, knocking down two more parking meters and a light pole.

Dunn's car continued on out of control, struck the canopy in front of the hotel, veered off and crashed into the rear of a parked car owned by LeRoy Russell Morris, of Columbus, S. C. The Morris 1960 car was badly damaged.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Joao Goulart's claim to the presidency was strengthened today as the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies gave overwhelming approval to a constitutional amendment that would instill him with limited powers. The measure now goes to the senate.

Weary deputies in the hinterland capital of Brasilia voted 233-55 after an all-night session to set up a parliamentary form of government that would make the leftist vce president a figurehead and leave the top power in a prime minister.

Needs Two Thirds

The senate must give the measure a two-thirds majority before it is adopted. Then it is up to Goulart to decide whether to accept or reject the conditions. Congressional leaders report he has already agreed.

Goulart was proclaimed chief of state by 50,000 cheering followers Friday night as his plane arrived from Uruguay at Porto Alegre, capital of Rio Grande do Sul, his home state and political stronghold in the south.

Goulart conferred with local leaders there, apparently making plans to name a cabinet and try to make peace with military leaders in the north who oppose him.

Insist He's the Man

Backers insisted that Goulart automatically became president upon flying Friday night from Montevideo to a landing on Brazilian soil at Porto Alegre. The governor of that southern state is Leonel Brizola, Goulart's brother-in-law.

Brizola broadcast an appeal to Congress to turn down the amendment, which he reported "comes as a surprise." The governor said the military cut telephone communications between Porto Alegre and Brasilia Friday night and "the constitutional president, Goulart, has no knowledge of such important decisions."

Brizola Makes Appeal

Brizola appealed to Senate President Moura Andrade, Chamber President Sergio Magalhaes and senators and deputies to reject the amendment on the ground "your present attitude is not harmonious with the mandate given you by the people."

"You must preserve the constitution and the only way to do that is to inaugurate Goulart," the governor said.

After that, he added, "it would be possible to debate an amendment to the constitution."

Goulart still faced stubborn opposition, however, from the nation's three military chiefs who insist they will not accept the controversial leader under any conditions.

Heads of Brazil's army, navy and air force had ordered the armed forces to attack the pro-Goulart 3rd Army in Rio Grande do Sul, but there were no reports of significant military action.

Cunha Mello, first secretary of the Senate, said in Brasilia a caucus of congressional and party leaders had approved the de-

Ward Company Makes Survey, to Remain at Locale

It was reported this week that Montgomery Ward and Company, with a large department store at 25 North Front Street, has made a study of the shopping center situation about Kingston. No decision has apparently been arrived at and it was stated that there was "nothing in the immediate future" in the firm's plans to vacate its present Kingston store and locate in a local shopping center.

The large department store, formerly operated by Rose & Gorman, located on North Front at the head of Wall and Fair Streets, has been under long term lease to Montgomery Ward and still has some time to run, according to a spokesman for the firm. At the rear of the store is a large parking area used by the store and as a public parking area.

A rumor that Montgomery Ward was to vacate the store and to open in one of the local shopping centers and that the Ward store would be taken over by another department store operator, has had wide circulation the past few days.

It was learned that Montgomery Ward and Company had "made a study" of the shopping center situation in the Kingston area "as is done by all big firms in this trend toward shopping centers" but that "no decision" to locate at a shopping center has been made for "the immediate future." The report that Ward is to relinquish its leased property on North Front Street was called "nothing but a rumor yet", by a Ward representative.

More Data Is Likely On Defense

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's explosion of a nuclear test device was expected today to hasten a decision by President Kennedy on resumption of U.S. nuclear weapons testing.

Well informed officials now consider it likely Kennedy will make a decision early next week and that it will be to start up U.S. testing again. The ast U.S. test explosions were held in the fall of 1958.

To Clip Secrecy

It was also learned that the administration is considering some modification of the secrecy policy covering this country's nuclear weapons arsenal. The reason: to give the American people and the world a better idea of the amount of atomic force available to the United States for its own defense and the defense of its allies.

Kennedy said Thursday, after a meeting with Cabinet officials and congressional leaders, that this country's atomic weapons systems were "wholly adequate" to deal with the policy of "atomic blackmail" whch he declared was now being practiced by Russia.

Would Tell Strength

But some of the President's advisers feel that the public, here and abroad, should be given a better idea of the proportions of American strength and the military purposes for which it is designed. Among other objectives, they evidently would like to dramatize and make understandable what they now call Russia's 'policy of overkill."

That term was used by Ambassador Arthur H. Dean in a statement at the White House Friday following a meeting with the President. At the meeting Dean reported on his fruitless negotiation with Russian representatives at Geneva on a nuclear weapons test ban treaty. Referring to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's statements about development of a 100-megation nuclear bomb, Dean said "the Soviet policy is the policy of overkill."

The term comes from military sources and means the destruction of human life beyond the limits of military necessity.

The White House announced Friday the first Soviet nuclear explosion known to this country since Russia, the United States and Britain imposed moratoriums and began their test ban conference at Geneva almost three years ago.

"The device tested had a substantial yield in the intermediate range," the statement said. "It was detonated in the atmosphere."

In London, a British Foreign Officer spokesman said the explosion in the atmosphere rather than underground "increases by an amount as yet unknown the danger to health from radioactivity."

The Soviet decision to resume testing was announced Wednesday night and since that time the President and his advisers awaited an actual explosion.

Meanwhile, the White House concentrated in its public statements on the propaganda aspects of the new situation created by Russia. Officials said they wanted to allow maximum time for the impact of the Soviet decision to make itself felt on governments and peoples outside the Soviet bloc. The judgment here was that the Soviet government was paying a very high price in goodwill, particularly among neutralist countries, for its decision.

Thus, there was no immediate announcement concerning U.S. nuclear testing plans.

DEAN MAKES STATEMENT — Ambassador Arthur H. Dean speaks to newsmen after conferring with President Kennedy at the White House. Dean, U. S. negotiator in fruitless talks with the Russians on a nuclear test ban, said the Soviet Union's plan to resume nuclear tests shows clearly it intends to "rest its future on the terrorization of humanity." Venezuelan Visitor Says U. S. Policy Change Hailed as Sign of Interest

Neil Malloy, an American living in Venezuela for the past 12 years reported that Latin Americans have hailed the new U. S.-sponsored long-range aid and development program for South America as a long awaited sign of a renewal of the U. S.'s interest in South America.

Malloy, an official of an electric company in the capital city of Caracas, made these and other observations while visiting Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation Thursday and Friday.

Although Central Hudson was selected as one of two U. S. utilities for Malloy to visit because of its comparable size, it was also an opportunity to renew old acquaintances with Central Hudson Production Manager Henry L. Walker, Ridgeview Road, Poughkeepsie. Malloy and Walker were both employed by the Shanghai (China) Power Co. beginning in 1939 and were interned in a prison camp by the Japanese during most of World War II.

The Electric Company of Caracas, with which Malloy is associated is an investor-owned utility which, he says "like Central Hudson is undergoing a period of very rapid growth." He hoped to learn through his visit here, about the local utility's procedures for budgeting construction expenditures, about its program of automating aspects of its electric transmission system, about its safety standards and about maintenance and operating procedures and standards. He discussed these subjects with President Lelan F. Sillin Jr. and other company executives.

The POWER of FAITH

PROMINENT MEN OF FAITH

Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, D.D.

Football, faith and philosophy interested Eugene Carson Blake in college. Today, the former guard manifests action, knowledge and spirit as Stated Clerk of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. He is activiating his idea to unite the Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist and United Church of Christ into a new church. He knows today's problems in education, church taxation and the injustices of race prejudice: "Every thoughtful preacher knows that his sermons must somehow get down to cases . . . or else they are reduced to religious entertainment . . ." He spiritually inspires: "A minister . . . must preach in love and hope."

Tillson Reformed Will Greet New Pastor Sept. 10

The Rev. Dr. Alfred J. Penney of Oyster Bay, L. I., has accepted a call to the Tillson Reformed Church and will start his ministry there Sunday, Sept. 10, as the fall schedule is resumed.

On that date worship service will be at 11 a. m. with Sunday school resuming at the usual hour of 9:45.

The Rev. Dr. Penney will arrive in Tillson Sept. 7 and will make his home at the parsonage on Tillson Road.

Dr. Penney was born in Newfoundland and received his education, including theology, at Montreal, Canada. He started his ministry in the Presbyterian Church of Heuvelton, N. Y. He then served the Glenmore Avenue Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn; the Presbyterian Church of Long Valley, N. J., and in 1924 he went to the First Presbyterian Church of Oyster Bay, L. I., where he served for 26 years.

Built San Juan Church

In 1950, Dr. Penney was called to the Union Church of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and he served there until retiring in August, 1959. While in San Juan he led his congregation in the building of a new sanctuary with a seating capacity of 500 hundred, a new parish house and a two story church school.

This edifice is in view of the sandy, palm shaded northern shore of Puerto Rico and is now one of the beautiful sights of San Juan. In recognition of his work there, the people of Union Church named Dr. Penney their minister emeritus and installed a marble plaque in the building itself to show their appreciation to future generations.

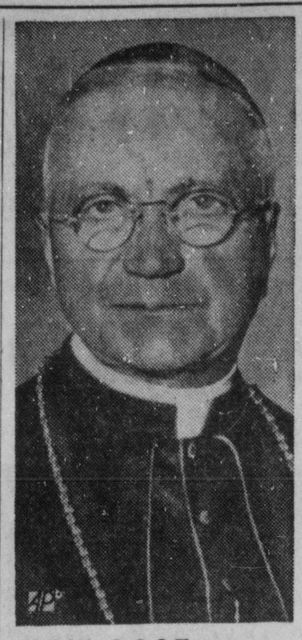
Upon his retirement, he and Mrs. Penney returned to the United States and were here only six weeks when Mrs. Penney died. Since that time he has been living with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam T. Howell and family in Oyster Bay.

Dr. Penney's accomplishments include the publication of two books, Great Men and Sons But Not Heirs.

Is World Traveler

In addition to extensive traveling throughout Canada and the United States, Dr. Penney has toured Europe three times and has visited the Holy Lands. These trips have enabled him to interview the political and education leaders of 13 countries. During this past summer, he went on a trip around the world, and will arrive in New York on Sept. 2, a few days prior to taking up his residence in Tillson Sept. 7.

Officers of the church extend a cordial invitation to all members and to anyone desiring to attend worship services, to be present on Sunday morning, Sept. 10, when Dr. Penney will preach his first regular sermon.



NEW POST — Amleto Giovanni Cardinal Cicognani, who served as Apostolic Delegate to the United States for 25 years, was named as the new Vatican Secretary of State.

Schedule Listed For Song Series At Area Churches

The fall and winter schedule has been announced for the monthly interdenominational hymnsings in area churches.

The next church to be host is the Port Ewen Methodist Church, where the host pastor is the Rev. William G. Smith. This hymnsing will be held Sunday Sept. 10, 9-10 p. m.

People from all churches are invited to attend. The last hymnsing was held in Dietz Stadium, Aug. 6 with the highest attendance yet.

The October meeting will be held in the Church of the Nazarene, and the November meeting at the Bethel Assembly of God.

The December song fest will be held at the Free Methodist Church, the January singspiration at the Christian and Missionary Alliance, and in February the Salvation Army will be host. In March the Reformed Church of the Comforter will be host and the schedule will then be completed once more with a singspiration at the Port Ewen Methodist Church.

The time for the hymn sings has been 9 to 10 p. m. on the second Sunday of the month, but there may be variations from time to time. These will be reported in the newspaper and through the bulletins of the cooperating churches.

The singspirations are sponsored by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association, with the president, the Rev. Dean Harrison, in charge.

Alliance Young People Attend Weekend Retreat

A number of young people from the Christian and Missionary Alliance are attending a Christian youth retreat this weekend at Camp Pinnacle, near Albany.

Leading the delegation are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cicio and their sons, Richard and Ronald. Mr. Cicio is the president of the Alliance Youth Fellowship.

Included among those attending are the Misses Grace Koch, Dean Shaver and Earline Rockwell. The young men include Jesse Johnson, George and Terry Bilyou, Robet Kirtson, Paul and David Koch.

The young people washed automobiles to gather the funds to make the trip, and going on their own without help from the youth society or the church.

Bloomington Church Announces Schedule

The Bloomingdale Reformed Church, Bloomington, announces that the service of worship, September through May, will begin at 11 a. m.

Sunday school, one class for all ages will begin at 9:45. The regular Sunday school session will begin later in September.

Karl Pederson, superintendent of school, announces a meeting of all teachers and leaders Sept. 8 at 8 p. m. at the manse. The meeting is to complete plans for the opening of the regular Sunday school session and to distribute the Reformed Church curriculum to teachers.

Newburgh WSCS Slates Seminar on Sept. 9

Newburgh District Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church is holding a one day educational seminar on September 9, at the Liberty Methodist Church in Liberty from 9:30 a. m. to 3 p. m.

All local officers are urged to attend, and bring a sandwich. Beverage and dessert will be served for a nominal fee. Nursery will be provided for those who bring small children.

Priest Overcomes Language Barrier Of Arctic People

By BRUCE LEVETT

URANIUM CITY, Saskatchewan (AP)—"Pray me, Father, for I have performed an evil action."

The Eskimo knelt in confession and, in his own tongue, began the words first set down by the Rev. Jean L'Helgouach.

Father L'Helgouach is an Oblate missionary who has spent three years translating the Roman Catholic Sunday Missal and other prayers and devotions into Eskimo. He used the opening words from the sacrament of confession as an example of the difficulty he faced.

"The English words are 'Bless me, Father, for I have sinned,' but the Eskimo has no word for bless and no word for sin. We used pray for bless and had to combine the Eskimo words for evil and action to denote sin."

The result was 406 pages of hymns and prayers entitled "Angadjutika," which translates literally as "my means of praying." It is used throughout the western Arctic and, at many points in the East.

The book was illustrated by the Rev. Jean Colas, another missionary, who framed each picture with the same type crosses and swirls Eskimos use to decorate the hems of their garments.

Today, Father L'Helgouach is in charge of the Church of Santa Barbara, named for the patron saint of miners, and for a second time finds himself far from the people he knows best and loves.

"I am still hoping to go back, but as the years go by the chances are less and less," he says.

Labor Department Issues Statement About Labor Day

New York State Industrial Commissioner M. P. Catherwood in a statement today paid tribute to those who have made special contributions to labor in a Labor Day message.

"Labor Day should remind us of the advantages we enjoy in our state and nation — a free land made strong by the united effort of many individuals. In this setting, the dignity and rights of labor have been advanced to a degree unsurpassed in any other land. This is a day to pay tribute to those men and women who have made special contributions to labor's progress.

"In New York State we are working vigorously to provide maximum opportunity for workers to make full use of their talents and contribute to the betterment of themselves, their families and neighbors, and their community. We are working for a labor market in which a man is treated justly and is judged by the worth of his work—and without discrimination. These are goals that must be pursued. That we have achieved much toward their attainment is a matter of deep satisfaction.

"To our youth especially, and to those who guide them, Labor Day 1961 should be a reminder. The working world of today and tomorrow demands better trained, better educated workers. Youth must pursue the opportunity of youth—education. The decision of our youngsters to take full advantage of the educational opportunities offered to them is a crucial decision. It is important to them personally. It is important also to our economy because the manpower requirements for future economic growth will be adequately met only if youth is properly trained today.

Flashing Purchase

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Electrifying is the word for the young lady who entered a photo supply shop and bought a roll of film and some flash bulbs.

"When she was about half way to the door, there was this funny flash," said Gene Kramer, a store employe. "She came back and said, 'My flash bulbs exploded.' The six bulbs on one side of the carton was burned out. The package was hot."

The puzzled Kramer, who gave the young woman new film and bulbs, said he had never heard of such a thing. Neither had the manufacturer of the bulbs.

Way Down Under

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Men's fashions from America are becoming very popular in Australia, says Harold Sackville, a Melbourne clothing manufacturer. "The ties of tradition with Britain are still strong," he says, "but American-style suits are popular for their comfort, better appearance and fit, and lighter weight construction suited to the Australian climate."

Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, D.D.

Football, faith and philosophy interested Eugene Carson Blake in college. Today, the former guard manifests action, knowledge and spirit as Stated Clerk of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. He is activiating his idea to unite the Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist and United Church of Christ into a new church. He knows today's problems in education, church taxation and the injustices of race prejudice: "Every thoughtful preacher knows that his sermons must somehow get down to cases . . . or else they are reduced to religious entertainment . . ." He spiritually inspires: "A minister . . . must preach in love and hope."

Tillson Reformed Will Greet New Pastor Sept. 10

The Rev. Dr. Alfred J. Penney of Oyster Bay, L. I., has accepted a call to the Tillson Reformed Church and will start his ministry there Sunday, Sept. 10, as the fall schedule is resumed.

On that date worship service will be at 11 a. m. with Sunday school resuming at the usual hour of 9:45.

The Rev. Dr. Penney will arrive in Tillson Sept. 7 and will make his home at the parsonage on Tillson Road.

Dr. Penney was born in Newfoundland and received his education, including theology, at Montreal, Canada. He started his ministry in the Presbyterian Church of Heuvelton, N. Y. He then served the Glenmore Avenue Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn; the Presbyterian Church of Long Valley, N. J., and in 1924 he went to the First Presbyterian Church of Oyster Bay, L. I., where he served for 26 years.

Built San Juan Church

In 1950, Dr. Penney was called to the Union Church of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and he served there until retiring in August, 1959. While in San Juan he led his congregation in the building of a new sanctuary with a seating capacity of 500 hundred, a new parish house and a two story church school.

This edifice is in view of the sandy, palm shaded northern shore of Puerto Rico and is now one of the beautiful sights of San Juan. In recognition of his work there, the people of Union Church named Dr. Penney their minister emeritus and installed a marble plaque in the building itself to show their appreciation to future generations.

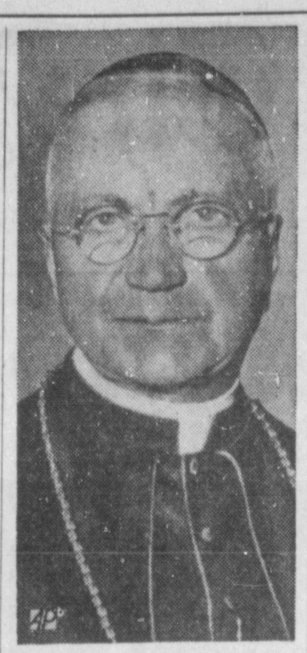
Upon his retirement, he and Mrs. Penney returned to the United States and were here only six weeks when Mrs. Penney died. Since that time he has been living with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam T. Howell and family in Oyster Bay.

Dr. Penney's accomplishments include the publication of two books, Great Men and Sons But Not Heirs.

Is World Traveler

In addition to extensive traveling throughout Canada and the United States, Dr. Penney has toured Europe three times and has visited the Holy Lands. These trips have enabled him to interview the political and education leaders of 13 countries. During this past summer, he went on a trip around the world, and will arrive in New York on Sept. 2, a few days prior to taking up his residence in Tillson Sept. 7.

Officers of the church extend a cordial invitation to all members and to anyone desiring to attend worship services, to be present on Sunday morning, Sept. 10, when Dr. Penney will preach his first regular sermon.



NEW POST — Amleto Giovanni Cardinal Cicognani, who served as Apostolic Delegate to the United States for 25 years, was named as the new Vatican Secretary of State.

Schedule Listed For Song Series At Area Churches

The fall and winter schedule has been announced for the monthly interdenominational hymnsings in area churches.

The next church to be host is the Port Ewen Methodist Church, where the host pastor is the Rev. William G. Smith. This hymnsing will be held Sunday Sept. 10, 9-10 p. m.

People from all churches are invited to attend. The last hymnsing was held in Dietz Stadium, Aug. 6 with the highest attendance yet.

The October meeting will be held in the Church of the Nazarene, and the November meeting at the Bethel Assembly of God.

The December song fest will be held at the Free Methodist Church, the January singspiration at the Christian and Missionary Alliance, and in February the Salvation Army will be host. In March the Reformed Church of the Comforter will be host and the schedule will then be completed once more with a singspiration at the Port Ewen Methodist Church.

The time for the hymn sings has been 9 to 10 p. m. on the second Sunday of the month, but there may be variations from time to time. These will be reported in the newspaper and through the bulletins of the cooperating churches.

The singspirations are sponsored by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association, with the president, the Rev. Dean Harrison, in charge.

Alliance Young People Attend Weekend Retreat

A number of young people from the Christian and Missionary Alliance are attending a Christian youth retreat this weekend at Camp Pinnacle, near Albany.

Leading the delegation are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cicio and their sons, Richard and Ronald. Mr. Cicio is the president of the Alliance Youth Fellowship.

Included among those attending are the Misses Grace Koch, Dean Shaver and Earline Rockwell. The young men include Jesse Johnson, George and Terry Bilyou, Robet Kirtson, Paul and David Koch.

The young people washed automobiles to gather the funds to make the trip, and going on their own without help from the youth society or the church.

Bloomington Church Announces Schedule

The Bloomingdale Reformed Church, Bloomington, announces that the service of worship, September through May, will begin at 11 a. m.

Sunday school, one class for all ages will begin at 9:45. The regular Sunday school session will begin later in September.

Karl Pederson, superintendent of school, announces a meeting of all teachers and leaders Sept. 8 at 8 p. m. at the manse. The meeting is to complete plans for the opening of the regular Sunday school session and to distribute the Reformed Church curriculum to teachers.

Newburgh WSCS Slates Seminar on Sept. 9

Newburgh District Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church is holding a one day educational seminar on September 9, at the Liberty Methodist Church in Liberty from 9:30 a. m. to 3 p. m.

All local officers are urged to attend, and bring a sandwich. Beverage and dessert will be served for a nominal fee. Nursery will be provided for those who bring small children.

Priest Overcomes Language Barrier Of Arctic People

By BRUCE LEVETT

URANIUM CITY, Saskatchewan (AP)—"Pray me, Father, for I have performed an evil action."

The Eskimo knelt in confession and, in his own tongue, began the words first set down by the Rev. Jean L'Helgouach.

Father L'Helgouach is an Oblate missionary who has spent three years translating the Roman Catholic Sunday Missal and other prayers and devotions into Eskimo. He used the opening words from the sacrament of confession as an example of the difficulty he faced.

"The English words are 'Bless me, Father, for I have sinned,' but the Eskimo has no word for bless and no word for sin. We used pray for bless and had to combine the Eskimo words for evil and action to denote sin."

The result was 406 pages of hymns and prayers entitled "Angadjutika," which translates literally as "my means of praying." It is used throughout the western Arctic and at many points in the East.

The book was illustrated by the Rev. Jean Colas, another missionary, who framed each picture with the same type crosses and swirls Eskimos use to decorate the hems of their garments.

A third priest, the Rev. Maurice Metayer, collaborated on the editorial work.

Today, Father L'Helgouach is in charge of the Church of Santa Barbara, named for the patron saint of miners, and for a second time finds himself far from the people he knows best and loves.

"I am still hoping to go back, but as the years go by the chances are less and less," he says.

"They do not usually send an old man up there."

Labor Department Issues Statement About Labor Day

New York State Industrial Commissioner M. P. Catherwood in a statement today paid tribute to those who have made special contributions to labor in a Labor Day message.

"Labor Day should remind us of the advantages we enjoy in our state and nation — a free land made strong by the united effort of many individuals. In this setting, the dignity and rights of labor have been advanced to a degree unsurpassed in any other land. This is a day to pay tribute to those men and women who have made special contributions to labor's progress.

"In New York State we are working vigorously to provide maximum opportunity for workers to make full use of their talents and contribute to the betterment of themselves, their families and neighbors, and their community. We are working for a labor market in which a man is treated justly and is judged by the worth of his work—and without discrimination. These are goals that must be pursued. That we have achieved much toward their attainment is a matter of deep satisfaction.

"To our youth especially, and to those who guide them, Labor Day 1961 should be a reminder. The working world of today and tomorrow demands better trained, better educated workers. Youth must pursue the opportunity of youth—education. The decision of our youngsters to take full advantage of the educational opportunities offered to them is a crucial decision. It is important to them personally. It is important also to our economy because the manpower requirements for future economic growth will be adequately met only if youth is properly trained today.

Flashing Purchase

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Electrifying is the word for the young lady who entered a photo supply shop and bought a roll of film and some flash bulbs.

"When she was about half way to the door, there was this funny flash," said Gene Kramer, a store employe. "She came back and said, 'My flash bulbs exploded.' The six bulbs on one side of the carton was burned out. The package was hot."

The puzzled Kramer, who gave the young woman new film and bulbs, said he had never heard of such a thing. Neither had the manufacturer of the bulbs.

Way Down Under

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Men's fashions from America are becoming very popular in Australia, says Harold Sackville, a Melbourne clothing manufacturer. "The ties of tradition with Britain are still strong," he says, "but American-style suits are popular for their comfort, better appearance and fit, and lighter weight construction suited to the Australian climate."

House Under Pressure to Restore Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was under pressure from the present—and the former—administration today to restore funds whacked from the foreign aid bill by the Appropriations Committee.

Acting in the face of President Kennedy's plea against further cuts, the committee Friday slashed $896 million from the foreign aid money bill.

In a statement from Gettysburg, Pa., former Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "These slashes are incomprehensible to me, especially in the light of present world tensions."

Hope for More

Several hours after the cuts were made, the State Department released a letter from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Addressed to Chairman Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., the letter urged the full committee to restore the reductions proposed by the subcommittee.

In making public the latter after the committee disregarded the appeal, State Department officials said they hoped the funds would be restored by the House itself.

The committee, adopting subcommittee recommendations, cut the current year's financing of foreign aid to $3,357,500 in new funds. The House and Senate Thursday in the authorization bill —which must be passed before funds can be appropriated—approved a ceiling of $4,253,500,000.

Fear Weakness Impression

In their letter, Rusk and McNamara argued that a cut in military aid "could all too easily be interpreted—among our Allies in the entire free world, and in the Kremlin and Peiping—to mean the United States' will and resolve have weakened. . ."

In his statement, Eisenhower said in part:

"I am gravely concerned to learn that after the long struggle over the financing method to be used in connection with the mutual security program and after we received assurances on the part of the Democrats and Republicans of continuing support of the program itself, an attempt is now under way to slash the program's appropriation. . ."

Dies of Injuries

PULASKI, N.Y. (AP) — John Geglia, 48, a construction worker from Watertown, was injured fatally Friday when struck by a truck while he was working on Interstate Highway 81 two miles north of here.

Technology, Weather Work Against Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says the weather and technology are working against the Kennedy administration's 1961 feed grain program. But even so, he adds, the program will be a success.

The program is designed to cut back rather sharply on production of corn and sorghum grains because of an accumulation of surpluses, most of it owned by the government. Farmers are being paid to reduce acreages at least 20 per cent.

But the weather for the corn crop has been nearly perfect, Freeman told a news conference Friday. This, plus heavy application of fertilizer and closer plant spacing on acres kept in production, is keeping the crop from being reduced as much as would have been the case under more nearly normal weather and lighter use of fertilizers.

The secretary predicted, however, that production of corn for grain will be around 650 million bushels less than would have been the case had the program not been in effect and farmers had planted a full average.

Consultant Will Begin Planning School Network

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An $18,500-a-year consultant to the State Education Department will begin work Thursday in planning an educational television network to link colleges and universities in the state.

The consultant, Dr. Glenn Starlin of the University of Oregon, was appointed Friday by Dr. James E. Allen Jr., state education commissioner.

The network's basic link is contemplated among units of the State University but private schools may participate, Allen said.

The 1961 Legislature appropriated $50,000 to finance the planning.

The consultant has been director of a television-teaching project in which several Oregon colleges participated.

Fares Going Up

The new fares will range from 30 cents to $2.30, depending upon distance traveled, compared with the present range of 25 cents to $2.15.

The Public Service Commission said today it had approved the increase, which is expected to give the company additional revenue of $1,250 a year.

Red Hook Infant Suffocates Under Chest of Drawers

An 18-month-old Red Hook girl died Friday afternoon of asphyxiation after a chest of drawers fell on her as she played in a room at her home.

State Police at Rhinebeck said Patricia Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Butler, 9 Harvard Street, Red Hook, was playing in the room when she pulled open the bottom drawer of the chest. As she stepped into the open drawer her weight caused the chest to upset and she was pinned on the floor.

Troopers said Dr. William Thompson, Rhinebeck, Dutchess County assistant medical examiner, gave a verdict of accidental death due to asphyxiation.

Local Man to Preside At District Moose Meet

Thaddeus Hudela, Kingston, will preside at a district meeting of the Fifth District Moose Order Association at Peekskill Sunday afternoon and night. He is vice president of the district.

Other officers who will attend are Thomas Lopez, second vice president, Ossining; Walter Keys, treasurer and Thomas Marinucci, former vice president, Poughkeepsie; William Hilton, first vice president, Newburgh; and Peter Fisher, secretary, Kingston.

The meeting will open at 3 p. m. with reports from delegates who attended the State Moose convention at Ithaca. The host lodge will provide lunch and entertainment.

Marinucci, former North Moose of Moose Legion 13, will speak.

Grandma Moses Makes Deal With Stethescope

HOOSICK FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Grandma Moses, who will be 101 Thursday, is playing tricks on her doctor.

She hid his stethoscope because he would not let her paint while she is in a rest home.

"You take me back to Eagle Bridge (Grandma's home) and you'll get back your stethoscope," Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson Moses insisted.

Dr. Clayton E. Shaw barred the paints while Grandma is in Hoosick Falls Health Center here. If she had them, the renowned primitive artist would use them but "she's going to get a complete rest," the doctor said.

Grandma gave back the stethoscope.

Lightning Causes $150,000 Mill Fire

JOHNSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A bolt of lightning set off a $150,000 fire early today that destroyed a sawmill in the Fulton County hamlet of Lassellsville, about 15 miles west of here.

No injuries were reported.

The mill was owned by Fred Clemons.

Lost with the mill were a truck parked inside, saws and other machinery, and a large amount of freshly-cut lumber.

The owner estimated the loss at $150,000.

IN THE Service

Completes Training

Marine Pfc. Patrick J. Colbert, son of Mrs. Ruth a Colbert of 118 Second Avenue, Kingston, completed annual rifle marksmanship training, Aug. 18, by firing the M-1 rifle at the Camp Lejeune, N. C., rifle range.

He is a member of the second Battalion, Sixth Marine Regiment, an infantry unit of the Second Marine Division.

Enlistees Begin Career

The largest single contingent of Navy enlistees since August 1960 when 135 men enlisted, were sworn into the Navy by Commander John J. Meagher Jr., officer-in-charge, Navy Recruiting Station, Albany, Wednesday.

Of the 97 men, the following three were from the Kingston area:

Michael J. Kennedy Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Kennedy Sr., 9 Prospect Street, Kingston; Gleason G. Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Gleason, Route 1, Box 74, Ulster Park, and Ronald C. Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cole of 72 Summer Street, Kingston.

Loan From Judge

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Stanley W. Forsack of Long Beach, N.Y., has reason to believe there's generosity as well as majesty in the law.

When Traffic Recorder John E. Holt-Harris Jr. fined him $35 on admitted counts of speeding and passing a red light, Forsack said he didn't have that much. The judge made it $30.

Forsack emptied his wallet — $29.

Russia's Words Used in Argument On Air Corridors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has used Russia's own words in an effort to prove false the Soviet claim that the air corridors to Berlin are for military use only.

The Reds have been contending that postwar Allied agreements provided for use of the air corridors over East Germany only to supply the Western military garrisons in West Berlin.

The U.S. government Friday made public a long-secret Soviet document stating that the three Western corridors had been alloted by four-power agreement, including the Russians, "for unrestricted flights by Allied aircraft over the Soviet zone of occupation."

The paper was presented by the Soviets at the 1947 Moscow foreign ministers meeting. U.S. officials described it as probably the most explicit written record showing Russian agreement to unhampered civilian and military traffic to Berlin.

The Western Allies look on the air corridors as their most important lifeline in maintaining a foothold in Berlin against Communist pressure.

3,693,000 Pupils Expected to Register

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A record 3,693,000 pupils are expected to enroll in New York State schools this month, Dr. James E. Allen Jr., state education commissioner, says.

The total—covering pupils from kindergarten through high school — would exceed last year's enrollment by 89,500.

Public schools — 2,843,000, including 996,000 in New York City.

Parochial schools — 850,000, about half of them in New York City.

Enrollments have set records annually since World War II and are expected to keep rising.

Former Regular Becomes Head Man of Cadets

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—James R. Ellis, who caught his share of Army discipline as an enlisted man, now is in a position to dispense a little himself.

Ellis, 24, of Birmingham, Ala., on Friday was named first captain and brigade commander of the Corps of Cadets at the U.S. Military Academy. He'll supervise corps discipline and administration during the 1961-62 academic year.

Ellis, who attended the University of Alabama, joined the regular Army and later was appointed to West Point.

Keating Backing Dairy Efforts To Save Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four dairy cooperatives from the New York-New Jersey market have the backing of Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., in efforts to halt what they say would be a disastrous drop in the price they receive for milk late this year.

Keating urged Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman Friday to grant the dairy groups' request to suspend a part of a federal marketing order in October, November and December.

Under the marketing order for the New York-New Jersey milkshed, the dairy groups say the price of a hundredweight of milk (46.5 quarts) would fall about 37 cents below 1960 levels. Suspension of part of the order would result in only half that decline, the dairymen contend.

The dairy groups appealed to Freeman July 25.

They are the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, the Dairymen's League, the Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives and the United Milk Producers.

Invest in Bonds, Stock To Put Cash Out of Reach

Q) "I have a problem of money — I'm sure I'm not alone with it. I'm married, and my husband's business is seasonal. I have $2,000 in my banking account and I would like to do something with it before it goes. How would you invest it? Like everyone else, I would like to make it a little larger and I also have to consider my children's future." J. G.

A) As you say, you're not alone with your problem. The difficulty is that if you invest this money, you will be left without any reserves for an emergency and this is a dangerous position to be in.

All stocks fluctuate to some extent. You shouldn't buy shares, no matter how sound, if there is any possibility that you might have to sell in a poor market to take care of sickness or any other crisis that may arise.

Your money, by all the rules, belongs in the bank. I think what you're trying to do, however, is to put in beyond the reach of temptation, so that it won't dribble away without much to show for it.

Under these circumstances, I'm going to suggest that you buy a $1,000 U. S. Treasury 4 per cent bond due in 1969 selling around par, which you can consider as a reserve.

Put the other $1,000 into 20 shares of Texaco, which I regard as one of the best and safest growth stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. These shares recently were split two-for-one.

"I would like to buy growth stocks. I'm in my early 30's and think I should start planning now. What do you think of Long Island Lighting?" H. P.

A) First let me congratulate you on your good common sense. By all means buy Long Island Lighting. It is an excellent growth utility.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Central Schools Open Wednesday

Schools of Highland Central district will open Wednesday. High school classes begin at 8:30 a. m., the grades and kindergarten start at 9 a. m.

Some changes have been made in the bus schedule, but for the most part it will be approximately the same as last year with the following exceptions: New Paltz Road from new Route 299 toward Ohioville will include both K-6 and 7-12 on the first trip in the morning. Also in some instances the bus that will come by at the same time, will be a different numbered bus from that of last year.

The kindergarten at Clintondale will be a full-day session instead of two half-day sessions as last year.

In the Highland school, there are two morning and two afternoon kindergarten classes.

The high school will have an eight period schedule rather than a seven period schedule as was the case last year. The new schedule has been so organized that K-6, 7-8 and 9-12 will eat lunch at different times and consequently relieve congestion in the cafeteria.

All teachers of the Highland School system will report at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the auditorium of the new elementary school in Marlboro. Marlboro teachers will also be in attendance and the meeting will be in charge of District Superintendent Clarence A. Johnson.

Following the meeting in Marlboro the Highland faculty will report back to Highland High School auditorium for further meetings in connection with the school opening.

New teachers and changes in teacher assignments include: Mrs. Virginia Bravata to third grade in place of Mrs. Matilda Halstead; Mrs. Halstead assigned to second grade in place of Miss Dorothy Churchill, retired; due to the dropping of one sixth grade, Mrs. Myra Ball has been assigned to the Fifth and Sixth Grades in Clintondale, replacing Mrs. Mary Mount, who in turn has been assigned to the Third and Fourth Grades in place of Mrs. Emma Zimmerman, resigned.

Miss Nancy Rubin, high school librarian; Mrs. Claire Wagoner, Ninth Grade Math.; Miss Miriam Ptalis, Eighth Grade English; Thomas Francis Valle, for junior high special class, and Robert Wattles, 10th Grade English.

The Cooperative Board of Education has hired the following personnel for part time assistance:

Mrs. Jean Fogerty, dental hygienist, will be in Marlboro the first term and in Highland the second term; Mrs. Verna Tichner, elementary librarian; Donald Crawford, physical education; Mrs. Elizabeth Moran, remedial reading; Dr. Norman Chansky, school psychologist; Miss Marilyn Spencer and Mrs. Lillian Lent, art; Martin Kelly, vocal music and Mrs. Rose Minadeo, school nurse. Highland shares the services of some of the faculty with other Ulster County schools.

Town Notes

Leonard Williams, physical director at the Training school for boys, reportedly injured an ankle while playing soft ball, and is at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Roberts spent Wednesday night at Oxbow lake.

Miss Diane Wadlin is now at Penfield where she will teach home economics in the junior hibh school.

Mrs. Peter Weyant has sold her home the former Fred Wilsey house on Hasbrouck Avenue, to Mrs. Amy Ericson who takes possession September 15. Mrs. Weyant will move to Long Beach, Calif., to join her daughter.

Mrs. John F. Wadlin and son, Jay Wadlin spent past weekend in Situate, Mass. with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Davis.

George Litts, Kisor Road, sailed from Holland September 2 for New York having completed a years study in Freiberg, Germany and spent a month in travel. Mr. Litts is a graduate of the local school and had two years in Drew Seminary before going abroad to study. He arrives on the 12th and after three days at home returns to Drew for his senior year. He has majored in speech and German preparing for a college professorship.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Symonds have returned to Harvard, Mass., after spending a week with the latter's mother, Mrs. John F. Wadlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Warren who lived on Christopher Avenue are moving to Mamaroneck, their former home.

Robert Brucklacher will teach 6th grade in the school at Grahamsville the coming year.

Rule Exception Wins Again

By OSWALD JACOBY

There is no telling how great a bridge player Louis Watson might have been. He was only 29 when he died and he had already won several championships and had established himself as one of the 10 best players in the world.

Louis' strongest point was that he was a perfect partner in bidding, play and postmortem analysis when he would try to take personal blame for any bad results.

Here is one of Louis' favorite hands. He sat East and while South was planning his play before playing from dummy to trick one, Louis had plenty of time to see that his partner's lead had been the top of nothing. A count of his own high card and dummy's points left one jack as the most West could hold.

Therefore, Louis played the ten of spades. Not only did this play violate the rule of third hand high, but it also was a false card since it denied the nine.

South won the trick and led a club which Louis won. Now Louis led the jack of spades.

South went into a long huddle. He finally decided that West's opening lead had been a normal fourth best lead from a suit headed by ace, nine, six, five and that if West also held the four spot the jack would be Louis' only remaining spade.

So South played low, whereupon Louis ran off the rest of the spades and set an iron clad contract.

House Under Pressure to Restore Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was under pressure from the present—and the former—administration today to restore funds whacked from the foreign aid bill by the Appropriations Committee.

Acting in the face of President Kennedy's plea against further cuts, the committee Friday slashed $896 million from the foreign aid money bill.

In a statement from Gettysburg, Pa., former Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "These slashes are incomprehensible to me, especially in the light of present world tensions."

Hope for More

Several hours after the cuts were made, the State Department released a letter from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. Addressed to Chairman Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., the letter urged the full committee to restore the reductions proposed by the subcommittee.

In making public the latter after the committee disregarded the appeal, State Department officials said they hoped the funds would be restored by the House itself.

The committee, adopting subcommittee recommendations, cut the current year's financing of foreign aid to $3,357,500 in new funds. The House and Senate Thursday in the authorization bill —which must be passed before funds can be appropriated—approved a ceiling of $4,253,500,000.

Fear Weakness Impression

In their letter, Rusk and McNamara argued that a cut in military aid "could all too easily be interpreted—among our Allies in the entire free world, and in the Kremlin and Peiping—to mean the United States' will and resolve have weakened. . ."

In his statement, Eisenhower said in part:

"I am gravely concerned to learn that after the long struggle over the financing method to be used in connection with the mutual security program and after we received assurances on the part of the Democrats and Republicans of continuing support of the program itself, an attempt is now under way to slash the program's appropriation. . ."

Dies of Injuries

PULASKI, N.Y. (AP) — John Geglia, 48, a construction worker from Watertown, was injured fatally Friday when struck by a truck while he was working on Interstate Highway 81 two miles north of here.

Technology, Weather Work Against Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman says the weather and technology are working against the Kennedy administration's 1961 feed grain program. But even so, he adds, the program will be a success.

The program is designed to cut back rather sharply on production of corn and sorghum grains because of an accumulation of surpluses, most of it owned by the government. Farmers are being paid to reduce acreages at least 20 per cent.

But the weather for the corn crop has been nearly perfect, Freeman told a news conference Friday. This, plus heavy application of fertilizer and closer plant spacing on acres kept in production, is keeping the crop from being reduced as much as would have been the case under more nearly normal weather and lighter use of fertilizers.

The secretary predicted, however, that production of corn for grain will be around 650 million bushels less than would have been the case had the program not been in effect and farmers had planted a full average.

Consultant Will Begin Planning School Network

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An $18,500-a-year consultant to the State Education Department will begin work Thursday in planning an educational television network to link colleges and universities in the state.

The consultant, Dr. Glenn Starlin of the University of Oregon, was appointed Friday by Dr. James E. Allen Jr., state education commissioner.

The network's basic link is contemplated among units of the State University but private schools may participate, Allen said.

The 1961 Legislature appropriated $50,000 to finance the planning.

The consultant has been director of a television-teaching project in which several Oregon colleges participated.

Fares Going Up

The new fares will range from 30 cents to $2.30, depending upon distance traveled, compared with the present range of 25 cents to $2.15.

The Public Service Commission said today it had approved the increase, which is expected to give the company additional revenue of $1,250 a year.

Red Hook Infant Suffocates Under Chest of Drawers

An 18-month-old Red Hook girl died Friday afternoon of asphyxiation after a chest of drawers fell on her as she played in a room at her home.

State Police at Rhinebeck said Patricia Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Butler, 9 Harvard Street, Red Hook, was playing in the room when she pulled open the bottom drawer of the chest. As she stepped into the open drawer her weight caused the chest to upset and she was pinned on the floor.

Troopers said Dr. William Thompson, Rhinebeck, Dutchess County assistant medical examiner, gave a verdict of accidental death due to asphyxiation.

Local Man to Preside At District Moose Meet

Thaddeus Hudela, Kingston, will preside at a district meeting of the Fifth District Moose Order Association at Peekskill Sunday afternoon and night. He is vice president of the district.

Other officers who will attend are Thomas Lopez, second vice president, Ossining; Walter Keys, treasurer and Thomas Marinucci, former vice president, Poughkeepsie; William Hilton, first vice president, Newburgh; and Peter Fisher, secretary, Kingston.

The meeting will open at 3 p. m. with reports from delegates who attended the State Moose convention at Ithaca. The host lodge will provide lunch and entertainment.

Marinucci, former North Moose of Moose Legion 13, will speak.

Grandma Moses Makes Deal With Stethescope

HOOSICK FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Grandma Moses, who will be 101 Thursday, is playing tricks on her doctor.

She hid his stethoscope because he would not let her paint while she is in a rest home.

"You take me back to Eagle Bridge (Grandma's home) and you'll get back your stethoscope," Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson Moses insisted.

Dr. Clayton E. Shaw barred the paints while Grandma is in Hoosick Falls Health Center here. If she had them, the renowned primitive artist would use them but "she's going to get a complete rest," the doctor said.

Grandma gave back the stethoscope.

Lightning Causes $150,000 Mill Fire

JOHNSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A bolt of lightning set off a $150,000 fire early today that destroyed a sawmill in the Fulton County hamlet of Lassellsville, about 15 miles west of here.

No injuries were reported.

The mill was owned by Fred Clemons.

Lost with the mill were a truck parked inside, saws and other machinery, and a large amount of freshly-cut lumber.

The owner estimated the loss at $150,000.

IN THE Service

Completes Training

Marine Pfc. Patrick J. Colbert, son of Mrs. Ruth a Colbert of 118 Second Avenue, Kingston, completed annual rifle marksmanship training, Aug. 18, by firing the M-1 rifle at the Camp Lejeune, N. C., rifle range.

He is a member of the second Battalion, Sixth Marine Regiment, an infantry unit of the Second Marine Division.

Enlistees Begin Career

The largest single contingent of Navy enlistees since August 1960 when 135 men enlisted, were sworn into the Navy by Commander John J. Meagher Jr., officer-in-charge, Navy Recruiting Station, Albany, Wednesday.

Of the 97 men, the following three were from the Kingston area:

Michael J. Kennedy Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Kennedy Sr., 9 Prospect Street, Kingston; Gleason G. Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Gleason, Route 1, Box 74, Ulster Park, and Ronald C. Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cole of 72 Summer Street, Kingston.

Loan From Judge

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Stanley W. Forsack of Long Beach, N.Y., has reason to believe there's generosity as well as majesty in the law.

When Traffic Recorder John E. Holt-Harris Jr. fined him $35 on admitted counts of speeding and passing a red light, Forsack said he didn't have that much. The judge made it $30.

Forsack emptied his wallet — $29.

Russia's Words Used in Argument On Air Corridors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has used Russia's own words in an effort to prove false the Soviet claim that the air corridors to Berlin are for military use only.

The Reds have been contending that postwar Allied agreements provided for use of the air corridors over East Germany only to supply the Western military garrisons in West Berlin.

The U.S. government Friday made public a long-secret Soviet document stating that the three Western corridors had been alloted by four-power agreement, including the Russians, "for unrestricted flights by Allied aircraft over the Soviet zone of occupation."

The paper was presented by the Soviets at the 1947 Moscow foreign ministers meeting. U.S. officials described it as probably the most explicit written record showing Russian agreement to unhampered civilian and military traffic to Berlin.

The Western Allies look on the air corridors as their most important lifeline in maintaining a foothold in Berlin against Communist pressure.

3,693,000 Pupils Expected to Register

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A record 3,693,000 pupils are expected to enroll in New York State schools this month, Dr. James E. Allen Jr., state education commissioner, says.

The total—covering pupils from kindergarten through high school — would exceed last year's enrollment by 89,500.

Public schools — 2,843,000, including 996,000 in New York City.

Parochial schools — 850,000, about half of them in New York City.

Enrollments have set records annually since World War II and are expected to keep rising.

Former Regular Becomes Head Man of Cadets

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—James R. Ellis, who caught his share of Army discipline as an enlisted man, now is in a position to dispense a little himself.

Ellis, 24, of Birmingham, Ala., on Friday was named first captain and brigade commander of the Corps of Cadets at the U.S. Military Academy. He'll supervise corps discipline and administration during the 1961-62 academic year.

Ellis, who attended the University of Alabama, joined the regular Army and later was appointed to West Point.

Keating Backing Dairy Efforts To Save Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four dairy cooperatives from the New York-New Jersey market have the backing of Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., in efforts to halt what they say would be a disastrous drop in the price they receive for milk late this year.

Keating urged Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman Friday to grant the dairy groups' request to suspend a part of a federal marketing order in October, November and December.

Under the marketing order for the New York-New Jersey milkshed, the dairy groups say the price of a hundredweight of milk (46.5 quarts) would fall about 37 cents below 1960 levels. Suspension of part of the order would result in only half that decline, the dairymen contend.

The dairy groups appealed to Freeman July 25.

They are the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, the Dairymen's League, the Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives and the United Milk Producers.

Invest in Bonds, Stock To Put Cash Out of Reach

Q) "I have a problem of money — I'm sure I'm not alone with it. I'm married, and my husband's business is seasonal. I have $2,000 in my banking account and I would like to do something with it before it goes. How would you invest it? Like everyone else, I would like to make it a little larger and I also have to consider my children's future." J. G.

A) As you say, you're not alone with your problem. The difficulty is that if you invest this money, you will be left without any reserves for an emergency and this is a dangerous position to be in.

All stocks fluctuate to some extent. You shouldn't buy shares, no matter how sound, if there is any possibility that you might have to sell in a poor market to take care of sickness or any other crisis that may arise.

Your money, by all the rules, belongs in the bank. I think what you're trying to do, however, is to put in beyond the reach of temptation, so that it won't dribble away without much to show for it.

Under these circumstances, I'm going to suggest that you buy a $1,000 U. S. Treasury 4 per cent bond due in 1969 selling around par, which you can consider as a reserve.

Put the other $1,000 into 20 shares of Texaco, which I regard as one of the best and safest growth stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. These shares recently were split two-for-one.

"I would like to buy growth stocks. I'm in my early 30's and think I should start planning now. What do you think of Long Island Lighting?" H. P.

A) First let me congratulate you on your good common sense. By all means buy Long Island Lighting. It is an excellent growth utility.

Central Schools Open Wednesday

Schools of Highland Central district will open Wednesday. High school classes begin at 8:30 a. m., the grades and kindergarten start at 9 a. m.

Some changes have been made in the bus schedule, but for the most part it will be approximately the same as last year with the following exceptions: New Paltz Road from new Route 299 toward Ohioville will include both K-6 and 7-12 on the first trip in the morning. Also in some instances the bus that will come by at the same time, will be a different numbered bus from that of last year.

The kindergarten at Clintondale will be a full-day session instead of two half-day sessions as last year.

In the Highland school, there are two morning and two afternoon kindergarten classes.

The high school will have an eight period schedule rather than a seven period schedule as was the case last year. The new schedule has been so organized that K-6, 7-8 and 9-12 will eat lunch at different times and consequently relieve congestion in the cafeteria.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 2, 1961

The Freeman will not be published Monday, September 4 in observance of Labor Day.

LABOR DAY IS FREEDOM'S DAY

Labor Day is a uniquely American holiday. Other nations may have days to honor labor, but they're not the same. May Day, for example, is a worker's holiday in Communist lands, but it is a holiday in honor of the state, not the worker.

Parades and organized celebrations are the exception in modern America. The holiday has grown into a private affair, a family day for picnics and outings or backyard loafing, a quiet end to summer.

Does this bespeak softness and selfishness in the American people? The flag should be flown on this day, but how many have you seen on front lawns or porches? Is it just a pause during the mad capitalistic scramble for money and material possessions?

Or, on the other hand, is it the proper way for a free people to honor a system under which they, themselves (not the state), have provided more people with more of the good things of life than ever before in history — not 20 years from now but today?

Crucial months lie ahead. The American people have been called on for unusual peacetime sacrifices. They may be called upon for more, and they will respond again, if need be. Those who conclude that the patio hammock is the only American symbol do so at their peril. Rather, it is an indication that our citizens are facing the danger and sacrifice with a quiet confidence that proceeds from an inner strength.

In purely domestic affairs, other challenges face the country. The paradox of pockets of jobless in the midst of growing employment and business expansion is still an unsolved problem. The phenomenon of automation will continue to cause some dislocation. Creeping inflation remains an economic threat.

Recognizing this, it seems only fitting that Labor Day be observed by the individual taking advantage of a lull in the "honest vigor of his toil" and return with even more resolution to his daily stint.

In the struggle with totalitarianism, with its absolute control over production, consumption and goals, the manner in which America meets its own problems is as important as the number of its troops or missiles. Not everyone can don a uniform to meet the external challenge, but all can contribute in some way to America's strength at home.

That is the importance of Labor Day, U.S.A. It is more than a day to honor working men (both employer and employed) and the benefits which their labors have provided. It is a day to make a renewed determination to show that it is in freedom that the good life finds its home. It cannot be decreed by the state.

Americans, as in the past, have the freedom to prove it or not.

East Berliners who objected to the barbed wire were arrested for "insulting the state." You'd think the state would be used to insults by now.

ORPHANS OF NEGLECT

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates there are about six million handicapped children of school age who need special training. They include the blind, or nearly blind; the deaf, or hard of hearing; those with speech defects; the emotionally maladjusted; the mentally retarded; those severely crippled and others with special problems.

Secretary Abraham Ribicoff notes that every state now offers some special educational opportunity for handicapped children, yet four and a half million of them are not receiving this benefit. In many instances it is because their parents are not aware that it is available.

BRAZIL

The Soviet forces are moving into the Americas as rapidly as they can. They have laid down a Red Satellite in Cuba; they have built a Communist enclave in British Guiana; they are rapidly moving into Venezuela and unless we do something about it, they will succeed in the Dominican Republic and Haiti.

But which Communists are these? Cuba started with the influence of Soviet Russia in support of Castro, but gradually the Chinese Communists are moving into every country of Latin America. Not being white, as the Russians are, the Chinese seem to belong in a brown environment. They do not carry over any of the antipathies which the mixed peoples of Latin America have against the white peoples. They do not have a history of assumed superiority, although throughout Chinese history, the sons of Han have always looked upon themselves as the center of the universe.

Chinese have been settling in Latin American countries for more than a century. Jamaica, Trinidad and other Caribbean countries have large Chinese populations. The older families have become assimilated into the general population by intermarriage both with whites and Negroes.

There is a considerable East Indian element in some Latin American countries. Dr. Jagan, who is now taking over British Guiana, is an East Indian married to a Jewess from Chicago.

The Brazilian population is very mixed but it has not, in the past, had a large Chinese population. The Chinese influence is new and would rather indicate that the Communists and left-wing liberals in Brazil prefer to avoid a conflict with Catholicism and therefore it is necessary to establish a relationship with Red China rather than with Soviet Russia.

Brazil is a Roman Catholic country, particularly among the remaining Portuguese families. There are also a number of Italian families in Brazil who have established significant economic and social positions for themselves. The basic population of Brazil is Indian with an overlay of Portuguese. As the Portuguese have never accepted racial discrimination anywhere on Earth, intermarriage has been constant over the whole of Brazil's known history. However, Brazil, up to now, has been solidly Roman Catholic, rejecting non-Catholic ways of life.

The country is extraordinarily poor, although it possesses surprisingly important natural resources, few of which have been adequately developed. Its great export crop has been coffee, Brazil taking the place in world markets which had earlier been held by Mocca and Java. The United States, during the war years, saved the economy of Brazil by tacitly accepting a Brazilian price control which gave Brazil an enormous advantage.

However, this advantage was spent in an excellent idea if carried out over a century. It has been attempted in a few years. The idea was the building of the city of Brasilia, as a new capital, thus opening up the vast Amazon region to economic development. The cost was enormous, altogether beyond Brazil's capacity. The results could not be immediately satisfactory.

The concept is sound in the sense that whereas Brazil is an enormous country with great resources, it is developed in a narrow area of limited productivity. The opening up of the Amazon hinterland would be advantageous not only to Brazil but to the world. But it is such a task as could not be done overnight. Brazil's politicians had no time and the enterprise resulted in the crippling of Brazil's economy, in bringing the value of Brazilian currency down to a ridiculously inflated figure.

The result has been general dissatisfaction. Poverty became more drastic. In every situation such as this, a combination of revolutionary groups and the soldiers produces a basic revolution which can not be readily passed over.

This is what Brazil is going through now. A combination of labor and peasant leaders with military men having taken control of the government. It so happens that the Brazilian left-wing group has allied itself to Red China and should they gain control it would not be long before the country would be full of Red Chinese advisers and experts. The new revolutions are very swift in their seizure of control, unless resisted by the military or by external forces. They import the physical means for dominating a people from Czechoslovakia and Poland and are soon in a position to hold their territory against their own people. This could happen in Brazil during the next three months — if the United States does nothing about it.

The letter from Bob's classmate said, "The bay is only 25 feet from the house. Some people here have cruisers but Pop and I still use the dinghy for fishing. As to the gals—Boy! Mom says to plan to stay at least three weeks. . . ."

After reading his letter, Bob's mother said nervously, "It will cost money—your fare and the new things you'll need. You know how your Dad is about money. . . ."

And sure enough, Bob's father exploded. Asked for the $50 Bob needed to finance his visit, he erupted into a speech. He spoke of the state of world politics that was giving his customers the spending jitters; of the local lake that had always been good enough for other boys' fishing; of the ponderous responsibilities of today's fathers and his own hardworking summers on the farm of his boyhood. He went on and on until Bob said, "Ok. Ok. Forget it. . . ."

But of course his father couldn't forget it, because we can never really forget situations we have twisted all out of shape. We try to; but they just collect up in our memories like a swarm of elusive buzzing mosquitoes.

However, despite his discomfort, Bob's father will not look at the fact that the $50 needed to finance that joyous three weeks' visit isn't very much more than it will cost him to support Bob at home.

Some of us just can't be reasonable when children ask us for money. Some of us, like Bob's father, must respond with instant and defending belligerence. In Bob's request we can see not just a question to which we can answer "Yes" or "No" but an inference that we are weak, a secret assumption that we're an "easy mark," a fool without backbone, easily exploited, easily abused.

So we have to make big speeches to let Bob know how strong we are, how we have to fight big odds, how we tossed hay and otherwise overworked in our own noble childhoods. We can't consider the reasonableness of what he's asked us at all, so anxious are we to make the point that we are tough, strong people not easily manipulated by anyone.

The person who needs to be convinced of this is, of course ourselves. If we are sure that we're not easily cheated out of what's due us, we don't lose our tempers when children ask us for money.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Neither the United Auto Workers nor the automobile manufacturers appealed for Kennedy administration help in the current new contract negotiations.

This is in the pattern of recent auto wage talks—argue right up to the old contract expiration date, then settle. Aside from the Chrysler strike over the pension system in 1948 there hasn't been an auto strike since 1946.

THE GENERAL HOPE in Washington is that this year's contracts can be made without more than a token strike, and also without intervention by the administration.

There were rumors all over the place that Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg would step into the picture when he went to Detroit to make a speech. But he stayed only overnight, didn't go near the auto negotiations and came right back to Washington to become involved in, of all things, the Metropolitan Opera strike.

This has raised the question of just what Kennedy administration policy on strikes is going to be. Which situations will it stay out of and in which will it intervene?

In general, the Kennedy administration wants to be active in promoting better labor relations. With a secretary of labor who was formerly CIO and Steelworkers legal counsel, there was some early concern that the administration would be too pro-labor. But the record of the first seven months shows it has not plunged into every strike.

FACT-FINDING BOARDS have been named to get transportation workers back on the job in strikes by AFL-CIO yardmasters, New York ferry and tug workers, flight engineers' tie-up of seven airlines and machinists' union tie-up of one airline.

In the strike of five maritime unions which idled all U. S. shipping, the administration had to fall back on a Taft-Hartley injunction which expires Sept. 20.

In no case has the administration named fact-finding boards where they were not wanted by both sides, as former President Truman did in the 1949 steel strike.

Goldberg's missile sites labor commission has cracked down on overemployment, make-work practices, excessive overtime, wildcat and jurisdictional strikes which affected defense production.

But in numerous local strikes like that of the New York concrete workers, the decision has been made for the federal government to stay out. State and local mediators have settled them. That's the way they want it.

THE METROPOLITAN OPERA STRIKE was also local, but it had some national and international angles. The White House began to get protests from radio and TV fans.

And from American tourists abroad, messages began to come in that if little countries like Poland could have opera in seven cities, the United States should have it in one. The President expressed concern and Goldberg agreed to arbitrate if he was acceptable to both sides.

One of Kennedy's early acts in this field was to name an advisory commission on labor-management relations. Goldberg is chairman this year, Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges will chair it in 1962.

The commission has met four times, which is considered a record for such groups, and it will meet again in September. It has a pretty sophisticated attitude. Nobody has proposed repeal of Taft-Hartley or putting all unions under the antitrust laws.

The group has been broken down into a number of subcommittees with outside technical experts to take up questions such as automation, full employment, industrial peace, economic growth, wage and price policies.

Reports will be sent to the President this fall. Later, all will be made public. The hope is that they will provide the basis for new labor relations policies and possibly legislative proposals to be submitted to Congress next year.

So They Say..

This year you can't kill a villain. The worst you can do is wound him. . . . If this goes along any further, our fight scenes with the heavies will be hair-pulling and scratching.

Continue to Buy Water from NYC Village Advised

The village of New Paltz should continue to supplement its water supply from the New York City aqueduct according to the engineers report given at the village board meeting this week.

Engineers Augustus Brinnier and Christus Larios have been conducting an extensive study of the water supply problem in the village. As a result of their study they found the most practical and inexpensive solution was to continue purchasing water from New York City in addition to the existing village reservoirs.

The engineers recommended abandoning the existing wells near the village which have a high carbon dioxide and iron content which is highly objectionable. After extensive tests of these wells to remove the iron and carbon dioxide, the engineers estimated that a treatment plant to make the water usable would cost some $75,000 to $80,000.

The New Paltz Water District is now using approximately 220,000 gallons per day. The village reservoirs not being adequate, the village taps the New York City Aqueduct to make a sufficient supply. This water is purchased from the city by New Paltz. At many times during the use of the City of New York water, pumping operations are difficult due to the limited capacity of the present feeder line from the aqueduct to the distribution system.

The engineer's report suggested that the village improve its feeder line by frequent flushings and by replacing the six inch line for a short distance west of the village to an eight inch line, and an addition to the existing chlorinator house at the aqueduct, which the board has planned to build, a pump be installed to raise the gradient and provide a better flow of water.

The estimated cost of these improvements would be far less than installing and operating an iron removal plant at the wells.

The engineers had considered the possibility of using water from the Wallkill River. The estimated cost of constructing a river water treatment plant would be approximately $300,000 In viewing the anticipated operating costs along with the amortization and interest on such a large capital expenditure it was deemed that this source of supply should not be given any further consideration at this time.

The report concluded with the recommendation that the village allocate $5,000 in the next five years to hire "expert ground water geologists to survey the Wallkill Valley area for the purpose of finding sources of ground water that would not require treatment."

Called of God will be the sermon topic Sunday by the Rev. G. J. Wullschleger at the Dutch Reformed Church. This will be the final service at the 10 o'clock hour. Sunday, Sept. 10, the church school will re-open at 9:30 a. m. and morning worship service will return to the customary hour of 11.

Members of the Reformed Church will attend an all day retreat Saturday, Sept. 16, at the Lake Minnewaska Cliff House. The speaker of the day will be Dr. Wallace N. Jamison, professor of church history at the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N. J.

Dr. Jamison will speak on The Challenge of the Laymen Today. The day will be a quiet day of retreat for the purpose of study, recreation, and worship together and individually.

The spiritual life group of the Reformed Church will meet in the Youth Fellowship Lounge of the Education Building on Tuesday, Sept. 5, at 7:30 p. m.

This year's theme for the church school which re-opens Sunday, Sept. 10, will be The Holy Scriptures. A staff of twenty-nine teachers, and nineteen substitutes has been lined up for the year and will gather for an orientation night 8 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 6 in the Fireside Room of the Education Building.

On the following four Wednesday nights, Sept. 13, 20, 27, and Oct. 4, the teachers and substitutes will meet for a teacher's study group for the purpose of learning, on the adult level, what they will be teaching on the departmental level. The study group will study the Authorship of the Scriptures, the Bible as the Written Word, and How to Read the Bible. All other interested persons may attend.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Someday local history will record our passing from free hitching posts, to five cent parking meters. Now the penny meters belong in history, yet some folks, it is said, still put in pennies and wonder why they do not get a "Thank You" from the meter moving off the "Violation" sign.

Anyway in the Coloroto Magazine of the New York Sunday News of Aug. 27, on page 19, it seems the merchants got together in North Park, Calif., and made the city remove some 600 meters. The pipes were left, and so the merchants bought iron-wrought holders and attractive wooden buckets of flowers and inserted them where the meters were. One picture shows a businesswoman smilingly watering one of those flower buckets in the meter pipe stand.

Going back to June, 1855, issue of the Kingston Journal which was given to me by Attorney Peter H. Harp of New Paltz, I find a "Large Brick Building, corner Wall and Main Streets, commonly called the Village Hall was going up for public auction on Monday, 2nd of July at 2 p. m. unless previously disposed of. Terms made known on the day of sale, by order of the consistory. For further particulars, enquire of D. M. Kimball, Church Warden, Kingston, June 4, 1855."

Following in the advertisements: "Dress making. Removal. Mrs. Mesick having removed to East Front Street, three doors from St. James will be happy to see her old customers and friends. Dresses cut and made to order. The latest French patterns received every month. Also, all kinds of children's clothes made to order. Elizabeth Mesick . . . Wanted: Girls to learn the dressmaking business."

This Kingston newspaper of 1855 may be of interest to those who go in for antiques. One advertisement of China Hall, 330 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, owner J. Ransom writes: "Great attractions. The exhibition pattern of the white stone China, for which a premium was awarded at the London Exhibition, has just arrived from Minnesota, and I am now able to sell complete sets at extremely low prices. For strength and durability, it has never been equalled, and for cleanliness and beauty it has never been surpassed." No doubt one large old white stone China dish cost today as much as a whole new set cost then.

This also gives one an idea when white stone China was popular, in 1855. This China Hall in Poughkeepsie also had on sale, a "very large assortment of gilt, rosewood and mahogany frame looking-glasses." They also advise: "Country merchants supplied at New York prices, and no charge for packing." I just wonder, what is the difference between ironstone and white stone China. I must ask an antique dealer. I know tureen dishes with cover seemed to be very popular several years ago. No doubt, made from this heavy china they kept the soup hot.

I can see they had a "do it yourself" ad in those days in Kingston, Sharp and Sahler, a hardware store, at the "Sign of the Padlock" on North Front Street, had under "house and cabinet trimmings," such items as "American door locks of every description, with silver plated, mineral and brass knobs, at manufacture prices. Screws, brads, tacks and finishing nals . . ."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 2, 1961

The Freeman will not be published Monday, September 4 in observance of Labor Day.

LABOR DAY IS FREEDOM'S DAY

Labor Day is a uniquely American holiday. Other nations may have days to honor labor, but they're not the same. May Day, for example, is a worker's holiday in Communist lands, but it is a holiday in honor of the state, not the worker.

Parades and organized celebrations are the exception in modern America. The holiday has grown into a private affair, a family day for picnics and outings or backyard loafing, a quiet end to summer.

Does this bespeak softness and selfishness in the American people? The flag should be flown on this day, but how many have you seen on front lawns or porches? Is it just a pause during the mad capitalistic scramble for money and material possessions?

Or, on the other hand, is it the proper way for a free people to honor a system under which they, themselves (not the state), have provided more people with more of the good things of life than ever before in history — not 20 years from now but today?

Crucial months lie ahead. The American people have been called on for unusual peacetime sacrifices. They may be called upon for more, and they will respond again, if need be. Those who conclude that the patio hammock is the only American symbol do so at their peril. Rather, it is an indication that our citizens are facing the danger and sacrifice with a quiet confidence that proceeds from an inner strength.

In purely domestic affairs, other challenges face the country. The paradox of pockets of jobless in the midst of growing employment and business expansion is still an unsolved problem. The phenomenon of automation will continue to cause some dislocation. Creeping inflation remains an economic threat.

Recognizing this, it seems only fitting that Labor Day be observed by the individual taking advantage of a lull in the "honest vigor of his toil" and return with even more resolution to his daily stint.

In the struggle with totalitarianism, with its absolute control over production, consumption and goals, the manner in which America meets its own problems is as important as the number of its troops or missiles. Not everyone can don a uniform to meet the external challenge, but all can contribute in some way to America's strength at home.

That is the importance of Labor Day, U.S.A. It is more than a day to honor working men (both employer and employed) and the benefits which their labors have provided. It is a day to make a renewed determination to show that it is in freedom that the good life finds its home. It cannot be decreed by the state.

Americans, as in the past, have the freedom to prove it or not.

East Berliners who objected to the barbed wire were arrested for "insulting the state." You'd think the state would be used to insults by now.

ORPHANS OF NEGLECT

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates there are about six million handicapped children of school age who need special training. They include the blind, or nearly blind; the deaf, or hard of hearing; those with speech defects; the emotionally maladjusted; the mentally retarded; those severely crippled and others with special problems.

Secretary Abraham Ribicoff notes that every state now offers some special educational opportunity for handicapped children, yet four and a half million of them are not receiving this benefit. In many instances it is because their parents are not aware that it is available.

Says Mr. Ribicoff: "It seems to me that these parents might well spend (time) finding out what special help their school systems and state departments of education are prepared to give."

An arrested gambler says he makes his living that way simply because he's interested in gambling. But it's even money that when he takes his cut the principal means more to him than the interest.

But the record of the first seven months shows it has not plunged into every strike.

FACT-FINDING BOARDS have been named to get transportation workers back on the job in strikes by AFL-CIO yardmasters, New York ferry and tug workers, flight engineers' tie-up of seven airlines and machinists' union tie-up of one airline.

In the strike of five maritime unions which idled all U. S. shipping, the administration had to fall back on a Taft-Hartley injunction which expires Sept. 20.

In no case has the administration named fact-finding boards where they were not wanted by both sides, as former President Truman did in the 1949 steel strike.

Goldberg's missile sites labor commission has cracked down on overemployment, make-work practices, excessive overtime, wildcat and jurisdictional strikes which affected defense production.

But in numerous local strikes like that of the New York concrete workers, the decision has been made for the federal government to stay out. State and local mediators have settled them. That's the way they want it.

THE METROPOLITAN OPERA STRIKE was also local, but it had some national and international angles. The White House began to get protests from radio and TV fans.

And from American tourists abroad, messages began to come in that if little countries like Poland could have opera in seven cities, the United States should have it in one. The President expressed concern and Goldberg agreed to arbitrate if he was acceptable to both sides.

One of Kennedy's early acts in this field was to name an advisory commission on labor-management relations. Goldberg is chairman this year, Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges will chair it in 1962.

The commission has met four times, which is considered a record for such groups, and it will meet again in September. It has a pretty sophisticated attitude. Nobody has proposed repeal of Taft-Hartley or putting all unions under the antitrust laws.

The group has been broken down into a number of subcommittees with outside technical experts to take up questions such as automation, full employment, industrial peace, economic growth, wage and price policies.

Reports will be sent to the President this fall. Later, all will be made public. The hope is that they will provide the basis for new labor relations policies and possibly legislative proposals to be submitted to Congress next year.

Continue to Buy Water from NYC Village Advised

The village of New Paltz should continue to supplement its water supply from the New York City aqueduct according to the engineers report given at the village board meeting this week.

Engineers Augustus Brinnier and Christus Larios have been conducting an extensive study of the water supply problem in the village. As a result of their study they found the most practical and inexpensive solution was to continue purchasing water from New York City in addition to the existing village reservoirs.

The engineers recommended abandoning the existing wells near the village which have a high carbon dioxide and iron content which is highly objectionable. After extensive tests of these wells to remove the iron and carbon dioxide, the engineers estimated that a treatment plant to make the water usable would cost some $75,000 to $80,000.

The New Paltz Water District is now using approximately 220,000 gallons per day. The village reservoirs not being adequate, the village taps the New York City Aqueduct to make a sufficient supply. This water is purchased from the city by New Paltz. At many times during the use of the City of New York water, pumping operations are difficult due to the limited capacity of the present feeder line from the aqueduct to the distribution system.

The engineer's report suggested that the village improve its feeder line by frequent flushings and by replacing the six inch line for a short distance west of the village to an eight inch line, and an addition to the existing chlorinator house at the aqueduct, which the board has planned to build, a pump be installed to raise the gradient and provide a better flow of water.

The estimated cost of these improvements would be far less than installing and operating an iron removal plant at the wells.

The engineers had considered the possibility of using water from the Wallkill River. The estimated cost of constructing a river water treatment plant would be approximately $300,000 In viewing the anticipated operating costs along with the amortization and interest on such a large capital expenditure it was deemed that this source of supply should not be given any further consideration at this time.

The report concluded with the recommendation that the village allocate $5,000 in the next five years to hire "expert ground water geologists to survey the Wallkill Valley area for the purpose of finding sources of ground water that would not require treatment."

Called of God will be the sermon topic Sunday by the Rev. G. J. Wullschleger at the Dutch Reformed Church. This will be the final service at the 10 o'clock hour. Sunday, Sept. 10, the church school will re-open at 9:30 a. m. and morning worship service will return to the customary hour of 11.

Members of the Reformed Church will attend an all day retreat Saturday, Sept. 16, at the Lake Minnewaska Cliff House. The speaker of the day will be Dr. Wallace N. Jamison, professor of church history at the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, New Brunswick, N. J.

Dr. Jamison will speak on The Challenge of the Laymen Today. The day will be a quiet day of retreat for the purpose of study, recreation, and worship together and individually.

The spiritual life group of the Reformed Church will meet in the Youth Fellowship Lounge of the Education Building on Tuesday, Sept. 5, at 7:30 p. m.

This year's theme for the church school which re-opens Sunday, Sept. 10, will be The Holy Scriptures. A staff of twenty-nine teachers, and nineteen substitutes has been lined up for the year and will gather for an orientation night 8 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 6 in the Fireside Room of the Education Building.

On the following four Wednesday nights, Sept. 13, 20, 27, and Oct. 4, the teachers and substitutes will meet for a teacher's study group for the purpose of learning, on the adult level, what they will be teaching on the departmental level. The study group will study the Authorship of the Scriptures, the Bible as the Written Word, and How to Read the Bible. All other interested persons may attend.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Someday local history will record our passing from free hitching posts, to five cent parking meters. Now the penny meters belong in history, yet some folks, it is said, still put in pennies and wonder why they do not get a "Thank You" from the meter moving off the "Violation" sign.

Anyway in the Coloroto Magazine of the New York Sunday News of Aug. 27, on page 19, it seems the merchants got together in North Park, Calif., and made the city remove some 600 meters. The pipes were left, and so the merchants bought iron-wrought holders and attractive wooden buckets of flowers and inserted them where the meters were. One picture shows a businesswoman smilingly watering one of those flower buckets in the meter pipe stand.

Going back to June, 1855, issue of the Kingston Journal which was given to me by Attorney Peter H. Harp of New Paltz, I find a "Large Brick Building, corner Wall and Main Streets, commonly called the Village Hall was going up for public auction on Monday, 2nd of July at 2 p. m. unless previously disposed of. Terms made known on the day of sale, by order of the consistory. For further particulars, enquire of D. M. Kimball, Church Warden, Kingston, June 4, 1855."

Following in the advertisements: "Dress making. Removal. Mrs. Mesick having removed to East Front Street, three doors from St. James will be happy to see her old customers and friends. Dresses cut and made to order. The latest French patterns received every month. Also, all kinds of children's clothes made to order. Elizabeth Mesick . . . Wanted: Girls to learn the dressmaking business."

This Kingston newspaper of 1855 may be of interest to those who go in for antiques. One advertisement of China Hall, 330 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, owner J. Ransom writes: "Great attractions. The exhibition pattern of the white stone China, for which a premium was awarded at the London Exhibition, has just arrived from Minnesota, and I am now able to sell complete sets at extremely low prices. For strength and durability, it has never been equalled, and for cleanliness and beauty it has never been surpassed." No doubt one large old white stone China dish cost today as much as a whole new set cost then.

This also gives one an idea when white stone China was popular, in 1855. This China Hall in Poughkeepsie also had on sale, a "very large assortment of gilt, rosewood and mahogany frame looking-glasses." They also advise: "Country merchants supplied at New York prices, and no charge for packing." I just wonder, what is the difference between ironstone and white stone China. I must ask an antique dealer. I know tureen dishes with cover seemed to be very popular several years ago. No doubt, made from this heavy china they kept the soup hot.

I can see they had a "do it yourself" ad in those days in Kingston, Sharp and Sahler, a hardware store, at the "Sign of the Padlock" on North Front Street, had under "house and cabinet trimmings," such items as "American door locks of every description, with silver plated, mineral and brass knobs, at manufacture prices. Screws, brads, tacks and finishing nals . . ."

Snow Closes Two Gates at Yellowstone

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow fell in Yellowstone National Park and cool air spread into the hot and humid sections east of the Rockies today, setting off heavy showers.

Six inches of snow, with strong winds, forced the closing of the east and north gates to Yellowstone Friday night. Six inches of snow fell at Dunraven Pass, between Canyon Village and Tower Falls, and two at Sylvan Pass, elevation 8,559 feet, inside the east gate from Cody, Wyo. The north gate leads to Red Lodge, Mont.

Roads throughout the park were coated with ice and snow the Wyoming Highway Patrol reported, and were generally impassable. Winds were clocked up to 50 miles per hour, felling trees on the upper passes and knocking out telephone lines to the east gate ranger station.

Rain During Night

Vigorous thunderstorms hit midwest areas during the night. In a six-hour period Mason City, Iowa, was doused with more than one inch of rain. The rains also pelted sections of Illinois and Wisconsin.

Muggy weather from the Gulf Coast spread over the eastern third of the nation Friday but widely scattered showers brought temporary relief to some areas.

In the West, the cool air bulging down from Canada into the Rockies and the northern plains triggered more showers. A hint of summer's end appeared during the night on high western mountain peaks as light snow fell.

Venezuelan

sity, was associated with Consolidated Edison Company of New York before moving to Shanghai. He and Walker recall that the Japanese took over Shanghai about the same day as they attacked Pearl Harbor in December, 1941. The captors kept the staff of the power company on the job until the winter of 1942 when they put all enemy nationals in nearby prison camps.

After the war both utility executives returned to the States. Walker stayed and joined Central Hudson in 1946 while Malloy returned to Shanghai to help rebuild the electric power facilities.

Late in 1948 Malloy recognized that the people of the Yangtze region were apathetic about the successes of the Chinese Red Army and had little confidence in the Nationalist Government. After reading about the defection to the Red side of one large nationalist army unit, Malloy sent his family back to the States. By March of 1949, he reports, "the only thing keeping the Reds from occupying Shanghai was the distance they must travel" and he decided that he, too, better leave the Orient. He reached the States in April and the Red Army took Shanghai in July.

The utilityman became distribution manager for one of two electric companies in Caracas in August 1949 and became technical advisor to the executive manager of the other utility in 1955. He notes that the Caracas company's customers pay an average of six and a half cent per kilowatt hour and use about 2,000 kilowatt hours a year, as compared to Central Hudson customers who pay an average of a little over three cents per kilowatt hour and consume about 3,200 kilowatt hours per year.

In expanding his comments on the present international atmosphere, Malloy finds Americans today much more alert to the challenges of Latin America in the ideological conflict than they were on his last extended visit two years ago, about the time of former Vice President Nixon's visit to Venezuela. On the other side of the coin, he noted, Venezuelans have felt in the past that the U. S. was too good to Tito, Nassar and other supposedly nonaligned nations, including several dictators, "while it neglected its avowed friends in South America."

The new Kennedy approach, as approved by South American nations last month in Uruguay, has been hailed by the majority of the people and by the press as a sign of renewed interest by the U. S. in the long range economic development of the countries.

Dissappointed In Castro

He reported that there has been growing disillusionment among Venezuelans toward Castro and the Cuban regime. He said that leftist demonstrations, no matter how small, seem to get quite a bit of attention in the U. S. Press, while a recent rally held by an American priest for the "Family That Prays Together, Stays Together" campaign attracted 300,000 people in Caracas and rated little in the way of headlines in the U. S. and elsewhere.

Malloy concluded that the biggest deterent to the spread of communism in South America will be social and economic reform.

Nkrumah Urges

Germany, U Nu and Premier Mohammed Daud of Afghanistan stressed the danger there.

U Nu said the present atmosphere in Berlin is not conducive to negotiations and the nonaligned nations might try to provide a catalyst to bring the two sides together.

istrator, and Melvin Gough, CAB safety director, reported:

The finding of the tail section so far from the rest of the wreckage was "very significant." They did not elaborate.

Gough said there was nothing to indicate that the aircraft exploded in the air but that there was evidence of a "heavily disintegrated structure."

Asked if sabotage was being considered, Gough replied, "We can't afford to rule out anything." He said the Federal Bureau of Investigation was working on the case as a normal procedure.

Gough said the craft hit the ground at a steep angle, around 20 degrees, and hit very hard.

Collect All Pieces

Experts began collecting every bit and piece of wreckage for reassembling and the investigators emphasized it would take months to determine the cause of the accident.

Meanwhile, at the Cook County Morgue, medical experts labored through the grim task of trying to identify remains of the victims. About 60 per cent of the bodies were reported tentatively identified but only four positively. It is expected to be several days b- for the task is completed.

cision for Goulart's inaugural at 1 p.m. Monday.

Officials said the plans were based on the assumption that by then Congress would approve a constitutional amendment setting up a parliamentary system in Brazil. Under Janio Quadros who resigned as president a week ago, Brazil's system of government was similar to the United States.

Senate President Moura Andrade told the Senate Friday night Goulart had agreed to the constitutional change to set up a parliamentary system, but there were hints Goulart's supporters in Congress might try to block it on grounds he was already president with the right to full powers.

Goulart, who was on a trip to Red China and other Far Eastern points when Quadros resigned, hastened to Paris last Sunday to await developments and map plans for his return. He flew to Montevideo Thursday, then made the hop to Porto Alegre Friday night.

Two Men Held on Car Theft, Face Weapons Charges

Two men charged by city police with petty larceny involving an alleged theft of a 1950 car, on Tuesday will face additional charges of illegal possession of a dangerous weapon, according to Sergeant William Hanley.

The men were booked Friday as, Jorge Figuaroa, who has no permanent home, and Isidro Torres Garcia, 21, of Middle Hope. The new charges accused the men of violating Section 1897.

The car was reported taken from near the home of Joseph Lurie, of 33 Hone Street, its owner.

Sgt. Carl Janasiewicz spotted the vehicle early Friday on a downtown street. Patrolmen Frank Monte and George Barringer took the men to headquarters.

Figuaroa also was charged with being an unlicensed driver.

Arraignment was put over until Tuesday at 9 a. m. Bail of $250 was not posted.

Stage Mass Meetings To Spur Red Support

MOSCOW (AP) — Mass meetings throughout the Soviet Union are being staged to show support for the nation's military buildup, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

Reports of the meetings were featured in Moscow newspapers, with Pravda giving a full-page to articles and letters from readers protesting what was characterized as "the sinister plans for unleashing a new war hatched by Western imperialists." Headlines said: "the U.S.S.R. is discharging its duty to mankind."

German Beer Returns To Berlin Army Mess

BERLIN (AP) — It hasn't anything to do with the crisis, but it's big news to the U.S. Army's Berlin command—German beer is back in the mess.

When the U.S. government's "buy American" campaign was put into effect last spring foreign beer disappeared at messes and post exchanges.

About two weeks ago, the "buy American" rule was quietly relaxed. Shortly afterward the German beers began foaming again over American bars throughout Germany.

A lot of other non-American items are expected to reappear on the post exchange counters.

"We found that people were buying them on the local economy anyway," one officer explained. "So we weren't really saving any dollars."

phia issued an injunction preventing the Transport Workers Union from striking against the Pennsylvania Railroad.

In another development, unions representing 600,000 workers — freight handlers and maintenance and service crafts—demanded of the nation's railroads a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase and at least six-month advance notice of job layoffs.

President Kennedy, at his news conference, urged the steel industry to abstain from a price increase when wage boosts of 7 to 10 cents an hour go into effect Oct. 1.

Kennedy said his economists have advised him that the wage hikes can be absorbed and the companies still make a good profit.

Steel executives had nothing to say.

Steel Production Up

Steel production during the week exceeded two million tons for the first time since early June. The 2.02 million tons represented a 3.9 per cent gain over the previous week. The industry, however, still was operating below 70 per cent of capacity.

The auto industry stepped up its production of 1962 models to an estimated 89,000 passenger cars, compared with 60,000 last week and 51,711 a year ago.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said the economy may be producing goods and services at the record rate of $540 billion a year by the end of this year. Earlier predictions of the fourth-quarter rate had been $530 billion to $535 billion.

Stock sales during the week totaled 15,163,690 shares, down from the previous week's 17,221,714 shares but ahead of the 14,952,240 shares for the comparable week a year ago.

Bond sales were up at $27,491,000 for the week. The previous week's total was $25,631,000 and the comparable 1960 week was $20,016,000.

Employment Picture

Employment attained a record for August but the unemployment rate remained unchanged at 6.9 per cent of the labor force.

Employment was up 40,000 from July to 68,539,000, compared with 68,282,000 a year ago. Unemployment was down 598,000 from July against 3,788,000 a year earlier. The jobless decline was attributed mainly to seasonal factors.

The Commerce Department reported new orders received by manufacturers in July rose 0.2 per cent from June to an annual rate of $31.2 billion. Defense orders were partly responsible.

Spending on new construction projects in August amounted to $5.433 billion, one per cent ahead of July. In August 1960 the outlay was $5.205 billion.

Railroads Encouraged

Hard-pressed railroads with heavy commuter loads were encouraged by an Interstate Commerce Commission recommendation of subsidies costing an estimated $52 million a year to preserve essential passenger services.

Briefly around the business scene: American car owners spent $5.9 billion for insurance in 1960 but the cost of accidents totaled $7.6 million. . . . Officials said they had no way of knowing immediately what kind of devices the Soviets tried out Friday. Initiate Israel Bond Drive Here for Bar Mitzvah Year

Kingston Area State of Israel Bond Committee announced today the selection of Alfred D. Ronder, of 85 Johnston Avenue, as the general chairman of the 1961 Bar Mitzvah Year State of Israel Bond Program in the Kingston area.

In accepting the designation of general chairman, Ronder stated:

"The most inspiring period in modern Jewish history, the first 13 years of the State of Israel, is being celebrated by Jewish communities throughout the world. These years have seen Israel emerge as the strongest manifestation of renewed hope and spiritual rebirth for the Jewish people everywhere.

Play Important Role

"Our community of Kingston and surrounding area has played an important part in helping Israel toward its goal of achieving economic independence. This goal has not yet been reached but great strides are being made. State of Israel Bonds are an investment which challenges every person of the Jewish faith, every home in Israel, every farm, every settlement; every new factory and the new face of Israel have been the work of millions of persons teaming together and aiding Israel through Israel Bond purchases. Today, Israel is the proud standard-bearer of democracy and hope in the Middle East.

"At this period of the High Holy Days, I urge all the people of the Jewish community of Kingston and the surrounding area to join with our Israel Bond Committee in the great work of aiding Israel by purchasing Israel Bonds."

Ronder noted that over $500,000,000 in Israel Bonds have been sold. He also stated that persons may borrow up to 75 per cent on their Israel Bonds, and that Israel Bonds may be used for all expenses of travel in Israel; and that even before the date of the first maturity of Israel Bonds, the Government of Israel has already paid back $125,000,000 to bond holders.

Kingston Israel Bond Committee noted that Israel Bonds pay four per cent interest.

Active in Community

Ronder is well known as the president of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston and as a director of the Kingston Trust Company; as president of Temple Emanuel of Kingston and treasurer of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association. Ronder is also a trustee of Kingston Hospital and a director of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronder have two children, both married and residing in Kingston; Robert and Charles Ronder.

The offices of the Kingston Israel Bond Committee are at 286 Clinton Avenue. Further information is available at this office.

Ambassador Dean to Do U. S. Talking About Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, just returned from the foundering nuclear test talks at Geneva, is slated to be named as U.S. disarmament negotiator if the United States succeeds in arranging a general disarmament conference later this year with the Soviet Union.

President Kennedy is reported to be deeply impressed with Dean's skill and hard-headed bargaining ability in his negotiations with the Communists to date. Informants said the President intends to keep Dean in some high position in the administration, and word is that if the disarmament conference can be set up he will head the delegation.

Meanwhile he already is assigned as a member of the U.S. delegation to the U.N. General Assembly opening at New York Sept. 19. In that capacity he presumably would handle much of the debate now expected to take place on the failure of the Gevena ngotiations for a nuclear test ban and Russia's resumption of atomic weapons testing.

Dean and John J. McCloy, Kennedy's chief disarmament policy adviser, conferred with the President at the White House Friday immediately after Dean's return to Washington. He was summoned home Wednesday after the Soviet government announced its decision to renew nuclear test explosions.

Whther broadscale East-West disarmament talks can be started any time in future months still is an open question. McCloy is due to open a new round of discussions on this problem with Soviet representative Valerian Zorin in New York Wednesday. They have had two series of meetings, one here and one in Moscow. Both were inconclusive.

Dean, 62, is a New York lawyer —a member of the firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, of which the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was once senior partner.

He has had extensive experience in negotiations involving Communist representatives. In 1953 he served as U.S. ambassador in discussions at Panmunjom, Korea, on a Korean peace conference.

In 1958 and 1960, the veteran lawyer headed U.S. delegations to conferences at Geneva on the law of the sea.

Two Proceedings Dismissed In Local Election Wrangle

In an eleven-page decision handed down Friday, Supreme Court Justice Isador Bookstein has dismissed two proceedings under which in one, Liberal Party members sought to hold an open Primary Election and the other, instituted by three Republican committeemen, it was sought to get the names of candidates in three wards on the ballot.

Both proceedings are dismissed by Justice Bookstein "for lack of jurisdiction."

In the first proceeding in which petitioners, Albert Spada, John F. Corcoran and William Blume, Republican City committeemen, sought to require the Ulster County Board of Election to accept petitions designating candidates for alderman in the third ward; Alderman and supervisor in the sixth ward and alderman and supervisor in the ninth ward, Howard C. St. John appeared for petitioners.

The petitions had been rejected by Democratic Election Commissioner Joseph Epstein and accepted by Republican Election Commissioner Seymour Werbalowsky. The rejection was on the grounds they had not filed in time to comply with the Election Law. Arthur B. Ewig appeared for Commissioner Joseph Epstein in both proceedings. George Beck appeared for intervenors, Democratic County Chairman William A. Kelly, Mayor Edwin F. Radel, Aldermen-at-Large Harold Kaye and City Judge Aaron Klein, local candidates. Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr., appeared in the second proceeding brought by Joan Parker, fifth ward Liberal Party member who sought to compel holding of an open primary, and Edward Morrison of New York appeared for the Liberal Party Executive officers, interveners, in the second proceeding.

Justice Bookstein, in an eleven page memorandum accompanying his decision, points out the court's reasons for dismissing both proceedings. Copies have been mailed to attorneys of record.

By the petition of the Liberal Party members, it was hoped the designations of Mayor Radel, Alderman-at-Large Kaye and City Judge Klein, who had received the desigiation of the Liberal Party Executives, could be brought out in contest on Primary Day and the Liberal Party endorsement switched to the Republican Candidates, John J. Schwenk for mayor, Benjamin Schecter for alderman-at-large and Joheph D. Saccoman for city judge and their names thus appear on the ballot in November under the Liberal Party emblem.

Commissioner Epstein had rejected the Liberal petition and Commissioner Werbalowsky had acctpted it.

Total	51

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic deaths today appeared running about near normal in the first hours of the long Labor Day holiday weekend.

In the first 14 hours since the count started at 6 p.m. (local time) Friday, 21 persons had lost their lives in traffic accidents.

The National Safety Council has warned that at the end of the 78-hour holiday period at midnight Monday, the death toll may reach 420. The council also has estimated that some 17,000 persons, will suffer disabling injuries.

In last year's three-day Labor Day holiday, 415 persons were killed in traffic accidents. In other accident deaths last year, 28 died in boating mishaps, 83 persons drowned and 90 others lost their lives in miscellaneous type accidents for an over-all total of 616.

The record traffic death toll for a three-day Labor Day holiday period is 461, set in 1951.

For comparative purposes, the Associated Press made a survey for a 78-hour non-holiday weekend from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 18 to midnight Monday, Aug. 21. The count showed 390 traffic deaths, 14 in boating accidents, 47 persons drowned and 97 others lost their lives in miscellaneous type accidents, a total of 548.

The council said that 330 persons would lose their lives in traffic accidents for a non-holiday weekend at this time of year.

In the four-day Independence Day holiday period this summer, traffic accidents killed 509 persons. Sixty-three persons were killed in boating accidents, 204 others drowned and 148 lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents, a total of 924.

Snow Closes Two Gates at Yellowstone

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow fell in Yellowstone National Park and cool air spread into the hot and humid sections east of the Rockies today, setting off heavy showers.

Six inches of snow, with strong winds, forced the closing of the east and north gates to Yellowstone Friday night. Six inches of snow fell at Dunraven Pass, between Canyon Village and Tower Falls, and two at Sylvan Pass, elevation 8,559 feet, inside the east gate from Cody, Wyo. The north gate leads to Red Lodge, Mont.

Roads throughout the park were coated with ice and snow the Wyoming Highway Patrol reported, and were generally impassable. Winds were clocked up to 50 miles per hour, felling trees on the upper passes and knocking out telephone lines to the east gate ranger station.

Rain During Night

Vigorous thunderstorms hit midwest areas during the night. In a six-hour period Mason City, Iowa, was doused with more than one inch of rain. The rains also pelted sections of Illinois and Wisconsin.

Muggy weather from the Gulf Coast spread over the eastern third of the nation Friday but widely scattered showers brought temporary relief to some areas.

In the West, the cool air bulging down from Canada into the Rockies and the northern plains triggered more showers. A hint of summer's end appeared during the night on high western mountain peaks as light snow fell.

Venezuelan

sity, was associated with Consolidated Edison Company of New York before moving to Shanghai. He and Walker recall that the Japanese took over Shanghai about the same day as they attacked Pearl Harbor in December, 1941. The captors kept the staff of the power company on the job until the winter of 1942 when they put all enemy nationals in nearby prison camps.

After the war both utility executives returned to the States. Walker stayed and joined Central Hudson in 1946 while Malloy returned to Shanghai to help rebuild the electric power facilities.

Late in 1948 Malloy recognized that the people of the Yangtze region were apathetic about the successes of the Chinese Red Army and had little confidence in the Nationalist Government. After reading about the defection to the Red side of one large nationalist army unit, Malloy sent his family back to the States. By March of 1949, he reports, "the only thing keeping the Reds from occupying Shanghai was the distance they must travel" and he decided that he, too, better leave the Orient. He reached the States in April and the Red Army took Shanghai in July.

The utilityman became distribution manager for one of two electric companies in Caracas in August 1949 and became technical advisor to the executive manager of the other utility in 1955. He notes that the Caracas company's customers pay an average of six and a half cent per kilowatt hour and use about 2,000 kilowatt hours a year, as compared to Central Hudson customers who pay an average of a little over three cents per kilowatt hour and consume about 3,200 kilowatt hours per year.

In expanding his comments on the present international atmosphere, Malloy finds Americans today much more alert to the challenges of Latin America in the ideological conflict than they were on his last extended visit two years ago, about the time of former Vice President Nixon's visit to Venezuela. On the other side of the coin, he noted, Venezuelans have felt in the past that the U. S. was too good to Tito, Nassar and other supposedly nonaligned nations, including several dictators, "while it neglected its avowed friends in South America."

The new Kennedy approach, as approved by South American nations last month in Uruguay, has been hailed by the majority of the people and by the press as a sign of renewed interest by the U. S. in the long range economic development of the countries.

Dissappointed In Castro

He reported that there has been growing disillusionment among Venezuelans toward Castro and the Cuban regime. He said that leftist demonstrations, no matter how small, seem to get quite a bit of attention in the U. S. Press, while a recent rally held by an American priest for the "Family That Prays Together, Stays Together" campaign attracted 300,000 people in Caracas and rated little in the way of headlines in the U. S. and elsewhere.

Malloy concluded that the biggest deterent to the spread of communism in South America will be social and economic reform.

Nkrumah Urges

Germany, U Nu and Premier Mohammed Daud of Afghanistan stressed the danger there.

U Nu said the present atmosphere in Berlin is not conducive to negotiations and the nonaligned nations might try to provide a catalyst to bring the two sides together.

istrator, and Melvin Gough, CAB safety director, reported:

The finding of the tail section so far from the rest of the wreckage was "very significant." They did not elaborate.

Gough said there was nothing to indicate that the aircraft exploded in the air but that there was evidence of a "heavily disintegrated structure."

Asked if sabotage was being considered, Gough replied, "We can't afford to rule out anything." He said the Federal Bureau of Investigation was working on the case as a normal procedure.

Gough said the craft hit the ground at a steep angle, around 20 degrees, and hit very hard.

Collect All Pieces

Experts began collecting every bit and piece of wreckage for reassembling and the investigators emphasized it would take months to determine the cause of the accident.

Meanwhile, at the Cook County Morgue, medical experts labored through the grim task of trying to identify remains of the victims. About 60 per cent of the bodies were reported tentatively identified but only four positively. It is expected to be several days b- for the task is completed.

Goulart as

cision for Goulart's inaugural at 1 p.m. Monday.

Officials said the plans were based on the assumption that by then Congress would approve a constitutional amendment setting up a parliamentary system in Brazil. Under Janio Quadros who resigned as president a week ago, Brazil's system of government was similar to the United States.

Senate President Moura Andrade told the Senate Friday night Goulart had agreed to the constitutional change to set up a parliamentary system, but there were hints Goulart's supporters in Congress might try to block it on grounds he was already president with the right to full powers.

Goulart, who was on a trip to Red China and other Far Eastern points when Quadros resigned, hastened to Paris last Sunday to await developments and map plans for his return. He flew to Montevideo Thursday, then made the hop to Porto Alegre Friday night.

Two Men Held on Car Theft, Face Weapons Charges

Two men charged by city police with petty larceny involving an alleged theft of a 1950 car, on Tuesday will face additional charges of illegal possession of a dangerous weapon, according to Sergeant William Hanley.

The men were booked Friday as Jorge Figuaroa, who has no permanent home, and Isidro Torres Garcia, 21, of Middle Hope. The new charges accused the men of violating Section 1897.

The car was reported taken from near the home of Joseph Lurie, of 33 Hone Street, its owner.

Sgt. Carl Janasiewicz spotted the vehicle early Friday on a downtown street. Patrolmen Frank Monte and George Barringer took the men to headquarters.

Figuaroa also was charged with being an unlicensed driver.

Arraignment was put over until Tuesday at 9 a. m. Bail of $250 was not posted.

Stage Mass Meetings To Spur Red Support

MOSCOW (AP) — Mass meetings throughout the Soviet Union are being staged to show support for the nation's military buildup, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

Reports of the meetings were featured in Moscow newspapers, with Pravda giving a full-page to articles and letters from readers protesting what was characterized as "the sinister plans for unleashing a new war hatched by Western imperialists." Headlines said: "the U.S.S.R. is discharging its duty to mankind."

German Beer Returns To Berlin Army Mess

BERLIN (AP) — It hasn't anything to do with the crisis, but it's big news to the U.S. Army's Berlin command—German beer is back in the mess.

About two weeks ago, the "buy American" rule was quietly relaxed. Shortly afterward the German beers began foaming again over American bars throughout Germany.

A lot of other non-American items are expected to reappear on the post exchange counters.

"We found that people were buying them on the local economy anyway," one officer explained. "So we weren't really saving any dollars."

Business Week

In another development, unions representing 600,000 workers — freight handlers and maintenance and service crafts—demanded of the nation's railroads a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase and at least six-month advance notice of job layoffs.

President Kennedy, at his news conference, urged the steel industry to abstain from a price increase when wage boosts of 7 to 10 cents an hour go into effect Oct. 1.

Kennedy said his economists have advised him that the wage hikes can be absorbed and the companies still make a good profit.

Steel executives had nothing to say.

Steel Production Up

Steel production during the week exceeded two million tons for the first time since early June. The 2.02 million tons represented a 3.9 per cent gain over the previous week. The industry, however, still was operating below 70 per cent of capacity.

The auto industry stepped up its production of 1962 models to an estimated 89,000 passenger cars, compared with 60,000 last week and 51,711 a year ago.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said the economy may be producing goods and services at the record rate of $540 billion a year by the end of this year. Earlier predictions of the fourth-quarter rate had been $530 billion to $535 billion.

Stock sales during the week totaled 15,163,690 shares, down from the previous week's 17,221,714 shares but ahead of the 14,952,240 shares for the comparable week a year ago.

Bond sales were up at $27,491,000 for the week. The previous week's total was $25,631,000 and the comparable 1960 week was $20,016,000.

Employment Picture

Employment attained a record for August but the unemployment rate remained unchanged at 6.9 per cent of the labor force.

Employment was up 40,000 from July to 68,539,000, compared with 68,282,000 a year ago. Unemployment was down 598,000 from July against 3,788,000 a year earlier. The jobless decline was attributed mainly to seasonal factors.

The Commerce Department reported new orders received by manufacturers in July rose 0.2 per cent from June to an annual rate of $31.2 billion. Defense orders were partly responsible.

Spending on new construction projects in August amounted to $5.433 billion, one per cent ahead of July. In August 1960 the outlay was $5.205 billion.

Railroads Encouraged

Hard-pressed railroads with heavy commuter loads were encouraged by an Interstate Commerce Commission recommendation of subsidies costing an estimated $52 million a year to preserve essential passenger services.

Briefly around the business scene: American car owners spent $5.9 billion for insurance in 1960 but the cost of accidents totaled $7.6 million. . . . The Navy will award $834.7 million in contracts to private shipyards for construction and overhaul of ships. . . . Radio Corp. of America predicts 1962 sales of the color television industry will reach $200 million, nearly double those of this year.

A Fatum ambulance was sent to the scene, but police said Dunn apparently was not hurt. A crew of workmen from the Board of Public Works was dispatched to Albany Avenue to pick up the parking meters and a Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. crew was called to make repairs to the light pole.

Dunn was taken to police headquarters for an examination.

Both vehicles involved in the unusual accident were towed away.

Red Action May

the United States does start testing again it will confine its explosions of nuclear devices to underground tunnels so that there will be no danger of creating poisonous radioactive materials in the atmosphere.

Officials said they had no way of knowing immediately what kind of devices the Soviets tried out Friday. The magnitude of the blast, estimated to be somewhere between 20,000 tons and 500,000 tons of equivalent TNT force, was sufficiently large to warrant speculation that they were testing components of Khrushchev's much boasted superbomb.

Initiate Israel Bond Drive Here for Bar Mitzvah Year

Kingston Area State of Israel Bond Committee announced today the selection of Alfred D. Ronder, of 85 Johnston Avenue, as the general chairman of the 1961 Bar Mitzvah Year State of Israel Bond Program in the Kingston area.

In accepting the designation of general chairman, Ronder stated:

"The most inspiring period in modern Jewish history, the first 13 years of the State of Israel, is being celebrated by Jewish communities throughout the world. These years have seen Israel emerge as the strongest manifestation of renewed hope and spiritual rebirth for the Jewish people everywhere.

Play Important Role

"Our community of Kingston and surrounding area has played an important part in helping Israel toward its goal of achieving economic independence. This goal has not yet been reached but great strides are being made. State of Israel Bonds are an investment which challenges every person of the Jewish faith, every home in Israel, every farm, every settlement; every new factory and the new face of Israel have been the work of millions of persons teaming together and aiding Israel through Israel Bond purchases. Today, Israel is the proud standard-bearer of democracy and hope in the Middle East.

"At this period of the High Holy Days, I urge all the people of the Jewish community of Kingston and the surrounding area to join with our Israel Bond Committee in the great work of aiding Israel by purchasing Israel Bonds."

Ronder noted that over $500,000,000 in Israel Bonds have been sold. He also stated that persons may borrow up to 75 per cent on their Israel Bonds, and that Israel Bonds may be used for all expenses of travel in Israel; and that even before the date of the first maturity of Israel Bonds, the Government of Israel has already paid back $125,000,000 to bond holders.

ALFRED D. RONDER

Kingston Israel Bond Committee noted that Israel Bonds pay four per cent interest.

Active in Community

Ronder is well known as the president of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston and as a director of the Kingston Trust Company; as president of Temple Emanuel of Kingston and treasurer of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association. Ronder is also a trustee of Kingston Hospital and a director of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronder have two children, both married and residing in Kingston; Robert and Charles Ronder.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, just returned from the foundering nuclear test talks at Geneva, is slated to be named as U.S. disarmament negotiator if the United States succeeds in arranging a general disarmament conference later this year with the Soviet Union.

President Kennedy is reported to be deeply impressed with Dean's skill and hard-headed bargaining ability in his negotiations with the Communists to date. Informants said the President intends to keep Dean in some high position in the administration, and word is that if the disarmament conference can be set up he will head the delegation.

Meanwhile he already is assigned as a member of the U.S. delegation to the U.N. General Assembly opening at New York Sept. 19. In that capacity he presumably would handle much of the debate now expected to take place on the failure of the Geveva ngotiations for a nuclear test ban and Russia's resumption of atomic weapons testing.

Dean and John J. McCloy, Kennedy's chief disarmament policy adviser, conferred with the President at the White House Friday immediately after Dean's return to Washington. He was summoned home Wednesday after the Soviet government announced its decision to renew nuclear test explosions.

Whther broadscale East-West disarmament talks can be started any time in future months still is an open question. McCloy is due to open a new round of discussions on this problem with Soviet representative Valerian Zorin in New York Wednesday. They have had two series of meetings, one here and one in Moscow. Both were inconclusive.

Dean, 62, is a New York lawyer —a member of the firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, of which the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was once senior partner.

He has had extensive experience in negotiations involving Communist representatives. In 1953 he served as U.S. ambassador in discussions at Panmunjom, Korea, on a Korean peace conference.

In 1958 and 1960, the veteran lawyer headed U.S. delegations to conferences at Geneva on the law of the sea.

Two Proceedings Dismissed In Local Election Wrangle

In an eleven-page decision handed down Friday, Supreme Court Justice Isador Bookstein has dismissed two proceedings under which in one, Liberal Party members sought to hold an open Primary Election and the other, instituted by three Republican committeemen, it was sought to get the names of candidates in three wards on the ballot.

Both proceedings are dismissed by Justice Bookstein "for lack of jurisdiction."

In the first proceeding in which petitioners, Albert Spada, John F. Corcoran and William Blume, Republican City committeemen, sought to require the Ulster County Board of Election to accept petitions designating candidates for alderman in the third ward; Alderman and supervisor in the sixth ward and alderman and supervisor in the ninth ward, Howard C. St. John appeared for petitioners.

The petitions had been rejected by Democratic Election Commissioner Joseph Epstein and accepted by Republican Election Commissioner Seymour Werbalowsky. The rejection was on the grounds they had not filed in time to comply with the Election Law. Arthur B. Ewig appeared for Commissioner Joseph Epstein in both proceedings. George Beck appeared for intervenors, Democratic County Chairman William A. Kelly, Mayor Edwin F. Radel, Aldermen-at-Large Harold Kaye and City Judge Aaron Klein, local candidates. Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr., appeared in the second proceeding brought by Joan Parker, fifth ward Liberal Party member who sought to compel holding of an open primary, and Edward Morrison of New York appeared for the Liberal Party Executive officers, interveners, in the second proceeding.

Justice Bookstein, in an eleven page memorandum accompanying his decision, points out the court's reasons for dismissing both proceedings. Copies have been mailed to attorneys of record.

By the petition of the Liberal Party members, it was hoped the designations of Mayor Radel, Alderman-at-Large Kaye and City Judge Klein, who had received the desigiation of the Liberal Party Executives, could be brought out in contest on Primary Day and the Liberal Party endorsement switched to the Republican Candidates, John J. Schwenk for mayor, Benjamin Schecter for alderman-at-large and Joheph D. Saccoman for city judge and their names thus appear on the ballot in November under the Liberal Party emblem.

Commissioner Epstein had rejected the Liberal petition and Commissioner Werbalowsky had acctpted it.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic deaths today appeared running about near normal in the first hours of the long Labor Day holiday weekend.

In the first 14 hours since the count started at 6 p.m. (local time) Friday, 21 persons had lost their lives in traffic accidents.

The National Safety Council has warned that at the end of the 78-hour holiday period at midnight Monday, the death toll may reach 420. The council also has estimated that some 17,000 persons will suffer disabling injuries.

In last year's three-day Labor Day holiday, 415 persons were killed in traffic accidents. In other accident deaths last year, 28 died in boating mishaps, 83 persons drowned and 90 others lost their lives in miscellaneous type accidents for an over-all total of 616.

The record traffic death toll for a three-day Labor Day holiday period is 461, set in 1951.

For comparative purposes, the Associated Press made a survey for a 78-hour non-holiday weekend from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 18 to midnight Monday, Aug. 21. The count showed 390 traffic deaths, 14 in boating accidents, 47 persons drowned and 97 others lost their lives in miscellaneous type accidents, a total of 548.

The council said that 330 persons would lose their lives in traffic accidents for a non-holiday weekend at this time of year.

In the four-day Independence Day holiday period this summer, traffic accidents killed 509 persons. Sixty-three persons were killed in boating accidents, 204 others drowned and 148 lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents, a total of 924.

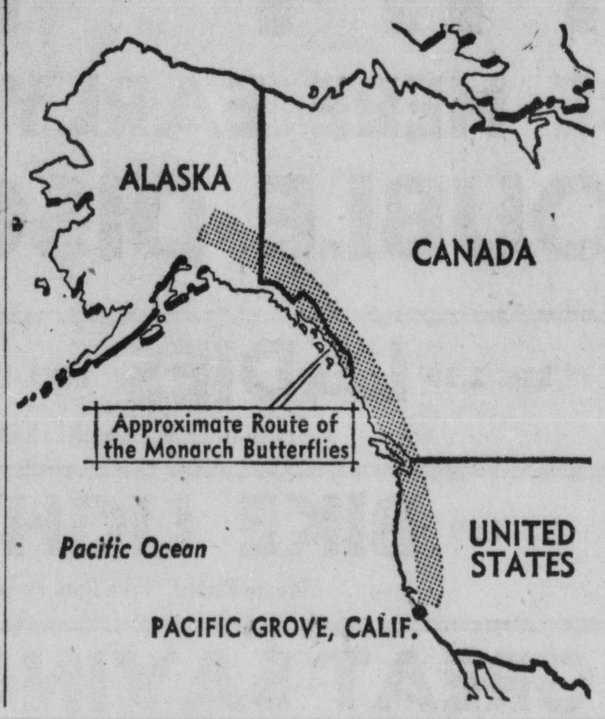
Instinct Is Monarch's Compass



The town of Pacific Grove, Calif., has a law protecting—of all things—butterflies.

Maybe the people of Pacific Grove just like to be good hosts—because they have plenty of visitors. Each year around October millions of monarch butterflies visit the community.

Each fall swarms of brilliant monarch butterflies end their yearly migration here. Around the middle of October they fly in on the last stretch of a journey which took them thousands of miles. Some have flown all the way from Alaska and Canada.

Skimming the beaches and sand dunes, the monarchs wing their way straight to a few choice pine trees—identical trees to which countless generations before them have come.

How do they recognize these few trees which they have never seen? It is beyond our understanding.

None of them have ever come before. Our only answer to this type of breathtaking mystery is "instinct." There just is no other solution.

In sunshine and warmth, they fly only in the daylight hours, stopping to rest on trees during darkness or stormy weather. The monarchs have their advance "scouts" who arrive a little ahead of the main group and act as "hosts," escorting their comrades to the special pines.

Strangely enough, they appear indifferent to humans. Still more astounding is the fact that some of the butterflies have been known to alight on the residents themselves, especially on those wearing bright colors. It is said that the monarchs are the only butterflies that will do this.

Birds do not annoy them. This is because the butterflies feed on milkweed and become distasteful to them. However, strangers seeing them for the first time are tempted to touch them, especially when they hang inactive upon the trees.

In 1938, Pacific Grove passed a law which made it "unlawful for any person to molest or interfere with in any way the peaceful occupancy of the butterflies on their annual visit to Pacific Grove." A $500.00 fine or six months in prison may be meted out to anyone disturbing them. This local law is the only known one of its kind anywhere in the world.

Monarch Butterfly

The Alaskan delegation leaves the butterfly convention first, because they have the farthest to go. Some of the monarchs live only 15 miles up the coast. They are the last to leave Pacific Grove.

When they have reached their winter quarters, they lay their eggs. Then the butterflies die. The young ones in the fall then make the same trip their parents did.

How do they do it? As we say, nobody knows.

Mother Love Is Shown Differently By Animals Throughout the World

You have probably seen a mother kangaroo carry her baby when you visited a zoo. Maybe you've watched the monkeys as they carried their little ones up to the top of the trapeze bar.

But did you know that many animals and even some birds that live right near you often carry their babies from place to place, too?

When the warm days of summer arrive mother squirrel builds a new nest of leaves high up in the tree. Sometimes her babies are afraid to climb so high. If they are, mother squirrel gently picks them up by the back of the neck and carries them to their new home.

Little raccoons often fall out of the nest. If they are too tiny to crawl back up, mother raccoon grasps the skin on the back of the neck of the little ones and carries them back up to the nest. This doesn't hurt the babies at all. They enjoy being carried by mother.

The opossum has a pouch much like the kangaroo. Here, the babies—some no bigger than a bee—ride for several weeks. When they get a little older they cling to their mother's back.

If mother opossum climbs a tree they wind their tails around hers to keep from falling off. Later when they are old enough, mother opossum gently shakes them off one by one.

Ducks, too, sometimes carry their newly hatched young on their backs. The chicks sometimes hide under the wing tips with only their heads showing. If danger threatens, the mother raises her feathers. This hides the babies completely.

Grebes are members of the duck family. They can even dive with the chicks on their backs and come up looking as pert and gay as ever.

Dogs and cats all carry their young from place to place. Rats and mice sometimes do this too.

Another animal that may not be quite as familiar to you is the flying lemur. This animal looks much like our monkeys. It carries its young in the folds of its skin as it hurries along the tree tops in the jungle.

Baby alligators crawl over their parents sometimes as they lay on the rocky beach. If one happen to be on top as the mother crawls into the water he may get a free ride.

These are a few of the many animals that take special care with their babies.

—Jane Haebig

Nails Have Pounded A Place in History

"Just an ordinary nail."

People use that expression when talking of the nail. But there is nothing ordinary about it when we take a look at its uses and history.

Someone once counted the nails used to hold together a typical frame house. Their figures showed at least 67,000.

The nail was invented in the Bronze Age. This followed the Stone Age in man's history when he began to use a metal composed of copper and tin, or bronze, for making tools, weapons and other things. Men discovered that small bits of bronze could be pounded into fasteners that were much better than the old-fashioned resin paste and leather thongs.

Some of the Bronze Age nails that have been found in Europe are merely pointed slivers widened at the top. But others have mushroom-like heads and are about the same as modern ones.

The harnesses and armor of medieval knights were often studded with nails decorated with designs from the owner's coat of arms. The metal, leather or embroidered covers that protected precious hand-illuminated manuscripts had decorative nails down the edges to keep them from scuffing and tearing.

Decorative nail-making began to die as cutting machines replaced hand forging at the end of the 17th Century.

Most people use nails, of course, just for the practical purpose of holding things together. But over the centuries, many more interesting uses have been found for them.

The ancient Romans drove a nail into the wall of the Temple of Jupiter every year on the 13th of September. They did this to mark the year and to ward off plagues and calamities during the months ahead.

The Roman scholar Pliny wrote that it was sure death to sleep under a yew tree unless a copper nail was driven into the trunk.

Nails keep popping up in the proverbs of practically every language. Most familiar are the poetic lines.

"For want of a nail, a shoe was lost,
For want of a shoe, a horse was lost,
For want of a horse, a rider was lost."

To preserve four-leaf clovers and other leaves, let them dry in a pad or a book for about a week, then brush a little clear nail polish over the spot where the leaf is to be mounted. After the leaf has been put in place and the polish dried, another coating of polish should be applied.

And I sat by the wall.

When the warm days of summer arrive mother squirrel builds a new nest of leaves high up in the tree. Sometimes her babies are afraid to climb so high. If they are, mother squirrel gently picks them up by the back of the neck and carries them to their new home.

Little raccoons often fall out of the nest. If they are too tiny to crawl back up, mother raccoon grasps the skin on the back of the neck of the little ones and carries them back up to the nest. This doesn't hurt the babies at all. They enjoy being carried by mother.

The opossum has a pouch much like the kangaroo. Here, the babies—some no bigger than a bee—ride for several weeks. When they get a little older they cling to their mother's back.

If mother opossum climbs a tree they wind their tails around hers to keep from falling off. Later when they are old enough, mother opossum gently shakes them off one by one.

Ducks, too, sometimes carry their newly hatched young on their backs. The chicks sometimes hide under the wing tips with only their heads showing. If danger threatens, the mother raises her feathers. This hides the babies completely.

Grebes are members of the duck family. They can even dive with the chicks on their backs and come up looking as pert and gay as ever.

Dogs and cats all carry their young from place to place. Rats and mice sometimes do this too.

Another animal that may not be quite as familiar to you is the flying lemur. This animal looks much like our monkeys. It carries its young in the folds of its skin as it hurries along the tree tops in the jungle.

Baby alligators crawl over their parents sometimes as they lay on the rocky beach. If one happen to be on top as the mother crawls into the water he may get a free ride.

These are a few of the many animals that take special care with their babies.

Nails Have Pounded A Place in History

"Just an ordinary nail."

People use that expression when talking of the nail. But there is nothing ordinary about it when we take a look at its uses and history.

Someone once counted the nails used to hold together a typical frame house. Their figures showed at least 67,000.

The nail was invented in the Bronze Age. This followed the Stone Age in man's history when he began to use a metal composed of copper and tin, or bronze, for making tools, weapons and other things. Men discovered that small bits of bronze could be pounded into fasteners that were much better than the old-fashioned resin paste and leather thongs.

Some of the Bronze Age nails that have been found in Europe are merely pointed slivers widened at the top. But others have mushroom-like heads and are about the same as modern ones.

The harnesses and armor of medieval knights were often studded with nails decorated with designs from the owner's coat of arms. The metal, leather or embroidered covers that protected precious hand-illuminated manuscripts had decorative nails down the edges to keep them from scuffing and tearing.

Decorative nail-making began to die as cutting machines replaced hand forging at the end of the 17th Century.

Most people use nails, of course, just for the practical purpose of holding things together. But over the centuries, many more interesting uses have been found for them.

The ancient Romans drove a nail into the wall of the Temple of Jupiter every year on the 13th of September. They did this to mark the year and to ward off plagues and calamities during the months ahead.

The Roman scholar Pliny wrote that it was sure death to sleep under a yew tree unless a copper nail was driven into the trunk.

Nails keep popping up in the proverbs of practically every language. Most familiar are the poetic lines.

"For want of a nail, a shoe was lost,
For want of a shoe, a horse was lost,

WORD CHAIN

Can you change a THORN into a SNARE in four moves? Change only one letter at a time and have a good word on each change. Puzzle Pete (if you need help) says he did it by changing T to S, N to E, H to N and O to A.

WORD SQUARE

Rearrange the letters in each row to form a good word. Then rearrange the rows of words so your answer will read the same in both directions, across and down:

E	E	R	S	S
A	I	R	S	P
A	E	R	O	D
E	O	R	V	R
E	E	R	N	I

Saving Luck

To preserve four-leaf clovers and other leaves, let them dry in a pad or a book for about a week, then brush a little clear nail polish over the spot where the leaf is to be mounted. After the leaf has been put in place and the polish dried, another coating of polish should be applied.

The Dreamer

By Ethel Jacobson

I went to the seashore
And what did I see?
Six snowy seagulls
Who see-sawed with me.

I went to the woodland
And what did I do?
I rode all around
On a white caribou.

I came home again
And I sat by the wall.
Doing nothing at all,
Doing nothing at all.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

LISTEN VETERAN
BY

Civil Service — Applications will be accepted up to September 18, 1961 for the titles of Associate Actuary (life), Senior Actuary (life), Case Worker, and Senior Engineering Examiner. These positions are in New York State Career Civil Service. No written test is required for the two actuary titles. The competitive examintion for the other titles will be held October 21, 1961. Applications for hearing reporter will also be accepted up to September 8, 1961 but the competitive examination is scheduled for November 4, 1961.

Insurance — Policyholders of National Service Life Insurance or United States Government Life Insurance should make their premium remittance payable to the Veterans Administration. Payments should be made by check or money order; not in cash or stamps. In addition to using the regular premium notice, veterans are urged to write their insurance policy numbers on their checks or money orders for ready identification in the event they become separated from the regular premium notices.

Medical — The Dependents Medical Care Act of 1956 provides private medical care in civilian hospitals for wives and children of servicemen on active duty. This law does not authorize medical care in civilian hospitals for parents or parents-in-law of a serviceman.

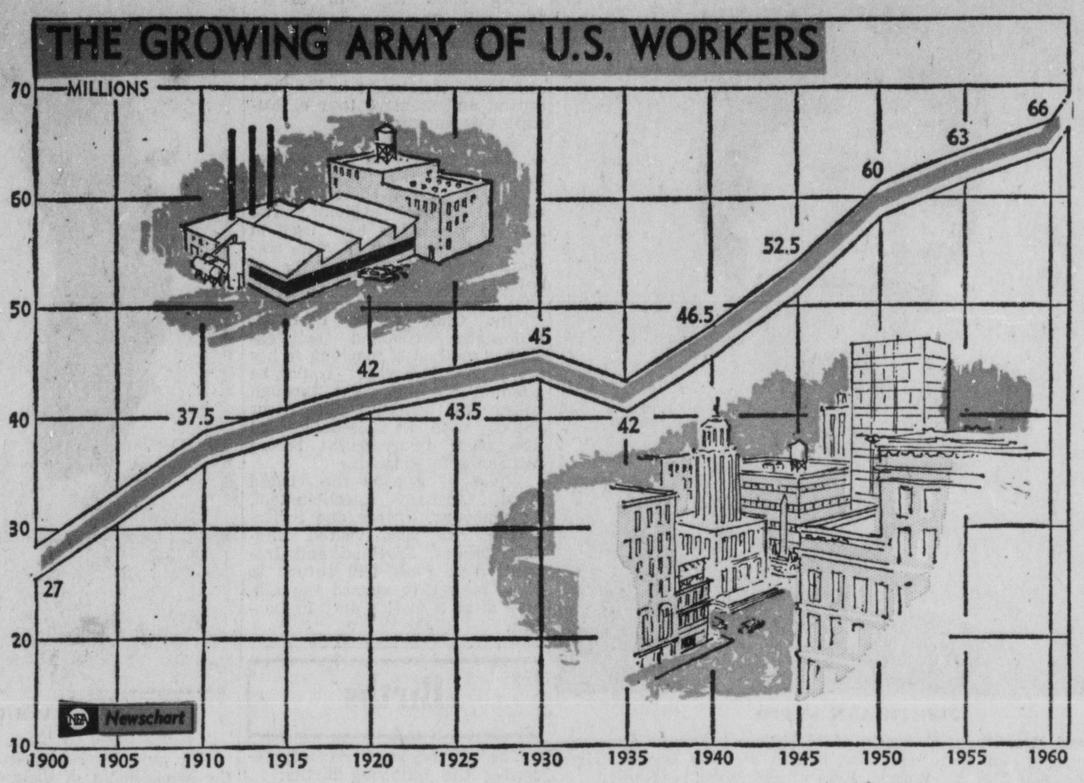
Education—A law enacted by the 86th Congress which liberalized the Federal War Orphans Educational Assistance Act to include the children of deceased veterans of peacetime service is more strict than for the children of a parent with wartime service. The new law provides that the death of the peacetime veteran must have been caused by actual performance of military or naval duties or have resulted from extra hazardous service. The original law provided that the veteran with wartime service had to die in military or naval service or as a result of a service connected disability after he was separated from active service. The definition of peacetime service under this new law liberalizing the Federal War Orphans Assistance Act starts the peacetime service on September 16, 1940, excludes the war dates which have occurred since that date and continues into the future until such time as young men are no longer liable for induction for training in service under the Selective Service Law.

Armed Forces—The Soldiers' and Sailor's Civil Relief Act of 1940 is presently in full forcce and effect and will continue to be in force until it is repealed or otherwise ended by an act of Congress. The purpose of this law is to provide for the suspension of the enforcement of certain civil liabilities of persons in the military service such as judgments, rents, installment contracts, mortgages, leases, etc.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans' Service Agency at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y., with branch offices in Saugerties, Ellenville, Highland and Kerhonkson.



The United States now has a population of gainfully employed persons much larger than the entire population of the country in 1890. This great growth shown on Newschart is more than just a reflection of the general population increase. Percentage of workers to the total has grown, too. Married women returning to work or taking their first job in middle age continue to be a significant factor in the increase. Over four million of them joined the labor force between 1949 and 1959. Figures on chart are averages.

Thruway to Aid Tucker's Lights On Safety Drive

ALBANY — Trucks traveling the New York State Thruway over the Labor Day weekend will be invited to join in a nationwide "Truck Lights On for Safety" campaign.

R. Burdell Bixby, Thruway Authority chairman, announced that cards explaining the campaign would be handed to drivers of all trucks entering the Thruway until 8 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 5.

The campaign is sponsored by the American Trucking Associations Inc., of Washington, D. C., the major motor carrier group in the country. It was devised to remind all motorists of the importance of highway safety.

The chairman said he felt certain that the stream of bright headlights in the daytime would be a dramatic reminder to all motorists to drive safely. Bixby said he expected that drivers of many passenger cars would join in the campaign, and he invited all motorists to "lighten" the holiday accident toll.

$5,000 Yacht Explodes, Owner Thrown Clear

The 25-foot yacht valued at $5,000 and owned by Albert Gilman of Rhinebeck was reported completely destroyed near Ulster Landing as the result of an explosion at approximately 8 p. m. Thursday. The owner was uninjured when thrown clear at the time of the blast.

Observers at Hendrik Hudson Marina said the Sea Gill was outside the basin of the marina at the time and Gilman was working on the engine. He put the vessel in full throttle and the blast threw him into the water.

The remains of the river craft was towed into the marina, it was reported.

Tammany Hall Facing Most Furious Onslaught

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The power of Tammany Hall is facing its most furious onslaught in years in Democratic balloting here Sept. 7.

A vicious fight between Mayor Robert F. Wagner, on an anti-Tammany ticket, against State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, organization candidate, for the party's mayoral nomination has overshadowed another threat to Tammany's entrenchment.

Drive by Insurgents

This is a campaign by Democratic insurgents to gain enough district leaderships to win effective voting control of Tammany, the New York County (Manhattan) Democratic organization.

The drive is spearheaded by an effort to unseat Carmine G. DeSapio, the Tammany chief, from his Greenwich Village district leadership—and thus make him ineligible to continue as county leader.

James S. Lanigan, 43, an admitted egghead type who attended Harvard with President Kennedy, has taken on the task of competing directly against the dark-spectacled DeSapio in the Village on an "anti-bossism" platform.

Lanigan is backed by Democratic insurgent forces headed by former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt —the same forces that are backing Wagner.

The district leadership is the base for DeSapio's political power as county leader, or Tammany chief, because the rules of the game are that district leaders choose the county leader only from among their own members.

Manhattan has 33 districts, each with a male and female party leader. The votes of these 66 leaders are broken into fractions for a total of 16 in choosing a county leader.

Hope for Swing Over

The insurgents presently control 4½ of these votes. They contend they will pick up at least 1 1-3 more in balloting in the districts and possibly another 2, thanks to a split among Harlem Democratic leaders.

If so, that would give them about 7 5-6 of the 16. Their hope is that, if Wagner wins his primary fight, others then would swing over to the insurgent side and give them the majority they would need to name the county leader and revamp the whole county organization.

Lanigan, genial but aggressive, has been ringing doorbells and making street-corner speeches for weeks with the support of a peppy outfit known as the Village Independent Democrats.

They are trying to overcome the Tammany argument that they are "Johnnie-come-latelies" bent on "rule or ruin" of the party.

Should Lanigan win in the district, and the insurgents gain county-wide control, he would be in line for consideration as county leader.

Proposes Glass House

Lanigan has some ideas on how to symbolize an insurgent triumph if it materializes.

For one, he said, he would propose the burning of a wooden Indian in Times Square to mark "the end of Tammany."

He also would supplant Tammany Hall's headquarters with a glass house—a sort of political fishbowl.

"I mean that literally," he says. "A political headquarters should have glass walls, glass doors and glass partitions like these new bank buildings. Let anybody walking by see who the political leaders are talking to."

Lanigan, balding and given to conservative clothes and horn-rimmed glasses, regards himself as a political pro through active roles in the campaigns of presidential candidates.

"An egghead has to be a pro to win, and a pro has to be literate about communicating the issues," is the way he sees it.

The urbane DeSapio, 52, is nationally fnown as a top political professional who has lectured at some of the nation's leading universities on good government.

Who is Lanigan?

Lanigan was born of a staunchly Democratic family on May 13 ,, 1918, in the Republican territory of Greeley, Neb.

Lanigan's father ran for Congress in 1934 on the New Deal ticket and lost, but went to Washington anyhow as a special assistant to the then Atty. Gen. Homer Cummings.

"I practically lived in Congress," says the younger Lanigan.

He was graduated in 1939 from Harvard where he and President Kennedy were together in some courses on government although they were not classmates. Lanigan was better acquainted with Kennedy's older brother, Joseph, killed in World War II. They were members of the same luncheon club.

Lanigan went to work as an educational director in the Civilian Conservation Corps in 1940 to earn money for law school. He protested by letter to President Roosevelt against what he called military control of the CCC. He received a reply from Mrs. Roosevelt, who invited him to the White House—the beginning of a friendship that still continues.

Lanigan and his bride, the former Mary Montgomery, now the parents of three children, spent part of their honeymoon at the White House as Mrs. Roosevelt's guests.

Counsel for Ave

Lanigan spent the war years as a Navy officer serving on destroyer escorts in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

He picked up his law degree from Harvard in 1947 and got a $70-a-week job with a Wall Street law firm. Then he went to Washington at $7,500 a year as a lawyer to work on the Marshall Plan.

Next he became legislative counsel to Averell Harriman, head of the Mutual Security Administration and later governor of New York.

Lanigan resigned from the government to plug for Harriman for the presidential nomination in 1952. Harriman lost and asked Adlai E. Stevenson, the nominee, how he could help. Stevenson took on Lanigan as deputy campaign director in both 1952 and 1956.

Lanigan worked for Stevenson's nomination in 1960 also, but when Kennedy won it, he pitched in for Kennedy and led the New York City registration drive for the Bay Stater.

LABOR DAY

Somehow it brings about the sad reality that the carefree days of summer are just about over. Plan something special for this day. How about a barbecue with your friends and neighbors or just a good old fashioned picnic with the entire family. It might be your last day for the beach so enjoy that one last dip for awhile. Regardless of your preferences, make it a bang up day to reflect on during the cold winter months ahead.

Lack of adequate insurance coverage can bring about a very sad reality. You can avoid this with an early visit to this office. Allan L. Hanstein, Inc., 41 Pearl Street, Kingston. FEderal 1-3964.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

LISTEN VETERAN
BY

Civil Service — Applications will be accepted up to September 18, 1961 for the titles of Associate Actuary (life), Senior Actuary (life), Case Worker, and Senior Engineering Examiner. These positions are in New York State Career Civil Service. No written test is required for the two actuary titles. The competitive examintion for the other titles will be held October 21, 1961. Applications for hearing reporter will also be accepted up to September 8, 1961 but the competitive examination is scheduled for November 4, 1961.

Insurance — Policyholders of National Service Life Insurance or United States Government Life Insurance should make their premium remittance payable to the Veterans Administration. Payments should be made by check or money order; not in cash or stamps. In addition to using the regular premium notice, veterans are urged to write their insurance policy numbers on their checks or money orders for ready identification in the event they become separated from the regular premium notices.

Medical — The Dependents Medical Care Act of 1956 provides private medical care in civilian hospitals for wives and children of servicemen on active duty. This law does not authorize medical care in civilian hospitals for parents or parents-in-law of a serviceman.

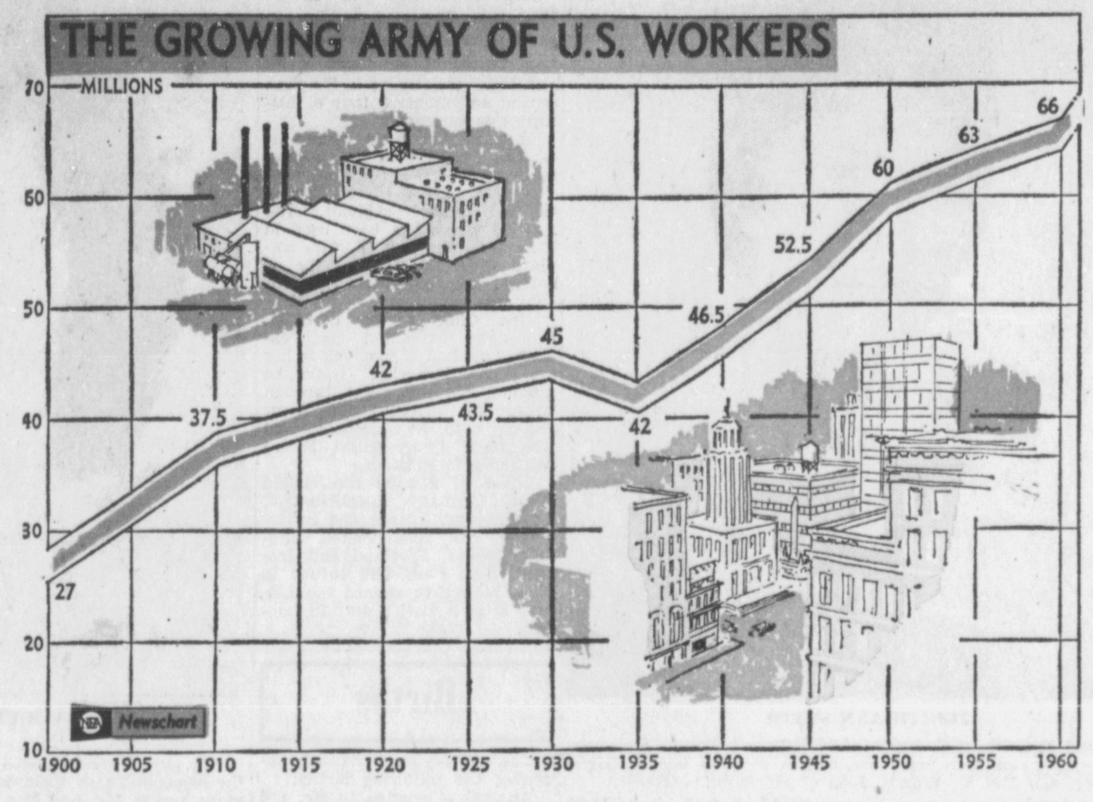
Education—A law enacted by the 86th Congress which liberalized the Federal War Orphans Educational Assistance Act to include the children of deceased veterans of peacetime service is more strict than for the children of a parent with wartime service. The new law provides that the death of the peacetime veteran must have been caused by actual performance of military or naval duties or have resulted from extra hazardous service. The original law provided that the veteran with wartime service had to die in military or naval service or as a result of a service connected disability after he was separated from active service. The definition of peacetime service under this new law liberalizing the Federal War Orphans Assistance Act starts the peacetime service on September 16, 1940, excludes the war dates which have occurred since that date and continues into the future until such time as young men are no longer liable for induction for training in service under the Selective Service Law.

Armed Forces—The Soldiers' and Sailor's Civil Relief Act of 1940 is presently in full forcce and effect and will continue to be in force until it is repealed or otherwise ended by an act of Congress. The purpose of this law is to provide for the suspension of the enforcement of certain civil liabilities of persons in the military service such as judgments, rents, installment contracts, mortgages, leases, etc.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans' Service Agency at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y., with branch offices in Saugerties, Ellenville, Highland and Kerhonkson.



The United States now has a population of gainfully employed persons much larger than the entire population of the country in 1890. This great growth shown on Newschart is more than just a reflection of the general population increase. Percentage of workers to the total has grown, too. Married women returning to work or taking their first job in middle age continue to be a significant factor in the increase. Over four million of them joined the labor force between 1949 and 1959. Figures on chart are averages.

Thruway to Aid Tucker's Lights On Safety Drive

ALBANY — Trucks traveling the New York State Thruway over the Labor Day weekend will be invited to join in a nationwide "Truck Lights On for Safety" campaign.

R. Burdell Bixby, Thruway Authority chairman, announced that cards explaining the campaign would be handed to drivers of all trucks entering the Thruway until 8 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 5.

The campaign is sponsored by the American Trucking Associations Inc., of Washington, D. C., the major motor carrier group in the country. It was devised to remind all motorists of the importance of highway safety.

The chairman said he felt certain that the stream of bright headlights in the daytime would be a dramatic reminder to all motorists to drive safely. Bixby said he expected that drivers of many passenger cars would join in the campaign, and he invited all motorists to "lighten" the holiday accident toll.

Ancient Forest

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP)—Excavation of a gravel pit recently uncovered a gravel forest of trees all lying in the same direction. University of Wisconsin scientists, estimating the wood was about 11,000 years old, believe one of the great glaciers that overspread Wisconsin buried the trees.

To Test County Sirens Monday

Another in the series of county-wide fire siren tests will be conducted at 8 p. m. Monday by Ulster County Fire Control Center.

Sirens in all firehouses in the county, except Kingston, are activated from the control center, the first Monday of each month, and a roll call taken to determine if sirens in all firehouses are operative. Winfred Snyder is county fire coordinator.

$5,000 Yacht Explodes, Owner Thrown Clear

The 25-foot yacht valued at $5,000 and owned by Albert Gilman of Rhinebeck was reported completely destroyed near Ulster Landing as the result of an explosion at approximately 8 p. m. Thursday. The owner was uninjured when thrown clear at the time of the blast.

Observers at Hendrik Hudson Marina said the Sea Gill was outside the basin of the marina at the time and Gilman was working on the engine. He put the vessel in full throttle and the blast threw him into the water.

The remains of the river craft was towed into the marina, it was reported.

Tammany Hall Facing Most Furious Onslaught

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEW YORK (AP)—The power of Tammany Hall is facing its most furious onslaught in years in Democratic balloting here Sept. 7.

A vicious fight between Mayor Robert F. Wagner, on an anti-Tammany ticket, against State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, organization candidate, for the party's mayoral nomination has overshadowed another threat to Tammany's entrenchment.

Drive by Insurgents

This is a campaign by Democratic insurgents to gain enough district leaderships to win effective voting control of Tammany, the New York County (Manhattan) Democratic organization.

The drive is spearheaded by an effort to unseat Carmine G. DeSapio, the Tammany chief, from his Greenwich Village district leadership—and thus make him ineligible to continue as county leader.

James S. Lanigan, 43, an admitted egghead type who attended Harvard with President Kennedy, has taken on the task of competing directly against the dark-spectacled DeSapio in the Village on an "anti-bossism" platform.

Lanigan is backed by Democratic insurgent forces headed by former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt —the same forces that are backing Wagner.

The district leadership is the base for DeSapio's political power as county leader, or Tammany chief, because the rules of the game are that district leaders choose the county leader only from among their own members.

Manhattan has 33 districts, each with a male and female party leader. The votes of these 66 leaders are broken into fractions for a total of 16 in choosing a county leader.

Hope for Swing Over

The insurgents presently control 4½ of these votes. They contend they will pick up at least 1 1-3 more in balloting in the districts and possibly another 2, thanks to a split among Harlem Democratic leaders.

If so, that would give them about 7 5-6 of the 16. Their hope is that, if Wagner wins his primary fight, others then would swing over to the insurgent side and give them the majority they would need to name the county leader and revamp the whole county organization.

Lanigan, genial but aggressive, has been ringing doorbells and making street-corner speeches for weeks with the support of a peppy outfit known as the Village Independent Democrats.

They are trying to overcome the Tammany argument that they are "Johnnie-come-latelies" bent on "rule or ruin" of the party.

Should Lanigan win in the district, and the insurgents gain county-wide control, he would be in line for consideration as county leader.

Proposes Glass House

Lanigan has some ideas on how to symbolize an insurgent triumph if it materializes.

For one, he said, he would propose the burning of a wooden Indian in Times Square to mark "the end of Tammany."

He also would supplant Tammany Hall's headquarters with a glass house—a sort of political fishbowl.

"I mean that literally," he says. "A political headquarters should have glass walls, glass doors and glass partitions like these new bank buildings. Let anybody walking by see who the political leaders are talking to."

Lanigan, balding and given to conservative clothes and horn-rimmed glasses, regards himself as a political pro through active roles in the campaigns of presidential candidates.

"An egghead has to be a pro to win, and a pro has to be literate about communicating the issues," is the way he sees it.

The urbane DeSapio, 52, is nationally known as a top political professional who has lectured at some of the nation's leading universities on good government.

Who is Lanigan?

Lanigan was born of a staunchly Democratic family on May 13 ,, 1918, in the Republican territory of Greeley, Neb.

Lanigan's father ran for Congress in 1934 on the New Deal ticket and lost, but went to Washington anyhow as a special assistant to the then Atty. Gen. Homer Cummings.

"I practically lived in Congress," says the younger Lanigan.

He was graduated in 1939 from Harvard where he and President Kennedy were together in some courses on government although they were not classmates. Lanigan was better acquainted with Kennedy's older brother, Joseph, killed in World War II. They were members of the same luncheon club.

Lanigan went to work as an educational director in the Civilian Conservation Corps in 1940 to earn money for law school. He protested by letter to President Roosevelt against what he called military control of the CCC. He received a reply from Mrs. Roosevelt, who invited him to the White House—the beginning of a friendship that still continues.

Lanigan and his bride, the former Mary Montgomery, now the parents of three children, spent part of their honeymoon at the White House as Mrs. Roosevelt's guests.

Counsel for Ave

Lanigan spent the war years as a Navy officer serving on destroyer escorts in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

He picked up his law degree from Harvard in 1947 and got a $70-a-week job with a Wall Street law firm. Then he went to Washington at $7,500 a year as a lawyer to work on the Marshall Plan.

Next he became legislative counsel to Averell Harriman, head of the Mutual Security Administration and later governor of New York.

Lanigan resigned from the government to plug for Harriman for the presidential nomination in 1952. Harriman lost and asked Adlai E. Stevenson, the nominee, how he could help. Stevenson took on Lanigan as deputy campaign director in both 1952 and 1956.

Lanigan worked for Stevenson's nomination in 1960 also, but when Kennedy won it, he pitched in for Kennedy and led the New York City registration drive for the Bay Stater.

LABOR DAY

Somehow it brings about the sad reality that the carefree days of summer are just about over. Plan something special for this day. How about a barbecue with your friends and neighbors or just a good old fashioned picnic with the entire family. It might be your last day for the beach so enjoy that one last dip for awhile. Regardless of your preferences, make it a bang up day to reflect on during the cold winter months ahead.

Lack of adequate insurance coverage can bring about a very sad reality. You can avoid this with an early visit to this office. Allan L. Hanstein, Inc., 41 Pearl Street, Kingston. FEderal 1-3964.

JEAN HESSDORFER

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hessdorfer of Lake Katrine of the engagement of their daughter, Jean Marie, to Daniel A. Van Wagenen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Van Wagenen of Kingston.

Miss Hessdorfer is a graduate of Kingston High School and recently completed an executive secretarial course at Mildred Elley Secretarial School, Albany.

Her fiance is a graduate of Kingston High School and has completed his freshman year at Pace College, New York City, where he is majoring in psychology.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Good Taste Today

IMPOSING POSSIBLY UNWANTED ADVICE

Q: A friend of mine recently remodeled and redecorated her house. Last week she invited me along with several other women friends in to see the finished product. We all thought it was lovely and in very good taste. After we were there awhile, one of the women remarked about a table our hostess had in the living room. She said that she thought it would look better in another place and proceeded to move it to where she thought it ought to be and then turned to the hostess and said, "Now don't you think it looks better there?" It so happened that it did, but even so don't you think she was very rude to have said anything? We are all close friends, but I don't think this fact excused her behavior. I would like your opinion on this matter.

A: To have actually moved the table was indeed very presumptuous, but as she is a close friend of the hostess, it would have been all right to have asked, "Have you thought of putting that table over there? I think it might look better."

Expectant Mother as Matron of Honor

Q: Would it be improper to have my sister, who is noticeably on the way to having a baby, as my matron of honor? I was maid of honor at her wedding and would like very much to have her take part in mine if at all possible.

A: If you are having a wedding with other attendants and procession up the aisle, it would be very unsuitable for your sister to take part. If you are having a very small wedding and she is to be your only attendant, it would be all right.

Eating Fruit at Table

Q: Are fruit pits, after they are removed from the mouth, put on the plate under the dish or back in the dish itself?

A: At the side on the plate; never back in the dish with the fruit still to be eaten.

Health for All

Vaccination; Anybody?

The flu months will soon be with us. Influenza is always a serious illness, with after effects —mostly exhaustion — sometimes lasting many weeks. But it is particularly dangerous for certain people, some of whom may even die of the illness or its complications. These people should be vaccinated against influenza.

Those for whom influenza is a particularly perilous disease are:

Persons with rheumatic heart disease or other blood vessel or heart ailments.

Diabetics.

Pregnant women.

Everybody 65 or older.

The vaccine is usually given in two doses, about two months apart. After one set of shots, a yearly booster is usually required.

If you are on the list, it would be wise to consult with your doctor right away about the need for vaccination or a booster shot, as the case may be.

Mrs. John Clair Visits Originator Of Teaching Method

Mrs. John H. Clair of 71 Chambers Street, a teacher in the Onteora Central School system, visited at the home of M. and Mme. Cuisenaire in Belgium during an extensive tour of Europe this summer.

M. Cuisenaire is the originator of the new system of mathematics instruction being adopted this year in the Ulster County Central School systems. The method which has been used in Europe for the past 28 years employs different size lengths of colored rods and their relationship to each other.

Mrs. Clair writes that M. Cuisenaire explained the "exciting" method of teaching to her and showed how it could be adapted for use right through college mathematics. She spent the day with the Cuisenaires and was their dinner guest before returning to Brussels.

While in Europe she visited West Germany Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, France and Switzerland. She also visited England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland. Mrs. Clair will return to New York City aboard the Liberte after a week's stay in London.

PICNIC ON THE GO—When the family suggests a picnic on-the-way, are you prepared? Or are you in a quandry as to what to fix

Sandwiches are a natural choice for this type of picnic. But remember that sandwiches are one of the most abused foods in the American diet. Salad sandwich fillings are not a good choice unless you are able to refrigerate them on the way to the picnic. Sliced meat or cheese is a better choice.

Choose from the wonderful assortment of breads available. Don't overlook those "hero" rolls or hamburger rolls for variety.

Soup refresher, hero sandwiches and fruit and cookies.

Prepare the sandwiches with the meat and cheese, then let each picknicker help himself to lettuce, tomatoes and onions and salad dressing.

PICNIC ON THE PATIO—Patio picnics are perhaps the easiest for the homemaker because with a little friendly persuasion, you may be able to let Dad take over the cooking chores.

Meat is the mainstay of this type of picnic. Try different cuts of meat and special seasonings to make your picnic a truly gourmet treat. Here are a couple of ideas for your patio picnic.

Ham Slices With Sweet Barbecue Sauce

8 slices fully cooked ham, ½ inch thick

Sweet Sauce

2 tbsp. dry mustard
1/3 cup chili sauce
1 cup brown sugar
¾ cup pineapple juice
1 tsp. lemon juice

Combine ingredients for sauce. Brush ham slices with sauce. Place on grill about 4 to 5 inches above white hot coals for 5 minutes. Turn. Brush again with sauce. Grill 5 minutes more.

Bundled Potatoes

On a 10-inch square of aluminum foil, place a potato cut into ½ inch slices, a ¼ inch slice of onion, and a tablespoon of butter or margarine. Season. Fold and twist foil to cover. Bake on hot coals or on grill 45 minutes.

Auditions to Be Held By Area Philharmonic Orchestra Sept. 5-6

Claude Monteux, musical director and conductor of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, will be holding auditions for musicians who wish to become members of the orchestra. Auditions will be held in Mr. Monteux's home, 30 Garfield Place, Poughkeepsie, on the evening of Sept. 5 and the afternoon of Sept. 6.

The orchestra will have its first rehearsal Sept. 6. The first concert the Philharmonic will give this season is a pops concert to be held on Sept. 23 at the IBM Country Club in Poughkeepsie, at 8:30 p. m. The first regular series concert will be on Oct. 9 at the Community Theater when Guiomar Novaes, renowned pianist, will be the soloist.

The orchestra plays 12 concerts, in Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Kingston, during the season. Members of the orchestra also participate in childrens' concerts, a winter chamber music series, and additional events such as the September pops concert.

There are always openings for qualified musicians in all sections of the philharmonic orchestra, according to James Coover, personnel manager. It is the Philharmonic's aim to continually strengthen and improve its orchestra.

Applicants may call Mr. Coover or Mr. Monteux in Poughkeepsie.

Good Taste Today

IMPOSING POSSIBLY UNWANTED ADVICE

Q: A friend of mine recently remodeled and redecorated her house. Last week she invited me along with several other women friends in to see the finished product. We all thought it was lovely and in very good taste. After we were there awhile, one of the women remarked about a table our hostess had in the living room. She said that she thought it would look better in another place and proceeded to move it to where she thought it ought to be and then turned to the hostess and said, "Now don't you think it looks better there?" It so happened that it did, but even so don't you think she was very rude to have said anything? We are all close friends, but I don't think this fact excused her behavior. I would like your opinion on this matter.

A: To have actually moved the table was indeed very presumptuous, but as she is a close friend of the hostess, it would have been all right to have asked, "Have you thought of putting that table over there? I think it might look better."

Expectant Mother as Matron of Honor

Q: Would it be improper to have my sister, who is noticeably on the way to having a baby, as my matron of honor? I was maid of honor at her wedding and would like very much to have her take part in mine if at all possible.

A: If you are having a wedding with other attendants and procession up the aisle, it would be very unsuitable for your sister to take part. If you are having a very small wedding and she is to be your only attendant, it would be all right.

Eating Fruit at Table

Q: Are fruit pits, after they are removed from the mouth, put on the plate under the dish or back in the dish itself?

A: At the side on the plate; never back in the dish with the fruit still to be eaten.

Health for All

Vaccination; Anybody?

The flu months will soon be with us. Influenza is always a serious illness, with after effects —mostly exhaustion — sometimes lasting many weeks. But it is particularly dangerous for certain people, some of whom may even die of the illness or its complications. These people should be vaccinated against influenza.

Those for whom influenza is a particularly perilous disease are:

Persons with rheumatic heart disease or other blood vessel or heart ailments.

Diabetics.

Pregnant women.

Everybody 65 or older.

The vaccine is usually given in two doses, about two months apart. After one set of shots, a yearly booster is usually required.

If you are on the list, it would be wise to consult with your doctor right away about the need for vaccination or a booster shot, as the case may be.

Woodstock Couple Honored on Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Slocum, of Woodstock, formerly of Westfield, N. J., marked their golden wedding anniversary, Sept. 1.

They were entertained Friday evening at a dinner party at the Park Hotel, Plainfield, N. J. by their children, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Brownell, of Cape Elizabeth, Maine; Mrs. Lillian S. Loeb, of Westfield; and Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart Slocum, of White Plains, and their grandchildren, Gordon and William Brownell; Peggy Ann, Tom, and Melissa Loeb; Robert and Abigail Slocum.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Slocum of Cranford, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hankinson, of Townley, N. J., Mrs. Harvey Slocum and Mrs. Percival Slocum of Long Branch, N. J.; Mrs. Florence B. Slocum of Cranford, N. J.; Mrs. Ernest Henzi of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Elmer Brown of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. William Ward of Elizabeth, N. J. and Mrs. Harold Hauser of Union, N. J.

Also present were nieces and nephews, Mr. and Mrs. Heidl Slocum, Madison Slocum, Mr. and Mrs. Merchant Slocum, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd Slocum, Mr. and Mrs. James Slocum and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gellerman.

Today Mrs. Lillian Loeb will entertain the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Slocum at dinner in their honor at her home in Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Slocum were residents of Westfield for 40 years, where Mr. Slocum conducted and operated an electrical contracting business. He was employed by many municipalities in that area many years ago to set up their original traffic signal systems.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Slocum were active members of the First Baptist Church of Westfield where Mr. Slocum was president of the board of trustees from 1932 to 1953, at which time he retired and moved to Woodstock, where they are presently members of the Reformed Church, there.

Mrs. John Clair Visits Originator Of Teaching Method

Mrs. John H. Clair of 71 Chambers Street, a teacher in the Onteora Central School system, visited at the home of M. and Mme. Cuisenaire in Belgium during an extensive tour of Europe this summer.

M. Cuisenaire is the originator of the new system of mathematics instruction being adopted this year in the Ulster County Central School systems. The method which has been used in Europe for the past 28 years employs different size lengths of colored rods and their relationship to each other.

Mrs. Clair writes that M. Cuisenaire explained the "exciting" method of teaching to her and showed how it could be adapted for use right through college mathematics. She spent the day with the Cuisenaires and was their dinner guest before returning to Brussels.

While in Europe she visited West Germany Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, France and Switzerland. She also visited England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland. Mrs. Clair will return to New York City aboard the Liberte after a week's stay in London.

Mud Room Can Be Beautiful

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The mud room can be an attractive area of the house rather than a gloomy little damp spot.

An entranceway from garage or basement usually is the mud area. These pass-throughs are ideal places for color and imagination.

Linoleum and tile are good floorings for boots, dripping umbrellas and soggy clothing.

The walls should be dressed too in good waterproof material. A self adhesive vinyl material goes on easily. A knotty pine pattern is ideal for this purpose. Use it right over the door too. The advantage of the pattern besides its attractiveness is that it doesn't show fingerprints.

A combination coat rack and boot tray will keep coats out of the way and wet boots and rubbers off the floor. Make the unit yourself by constructing a coatrack against the wall, using plywood or other suitable material. A cornice can lend a decorative note, and a shelf several inches off the floor from the bottom of the unit large enough to take the family's collection of boots and rubbers, will add to the utility of the coatrack. The scalloped effect of a cornice may be cut out on a home saw, but these brackets may also be bought as is at local lumber yards.

When the rack is assembled, line the interior and the bottom of the boot tray with a red gingham design self-adhesive vinyl. Paint the cornice and frame white, outlining the scallop in red. Put black metal coat hooks at the back of the rack. A small mirror could be used in this area also if strategically placed.

A simple square stand of wood or metal may be covered in the same red gingham pattern to be used for umbrellas. The door frame may be perked up with red gingham vinyl, a nice contrast to the knotty pine vinyl.

If a lamp is used in this area, its shade could be decorated with a border of the gingham. An old table could be covered with the pine patterned vinyl to further coordinate the space that should prove worth all the effort you put into making it attractive.

TO EDWARD M. SAUNDERS:
The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order made by Hon. Kenneth S. MacAffer, Justice Supreme Court, dated the 25th day of July, 1961, and filed on the 26th day of July, 1961, with the complaint, in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster, at Kingston, N. Y., the original complaint having been duly filed in said office.

The object of the above action is to forclose a Mortgage to secure the sum of $550, and interest, recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on the 19th day of December, 1957, in Book No. 814 of Mortages at page 308; and also for the foreclosure of a Mortgage to secure the sum of $8750.00, and interest, recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on the 12th day of July, 1957, in Book No. 800 of Mortgages at page 35, and which said Mortages were consolidated in one valid Mortgage lien by Consolidation and Extension Agreement dated December 12th, 1957, both of said Mortgages covering premises described in said Mortgages as follows:

All that certain lot, piece or parcel of land with the buildings and improvements thereon erected, situate, lying and being in High Falls, Town of Rosendale, County of Ulster and State of New York, and more particularly set forth as Lot No. 2 on a map of High Falls Park sub-division in High Falls, New York, filed in Ulster County Clerk's Office March 8, 1957 as Map No. 1864.

PROCLAMATION
THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
To the Sheriff of the County of Ulster:

GREETING:

Whereas, a Term of the County Court of the County of Ulster is to be held at the Court House, in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the 5th day of September, 1961.

You are hereby Commanded to summon the several persons who shall have been drawn in said County of Ulster pursuant to law to serve as Trial Jurors at said County Court, to appear thereat.

You are Commanded to bring before the said Court all prisoners then being in the Jail of said County, together with all process and proceedings in any way concerning them in your hands as such Sheriff.

You are Commanded to make Proclamtion, in the manner prescribed by Section 222-c of the Code of Criminal Procedure, notifying all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all Justices of the Peace, Coroners, and other officers who have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at such Court, or who shall have taken any inquistion, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations to the said Court at the opening thereof, on the first day of its sitting.

Winess, Hon. RAYMOND J. MINO, County Judge of Ulster County at the Court House in the City of Kingston, this 16th day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and sixty-one.

DAVID W. CORWIN
District Attorney of the County of Ulster

In pursuance of the above precept, I hereby make Proclamation that a term of County Court of Ulster County and Jail deliverance will be held at the Court House in Kingston, in and for the County of Ulster, the 5th day of Sepember, 1961, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and all persons who will prosecute against persons confined in the Jail of said County are required to be then and there present, to proceed as may be just; and all persons bound to appear at the said Court by recognizance, or otherwise are required to appear thereat, and all Justices of the Peace, Coroners and other officers who may have taken any recognizance for the appearance of any person at the said Court, or who may have taken any inquisitions, or the examination of any prisoner or witness are required to return such recognizances, inquisitions and examinations on to the said Court at the opening thereof, at the first day of the sitting thereof, and to be then and there present with their rolls and records, indictments and remembrances to do those things which to their office pertain.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale entered in the above entitled action bearing date the 28th day of July, 1961, and entered in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on the 28th day of July, 1961, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the County Court House on Wall Street, in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 11th day of September, 1961, at 11:00 oclock in the forenoon of that day, eastern daylight saving time, the real property directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

PARCEL I. ALL THAT CERTAIN PIECE, PARCEL OF FARM OF LAND, TOGETHER WITH BUILDINGS AND IMPROVEMENTS THEREON ERECTED, situate in the Town of New Paltz, County of Ulster and State of New York, known as the Homestead Farm of Solomon L. F. Elting, and bounded generally as follows:- On the north by lands of formerly Luman Elting and others now of Charles Thompson and of formerly Maurice W. Freer, now of Henry L. Hasbrouck; on the south by highway leading from New Paltz to Kingston, and lands of formerly Maurice Hasbrouck, now of Laura Hasbrouck, on the east by the highway leading from New Paltz Village to Kingston, now State Road, and lands of M. P. LeFevre and John R. Deyo, and on the west by the Wallkill River. Containing about one hundred and thirty-five (135) acres more or less.

Excepting three acres conveyed to the Wallkill Valley Railway Company, and being premises first described in deed from Magdalena Elting and others to Solomon L. F. Elting, dated December 10, 1872, recorded in Ulster County Clerks Office in Book of Deeds No. 185, at page 442.

Excepting and reserving from the above described lands and premises a small parcel of less than one half an acre conveyed by Solomon L. F. Elting to Laura Hasbrouck, said deed bears date the 14th day of July, 1924 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerks Office in Book of Deeds No. 505, page 166 on July 23, 1924.

Also excepting and reserving from the above described land and premises a parcel of land deeded by Howard Elting and Florence West Elting, his wife, to Laura Hasbrouck, said deed bears date the 7th day of July 1928, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerks Office in Book of Deeds No. 533, page 85 on the 10th day of August, 1928.

Also excepting and reserving from the above described lands and premises all the land of about twenty-five acres lying east of the right of way for the Wallkill Valley Railroad tracks.

PARCEL II. Also conveying ALL THAT PARCEL OF REAL ESTATE situated in the Town of New Paltz, County of Ulster and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:- BEGINNING at a point on the old highway leading from New Paltz to Dashville 25.5 feet south 2 degrees and 40 minutes west from the center of an elm tree standing on the south side of the entrance to the lands of Howard Elting and running thence as the magnetic needle pointed in May 1928, south 63 degrees and 8 minutes west 146.8 feet along the lands of Laura Hasbrouck and the center of said highway to a point at the easterly approach of the bridge over the brook known as the Mill Brook, thence south 52 degrees and 4 minutes west, 76.2 feet to a point in the center of the highway at the westerly approach of said bridge; thence still along the lands of Laura Hasbrouck, south 30 degrees and 7 minutes west 196.7 feet to a point in the center of said highway; thence leaving the highway, north 12 degrees and 33 minutes west 341 feet to a stake west of a large hickory tree; thence still along said Hasbrouck lands, north no degrees and 30 minutes west 495.8 feet to a stake 2 feet west of a small ash tree standing on the bank of said Mill Brook; thence north 16 degrees and 45 minutes east 240.6 feet to a stake southwest of a large hickory tree in the lands of Howard Elting, thence along the lands of said Howard Elting south 48 degrees and 10 minutes east, 490 feet to the corner post at a corner of fences; thence along the lands of Howard Elting south 8 degrees and 56 minutes west, 236.7 feet to an elm tree standing in the fence; thence along the lands of Howard Elting south 18 degrees and 36 minutes west, 67.6 feet to a wild cherry tree standing in the fence; thence still along Howard Elting's lands south 2 degrees and 40 minutes west 152.3 feet to the place of beginning. Containing 6 64/100 acres of land be the same more or less.

Being a portion of the premises devised by Abrahm M. Hasbrouck to the grantor herein.

The grantee herein named, for himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, covenants and agrees to erect and maintain a line fence between the premises hereby conveyed and the remaining premises of the grantor, and his covenant shall be deemed to be a covenant running with the land and not a personal covenant.

The grantee also covenants and agrees that in event he shall build and construct a pond or lake upon the premises hereby conveyed, then and in that event, the grantor, her heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, shall have the right and privilege to harvest ice upon said lake or pond for farm use upon the premises of the grantor remaining unconveyed and privilege of harvesting such ice, as may be necessary for his own use, and this covenant shall be a covenant running with the land and not a personal covenant.

Being the same premises as described in a deed from Laura Hasbrouck to Howard Elting dated July 3, 1928 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in B.D. 533/120 on August 10, 1938.

Said premises contain about one hundred seven (107) acres bounded on the north by lands of one Hirtreitter; on the west by the Wallkill River, bounded on the east by the Wallkill Valley Railroad and bounded on the south by lands of Bertha Van Alst.

Following the sale of said real property, if necessary I will also sell, at the same time and place, the following personal property and chattels directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

Two-Bedroom Plan Offers Versatile Bedroom-Study

To some families the best kind of home has a huge living room and an equally imposing kitchen. Bedrooms need not be overly large because they are usually restricted to one use: as sleeping quarters.

The new Associated Architects house plan, "The Glenville," fits right in with this theory, with one exception. There is nothing small about the bedrooms. In other words, the living and sleeping arrangments are sufficiently large to meet the needs of most families.

Start with the living room, which you'd enter after ringing the front doorbell. Larger than 13 by 23 feet, this room has a fireplace, a splendid picture window and plenty of wall space for large furniture. There's a coat closet and a decorator screen, forming a small foyer to deflect drafts and cold gusts of wind.

And flanking the fireplace are a pair of money savers, built-in bookshelves. No need to spend money for elaborate cases; these do beautifully and have an elegant custom-designed appearance.

There are a pair of bedrooms, each with a most useful wardrobe (with sliding doors for modern appearance and greater efficiency). A third bedroom may also be used as a bedroom, or, if you prefer, a study. This room makes a wonderful nursery because of its door connecting to the kitchen. Mother works knowing she can reach the youngster as quickly as possible.

You've probably noticed that these rooms are well endowed with closet space. There is also a hall linen closet plus another closet for towels in the bath.

Let me tell you about the kitchen, which rounds "The Glenville" out beautifully. Its size, 11 by 16, has inspired Associated Architects to make it a wonder in compact attractiveness. The counters and appliances are arranged in the shape of an "L" to reduce the number of steps walked. On the opposite side is the dining area of the kitchen. This is one of those long-sought, warm, old-fashioned kinds of kitchens that welcomes the family any time of the day. Use it as a work center, an informal meeting place as well as a spot for eating.

For economy's sake, the garage is attached (it means having to build two fewer walls in this instance), and connects through a side entry to the basement steps and kitchen. It's almost like buying insurance for cleanliness.

This house plan has 1,180 square feet of living space, plus 240 square feet of garage area. Cubage with basement is 23,600 cubic feet; without basement it is 19,000 cubic feet.

Now, you'll want to know about the plans, which are being made available at moderate cost. Send for your sets (use the accompanying coupon) and note if you want drawings with or without basement. These plans will enable you to get firm construction estimates, and, if you decide to build, your contractor uses the same blueprints.

With your order you receive at no extra cost a list of all building materials needed.

Of course, plans for "The Glenville," like all Associated Architects homes, follows property and construction requirements of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA). Electrical wiring adheres to the National Electrical Code for maximum fire safety.

If you like brick or concrete block rather than wood siding, the same plans show how all of these materials may be used.

Liquid Latex Paint Under Door Mats

Fiber door mats usually sift the dirt through the backing and onto the floor underneath. Moisture collects under mats, evaporating slowly, often rotting the back and staining the floor.

A simple cure is to use a small can of liquid latex rubber paint intended for backing rugs to keep them from slipping. It will do an excellent job of coating mat backs so dirt will not sift through and keep floor moisture out.

Two coats will usually do the trick, but follow directions on the can for length of drying before replacing the mat.

Care Is Demanded For Good Painting

Paint that is chipping or peeling must be removed before repainting. Failure to do so will cause the new paint to fail. Loose paint can be removed by using a wire brush, steel wool or coarse sandpaper.

Then the surface should be smoothed with finer sandpaper, especially the edges of patch where loose paint had been removed.

Mud Room Can Be Beautiful

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The mud room can be an attractive area of the house rather than a gloomy little damp spot.

An entranceway from garage or basement usually is the mud area. These pass-throughs are ideal places for color and imagination.

Linoleum and tile are good floorings for boots, dripping umbrellas and soggy clothing.

The walls should be dressed too in good waterproof material. A self adhesive vinyl material goes on easily. A knotty pine pattern is ideal for this purpose. Use it right over the door too. The advantage of the pattern besides its attractiveness is that it doesn't show fingerprints.

A combination coat rack and boot tray will keep coats out of the way and wet boots and rubbers off the floor. Make the unit yourself by constructing a coatrack against the wall, using plywood or other suitable material. A cornice can lend a decorative note, and a shelf several inches off the floor from the bottom of the unit large enough to take the family's collection of boots and rubbers, will add to the utility of the coatrack. The scalloped effect of a cornice may be cut out on a home saw, but these brackets may also be bought as is at local lumber yards.

When the rack is assembled, line the interior and the bottom of the boot tray with a red gingham design self-adhesive vinyl. Paint the cornice and frame white, outlining the scallop in red. Put black metal coat hooks at the back of the rack. A small mirror could be used in this area also if strategically placed.

A simple square stand of wood or metal may be covered in the same red gingham pattern to be used for umbrellas. The door frame may be perked up with red gingham vinyl, a nice contrast to the knotty pine vinyl.

If a lamp is used in this area, its shade could be decorated with a border of the gingham. An old table could be covered with the pine patterned vinyl to further coordinate the space that should prove worth all the effort you put into making it attractive.

MARTIN SILVER, SADDLEWYCK COUNTRY CLUB, INC., ESCO TRADING CO., ATLAS CREDIT CORP., ARTROSE ENTERPRISES, LTD., INC., METCOST CORP., COONEY BROTHERS, INC., Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale entered in the above entitled action bearing date the 28th day of July, 1961, and entered in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on the 28th day of July, 1961, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the County Court House on Wall Street, in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 11th day of September, 1961, at 11:00 oclock in the forenoon of that day, eastern daylight saving time, the real property directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

PARCEL I. ALL THAT CERTAIN PIECE, PARCEL OF FARM OF LAND, TOGETHER WITH BUILDINGS AND IMPROVEMENTS THEREON ERECTED, situate in the Town of New Paltz, County of Ulster and State of New York, known as the Homestead Farm of Solomon L. F. Elting, and bounded generally as follows:- On the north by lands of formerly Luman Elting and others now of Charles Thompson and of formerly Maurice W. Freer, now of Henry L. Hasbrouck; on the south by highway leading from New Paltz to Kingston, and lands of formerly Maurice Hasbrouck, now of Laura Hasbrouck, on the east by the highway leading from New Paltz Village to Kingston, now State Road, and lands of M. P. LeFevre and John R. Deyo, and on the west by the Wallkill River. Containing about one hundred and thirty-five (135) acres more or less.

Excepting three acres conveyed to the Wallkill Valley Railway Company, and being premises first described in deed from Magdalena Elting and others to Solomon L. F. Elting, dated December 10, 1872, recorded in Ulster County Clerks Office in Book of Deeds No. 185, at page 442.

Excepting and reserving from the above described lands and premises a small parcel of less than one half an acre conveyed by Solomon L. F. Elting to Laura Hasbrouck, said deed bears date the 14th day of July, 1924 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerks Office in Book of Deeds No. 505, page 166 on July 23, 1924.

Also excepting and reserving from the above described land and premises a parcel of land deeded by Howard Elting and Florence West Elting, his wife, to Laura Hasbrouck, said deed bears date the 7th day of July 1928, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerks Office in Book of Deeds No. 533, page 85 on the 10th day of August, 1928.

Also excepting and reserving from the above described lands and premises all the land of about twenty-five acres lying east of the right of way for the Wallkill Valley Railroad tracks.

PARCEL II. Also conveying ALL THAT PARCEL OF REAL ESTATE situated in the Town of New Paltz, County of Ulster and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:- BEGINNING at a point on the old highway leading from New Paltz to Dashville 25.5 feet south 2 degrees and 40 minutes west from the center of an elm tree standing on the south side of the entrance to the lands of Howard Elting and running thence as the magnetic needle pointed in May 1928, south 63 degrees and 8 minutes west 146.8 feet along the lands of Laura Hasbrouck and the center of said highway to a point at the easterly approach of the bridge over the brook known as the Mill Brook, thence south 52 degrees and 4 minutes west, 76.2 feet to a point in the center of the highway at the westerly approach of said bridge; thence still along the lands of Laura Hasbrouck, south 30 degrees and 7 minutes west 196.7 feet to a point in the center of said highway; thence leaving the highway, north 12 degrees and 33 minutes west 341 feet to a stake west of a large hickory tree; thence still along said Hasbrouck lands, north no degrees and 30 minutes west 495.8 feet to a stake 2 feet west of a small ash tree standing on the bank of said Mill Brook; thence north 16 degrees and 45 minutes east 240.6 feet to a stake southwest of a large hickory tree in the lands of Howard Elting, thence along the lands of said Howard Elting south 48 degrees and 10 minutes east, 490 feet to the corner post at a corner of fences; thence along the lands of Howard Elting south 8 degrees and 56 minutes west, 236.7 feet to an elm tree standing in the fence; thence along the lands of Howard Elting south 18 degrees and 36 minutes west, 67.6 feet to a wild cherry tree standing in the fence; thence still along Howard Elting's lands south 2 degrees and 40 minutes west 152.3 feet to the place of beginning. Containing 6 64/100 acres of land be the same more or less.

Being a portion of the premises devised by Abrahm M. Hasbrouck to the grantor herein.

The grantee herein named, for himself, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, covenants and agrees to erect and maintain a line fence between the premises hereby conveyed and the remaining premises of the grantor, and his covenant shall be deemed to be a covenant running with the land and not a personal covenant.

The grantee also covenants and agrees that in event he shall build and construct a pond or lake upon the premises hereby conveyed, then and in that event, the grantor, her heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, shall have the right and privilege to harvest ice upon said lake or pond for farm use upon the premises of the grantor remaining unconveyed and privilege of harvesting such ice, as may be necessary for his own use, and this covenant shall be a covenant running with the land and not a personal covenant.

Being the same premises as described in a deed from Laura Hasbrouck to Howard Elting dated July 3, 1928 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in B.D. 533/120 on August 10, 1938.

Said premises contain about one hundred seven (107) acres bounded on the north by lands of one Hirtreiter; on the west by the Wallkill River, bounded on the east by the Wallkill Valley Railroad and bounded on the south by lands of Bertha Van Alst.

Following the sale of said real property, if necessary I will also sell, at the same time and place, the following personal property and chattels directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

THE GLENVILLE
• ASSOCIATED • ARCHITECTS • 11-8-53

Two-Bedroom Plan Offers Versatile Bedroom-Study

To some families the best kind of home has a huge living room and an equally imposing kitchen. Bedrooms need not be overly large because they are usually restricted to one use: as sleeping quarters.

The new Associated Architects house plan, "The Glenville," fits right in with this theory, with one exception. There is nothing small about the bedrooms. In other words, the living and sleeping arrangments are sufficiently large to meet the needs of most families.

Start with the living room, which you'd enter after ringing the front doorbell. Larger than 13 by 23 feet, this room has a fireplace, a splendid picture window and plenty of wall space for large furniture. There's a coat closet and a decorator screen, forming a small foyer to deflect drafts and cold gusts of wind.

And flanking the fireplace are a pair of money savers, built-in bookshelves. No need to spend money for elaborate cases; these do beautifully and have an elegant custom-designed appearance.

There are a pair of bedrooms, each with a most useful wardrobe (with sliding doors for modern appearance and greater efficiency). A third bedroom may also be used as a bedroom, or, if you prefer, a study. This room makes a wonderful nursery because of its door connecting to the kitchen. Mother works knowing she can reach the youngster as quickly as possible.

You've probably noticed that these rooms are well endowed with closet space. There is also a hall linen closet plus another closet for towels in the bath.

Let me tell you about the kitchen, which rounds "The Glenville" out beautifully. Its size, 11 by 16, has inspired Associated Architects to make it a wonder in compact attractiveness. The counters and appliances are arranged in the shape of an "L" to reduce the number of steps walked. On the opposite side is the dining area of the kitchen. This is one of those long-sought, warm, old-fashioned kinds of kitchens that welcomes the family any time of the day. Use it as a work center, an informal meeting place as well as a spot for eating.

For economy's sake, the garage is attached (it means having to build two fewer walls in this instance), and connects through a side entry to the basement steps and kitchen. It's almost like buying insurance for cleanliness.

This house plan has 1,180 square feet of living space, plus 240 square feet of garage area. Cubage with basement is 23,600 cubic feet; without basement it is 19,000 cubic feet.

Now, you'll want to know about the plans, which are being made available at moderate cost. Send for your sets (use the accompanying coupon) and note if you want drawings with or without basement. These plans will enable you to get firm construction estimates, and, if you decide to build, your contractor uses the same blueprints.

With your order you receive at no extra cost a list of all building materials needed.

Of course, plans for "The Glenville," like all Associated Architects homes, follows property and construction requirements of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA). Electrical wiring adheres to the National Electrical Code for maximum fire safety.

If you like brick or concrete block rather than wood siding, the same plans show how all of these materials may be used.

Liquid Latex Paint Under Door Mats

Fiber door mats usually sift the dirt through the backing and onto the floor underneath. Moisture collects under mats, evaporating slowly, often rotting the back and staining the floor.

A simple cure is to use a small can of liquid latex rubber paint intended for backing rugs to keep them from slipping. It will do an excellent job of coating mat backs so dirt will not sift through and keep floor moisture out.

Two coats will usually do the trick, but follow directions on the can for length of drying before replacing the mat.

Care Is Demanded For Good Painting

Paint that is chipping or peeling must be removed before repainting. Failure to do so will cause the new paint to fail. Loose paint can be removed by using a wire brush, steel wool or coarse sandpaper.

Then the surface should be smoothed with finer sandpaper, especially the edges of patch where loose paint had been removed.

Gene Sarazen to Play at Woodstock Country Club Monday

All-Time Great In a Foursome With Club Aces

One of golf's all-time greats —Gene Sarazen of nearby Germantown—will appear in an 18-hole exhibition match at Woodstock Country Club Monday (Labor Day) at 3 p. m.

Playing in the foursome with Sarazen will be J. Carson Hutchins, Woodstock professional; Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) de Lisio, Ulster County women's champion and the winner of today's WCC championship finals between Eric Knutsen and Herb Waterous.

Proceeds of the match will be shared by St. John's Parish of West Hurley and Woodstock and St. Ann's Church of Germantown. The Rev. Richard Stewart, pastor of St. John's, is chairman of arrangements.

Sarazen comes to Woodstock directly from London, England, where he has been serving as commentator for the international series on golf which will be released on television early in 1962.

The Squire of Germantown who still plays in knickers is one of the most durable golfers in history. He won his first U. S. Open more than 30 years ago and is still a tremendous golfer.

Sarazen has won every major title in golf, including two U. S. Opens, three National PGA's, two British Open and one Masters in which he fired his famous double-eagle 2 on a par-five hole at the Augusta National course in Atlanta.

Woodstock Favorite

A warm favorite of area fans, Sarazen has made frequent appearances in Kingston and Woodstock over the years. He posted a 5-under-par 65 at Woodstock in a round in which he twice drove the No. 8 green.

Sarazen's stature and prestige has remained undiminished long after his contemporaries — Long Jim Barnes, Tommy Armour, Leo Diegel, Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and others have faded from the scene.

In recent years he has won two National PGA Seniors championships and is a steady competitor in the Masters and PGA.

The current golf tour for which Sarazen is serving as player and commentator will take him around the world. He has been stationed in London, while filming matches at historic St. Andrew's in Scotland, Wentworth in England and St. Cloud in Paris.

Sarazen is regarded as one of golf's most articulate spokesmen and is in wide demand for lectures and exhibition matches. He has a particular fondness for Woodstock Country Club, which he describes as one of the most beautiful 9-hole courses in the country.

GENE SARAZEN

Palmer, John Pott, Stewart Share Lead

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The expected happened in the $30,000 $30,000 Dallas Open Friday — Arnold Palmer and Earl Stewart were tied for the first round lead with a 3-under-par 67.

Johnny Pott, the defending champion, did the unexpected when he also deadlocked for the top with 67.

Stewart seldom plays but he always tried in his own tournament, since he is the Oak Cliff Country Club pro. In three previous tournaments he led part of the time and wound up with a big chunk of the money.

So it was not surprising when Stewart, who knows every inch of the 6,800-yard course, particularly the tricky greens, had himself a great putting day to tie for the lead. He had 11 1-putt greens and only 23 putts in all.

Pott made a great finish to tie for the lead, banging birdies in succession on 12, 13 and 14 to wind up with a 32 on the back nine. This was the lowest score for the stretch during the day. Pott had been the forgotten man when pre-tournament predictions were made. It was all Palmer, Gary Player and Doug Sanders, the first three men in the money race.

But Player had a 72 and complained of the rough greens and the high winds and Sanders shot a 70.

Three little known pros were tied at 68, a stroke back of the leaders. They were Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Gene Mitchell Jr. of Lubbock, Tex., and Charles Sifford, the first Negro to play in a PGA sponsored tournament in Texas.

50G Handicap Set at Belmont On Labor Day

The second week of Belmont Park's 30-day meeting gets under way with holiday conditions prevailing on Monday, Labor Day, with the $50,000 Aqueduct Handicap, a mile and a furlong for three-year-olds and upward heading the program. The Labor Day card starts off a week that is climaxed next Saturday with the 55th running of the $50,000 added Matron, for two-year-old fillies. In between these stakes the older fillies and mares have their own event, the $25,000 added Maskette Handicap of a mile on Wednesday.

The Aqueduct Handicap on Labor Day figures to draw a fine field of about eleven and among the starters is expected to be the Alamode Farm's Mail Order, winner of three stakes events here in New York in the Spring, but a disappointment in the Fall Highweight last Monday under the steadying weight of 134 pounds.

Among those slated to face Mail Order are such tried campaigners as C. V. Whitney's Tompion, J. F. Gagel's Reinzi, Harbor View Farm's Francis S., Llangollen Farm's Devine Comedy, High Tide Stable's Whodunit, Mrs. Q. A. Shaw McKean's Polylad, Connie Ring's Dress Up, Gustave Ring's Don Poggio, Cain Hoy Stable's Tooth and Nail and Green, and Fisher's Black Thumper.

Tooth and Nail turned in a fine victory at seven furlongs on opening day of the current meeting with a fast-closing Francis S. second.

The Matron is one of the top races of the year for the juvenile fillies and already there is $91,640 in the purse before the $750 which each starter must put into the pot. Of this sum, $41,640 is from the original nomination fees and continuing eligibility payments and the other $50,000 is added by the New York Racing Association.

Among those likely to start are such as the Meadow Stable's Cicada, Ogden Phipps' Broadway, Darby Dan Farm's Bramalea, Mrs. John W. Galdbreath's Annie O., James Drymon's Fiji Flower, C. V. Whitney's Jazz Queen, George D. Widener's Pontivy, Cain Hoy Stable's Starry Pools and Hal Price Headley's No Comment, the latter a winner at Belmont last Tuesday.

STEP OUT FOR NEW SEASON — Charlie O'Hara (21) of Milmont, Pa., leads the way as Notre Dame footballers run through ropes to limber up at South Bend, Ind.; at start of practice for new season. Other players are Paul Costa (45), Port Chester, N. Y.; Frank Budka (2), Pompano Beach, Fla; Joe Maxwell (41), Glenside, Pa., and Jim Snowden (33) of Youngstown, Ohio. First game is against Oklahoma on Sept. 30. (AP Wirephoto)

Harris Returns To Onteora for Sunday Races

It will be the field against D. D. (Rebel) Harris again Sunday afternoon as the Poughkeepsie ace returns to the Olive Bridge track after an absence of one week.

With Harris competing elsewhere last Sunday, Jimmy Markle of Stone Ridge came out on top but not until several restarts had been held. Only seven of the original 27 starters completed the 25 lap feature race.

Expected to challenge Harris on Sunday are Markle, Don Avery, Ray Anderson and Stretch VanSteenburg, among others. Harris is well ahead of the others in the point standings with a total of 252. Ernie Beesmer and Avery trail.

Yankees Defeat Detroit, 1-0 in Ninth; Dodgers' Late Rally Nips Braves, 4-3

Skowron's Single Scores Howard With Winning Run

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, breaking through against Don Mossi on three consecutive singles by Elston Howard, Yogi Berra and Bill Skowron with two out in the ninth, defeated Detroit 1-0 Friday night and took a 2½ game lead over the Tigers in the American League race.

Whitey Ford, who had to call it quits in the fifth because of a strained hip muscle, Bud Daley and Luis Arroyo blanked the second place Tigers on seven hits.

While the Yankees and Tigers, now all square for the season (6-6), drew the year's top single-game crowd, 65,566 at New York, Cleveland knocked off Baltimore 5-4; the Chicago White Sox split a pair at Washington, winning 3-2, then losing 5-1; Minnesota topped Boston 5-1, and Los Angeles beat Kansas City 6-4.

Even With Ruth

Skowron's winning hit for the Yankees followed singles by Elston Howard and Berra. Mickey Mantle, who twice took called third strikes, now is exactly even with Babe Ruth's record-60 home run pace of 1927 with 48. Roger Maris, with 51, is only five games ahead of Ruth.

Cleveland ruined Lum Harris' debut as interim Orioles manager as Vic Power drove in three runs with a pair of singles and scored the winning run on a balk by Chuck Estrada (11-8). Barry Latman (11-4) was the winner.

Minnie Minoso's sixth-inning single drove in the clincher as the White Sox and Cal McLish (10-12) beat Ed Hobaugh (6-8) and handed the Senators their 14th consecutive defeat in the opener. Washington then ended the AL's longest losing string of the season behind the six-hit pitching of Joe McClain (8-14). Billy Pierce (7-8) was the loser.

A two-run triple by Zoilo Versalles in the second inning off Don Schwall (13-4) wrapped it up for the Twins and Pete Ramos (10-16).

Six consecutive hits and a sacrifice fly by starting pitcher Eli Grba gave the Angels five runs in the fourth inning against the A's and beat Norm Bass (7-10). Tom Morgan (7-2) was the winner in relief.

Harness Roundup

Matinee-Night Performance Set at Monticello Raceway

Meanwhile, Monticello Raceway has its second matinee program of the year today. Nine betting races are scheduled for the afternoon and eight for the regular night program. In addition, the New York State Sire Stakes for trotters and pacers will be held, without betting, before the afternoon card. World Champion pacer Adios Butler will tour the track between races in a time trial.

The night program lost some of its interest when Elaine Rodney elected to by-pass the Harness Tracks of America Trot and another duel with Merrie Duke. The Duke now should have no trouble taking the winner's share of the $10,000 purse.

Two $10,000 races were on Friday night's schedule—one for pacers at Yonkers Raceway, the other for trotters at Vernon Downs.

Adios Don set a track record for 3-year-old colts at Yonkers in a tuneup for next week's Cane Futurity. His 2:01 was a fifth of a second faster than the mark set last week by Flying Baker.

At Vernon, winner Hoot Frost was timed in 2:00 2-5 and paid $3.20. Jimmy Arthur, who drove Harlan Dean to victory in the Hambletonian at DuQuoin, Ill., on Wednesday, was up behind Hoot Frost.

Other feature winners Friday night:

Batavia Downs — Dalyce Blue ($12.60) in the $5,000 Invitational Trot in 2:04 4-5.

Saratoga Raceway — Section Man ($8.80) in the $1,500 Class B Trot in 2:07.

Monticello Raceway — Mr. Johnybutch ($4.80) in the $1,500 feature trot in 2:06 1-5.

NFL Exhibitions

Dallas Beats Colts; 49ers in 38-20 Victory

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Dallas Cowboys, only one-year-old but thriving on the formula prepared by coach Tom Landry, are beginning to make menacing gestures in the National Football League.

The Cowboys, who came into existence last year and wound up with 11 losses and one tie, have accomplished an amazing flip-flop by winning two of four exhibition games. Their latest was a 35-24 walloping of the Baltimore Colts Friday night.

Landry, a stern tactician and highly rated strategist who came to the Cowboys from the New York Giants, installed former Southern Methodist star Don Meredith at quarterback against the Colts and he responded with four touchdown passes.

Usually alternated with veteran Eddie LeBaron, Meredith ran the Cowboys throughout, connecting on 15 of 26 passes for 224 yards in a fine performance climaxed by a 35-yard TD toss to Dick Bielski in the third quarter.

In the only other NFL pre-season test, San Francisco whipped Los Angeles 38-20. Boston's Patriots edged Buffalo 15-12 and Houston thumped Denver 42-10 in American League games.

Stickles Scores

Trailing 20-17 in the third quarter, the 49ers won it on a pair of payoff pitches by rookie Billy Kilmer. Kilmer fired a 10-yarder to Monte Stickles, then connected on a 66-yarder to Bernie Casey after the Rams had pulled ahead on Zeke Bratkowski's 45-yard TD pass to Red Phillips and a 73-yard punt return by Jon Arnett.

In games today, St. Louis is at Detroit, Minnesota meets Chicago at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Washington tackles Philadelphia at Bristol, Tenn. and Cleveland takes on Pittsburgh at Akron, Ohio.

Chuck McKinley Raps USLTA On Its Suspension of Ralston

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Chuck McKinley, America's top hope in the National Tennis Championships, today blasted the United States Lawn Tennis Association for the way they:

1. Handled the Dennis Ralston case.

2. Arranged the preliminary Davis Cup rounds.

McKinley, second seeded behind Australia's Rod Laver, marched into the second round with a 7-5, 6-2, 6-2 victory over George Stoesser of Tucson, Ariz., Friday as the 10-day nationals got under way in the West Side Tennis Club.

"There is only one word to describe the action of the USLTA against Ralston—it's ridiculous," said McKinley. The USLTA suspended Ralston, who along with McKinley and Tut Bartzen made up the U.S. Davis Cup team, for unsportsmanlike conduct in the North American Zone final against Mexico two weeks ago.

"I'm the voice of experience on these things," said McKinley.

(He is on probation for arousing the ire of the USLTA in Australia last year.)

"And I know how Dennis feels. He gave everything he had and they suspend him.

"I know just what happened. He cussed exactly once. They accused him of turning his back on the Mexican captain when he offered him a towel. Dennis didn't even see him approach. I was standing right there."

McKinley also said he and Ralston would have had an easier time against the Mexicans if the match had been played on grass instead of clay.

"Now", he said, "I see they're thinking of playing India in the next round on clay in India. They say the members of the India team have obligations at home. They have so many obligations that they're playing all over Europe now.

Behind in Schooling

"Did it ever occur to the USLTA that we have obligations too. I'm behind in my schoolwork at Trinity (Tex) University now. If I got into a real jam, I'd just tell them I couldn't play, so sorry.

"And everyone is asking what's wrong with tennis?"

The lower half of the first round was completed Friday with no surprises. McKinley is ranked No. 2, behind Laver, who doesn't get into action until Sunday.

Roy Emerson, No. 3, Laver's Aussie Davis Cup teammate, whipped Ed Rubinoff of Miami Beach, 6-2, 6-1, 6-0. Bob Mark, No. 5, another Aussie, dropped Herb Fitzgibbon of Garden City, N.Y., 6-2, 6-1, 6-0, and Ron Holmberg, No. 8 of Brooklyn, turned back Mike Green of Philadelphia 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Wills, Roseboro Spark Comeback By 2nd Place Club

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers, with Maury Wills and John Roseboro each batting in two runs, defeated Milwaukee 4-3 last night and climbed within 2½ games of idle Cincinnati again in the National League race.

That dropped the Braves back to fourth place as San Francisco reclaimed third with a 4-3, 14-inning victory at Chicago. The St. Louis Cardinals rapped Pittsburgh 8-4 in the only other NL game scheduled.

The Dodgers, blowing a 3-1 lead after coming from behind, squared their season series with the Braves at 9-9 on Roseboro's tie-breaking single in the ninth. It followed a walk and a sacrifice and beat Don McMahon (6-2) in relief. Dick Farrell (8-6) was the winner in relief, after giving up the Braves' tying run in the eighth with two wild pitches.

13th Straight

Curt Flood, Alex Grammas and Jim Schaffer each drove in two runs for the Cardinals, who won their 13th in a row at home while beating Joe Gibbon (10-9). Righthander Larry Jackson (11-9) checked the Bucs on eight hits —three by Smoky Burgess, who belted a two-run homer.

The Giants tied it 3-all in the eighth with an unearned run and then won it on a two-out triple by rookie Ernie Bowman off Don Elston (6-6) in the 14th. Billy Loes (6-5) was the winner as the last of six Giant pitchers who blanked the Cubs over the last 12 frames.

U. S. Is Leading In Walker Cup

SEATTLE (AP) — Great Britain sent its two finest amateurs against the pair of aces who head the United States squad today in an all-out effort to check the Yankee bid for victory in the international Walker Cup golf matches.

Michael Bonallack of Thorpe Bay, England, British amateur champion, met Deane Beaman of Arlington, Va., wearer of the American crown, in the first of the eight singles matches which will close out the 1961 competition.

And match No. 5 brought together the two who are regarded as the top members of their teams —veteran Joe Carr of Sutton, Ireland, and 21-year-old Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio.

The invading team from over the Atlantic lost four Scots foursome matches and four points Friday in the opening phase.

Now it must win at least five singles matches and hold the three other even to pull victory out of defeat. A match victory counts one point; a match tie, nothing.

Sickler's Tops Masons, 3-1, To Win Loop Championship

Pushing two runs across the dish in the fifth inning, Sickler's won the American Little League championship with a 3-1 verdict over the Masons on Thursday.

Joel Tomson hurled the victory, a nifty three-hitter. He walked only two and struck out seven in beating tough luck Mike Weishaupt.

All-Time Great In a Foursome With Club Aces

One of golf's all-time greats —Gene Sarazen of nearby Germantown—will appear in an 18-hole exhibition match at Woodstock Country Club Monday (Labor Day) at 3 p. m.

Playing in the foursome with Sarazen will be J. Carson Hutchins, Woodstock professional; Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) de Lisio, Ulster County women's champion and the winner of today's WCC championship finals between Eric Knutsen and Herb Waterous.

Proceeds of the match will be shared by St. John's Parish of West Hurley and Woodstock and St. Ann's Church of Germantown. The Rev. Richard Stewart, pastor of St. John's, is chairman of arrangements.

Sarazen comes to Woodstock directly from London, England, where he has been serving as commentator for an international series on golf which will be released on television early in 1962.

The Squire of Germantown who still plays in knickers is one of the most durable golfers in history. He won his first U. S. Open more than 30 years ago and is still a tremendous golfer.

Sarazen has won every major title in golf, including two U. S. Opens, three National PGA's, two British Open and one Masters in which he fired his famous double-eagle 2 on a par-five hole at the Augusta National course in Atlanta.

Woodstock Favorite

A warm favorite of area fans, Sarazen has made frequent appearances in Kingston and Woodstock over the years. He posted a 5-under-par 65 at Woodstock in a round in which he twice drove the No. 8 green.

Sarazen's stature and prestige has remained undiminished long after his contemporaries — Long Jim Barnes, Tommy Armour, Leo Diegel, Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen and others have faded from the scene.

In recent years he has won two National PGA Seniors championships and is a steady competitor in the Masters and PGA.

The current golf tour for which Sarazen is serving as player and commentator will take him around the world. He has been stationed in London, while filming matches at historic St. Andrew's in Scotland, Wentworth in England and St. Cloud in Paris.

Sarazen is regarded as one of golf's most articulate spokesmen and is in wide demand for lectures and exhibition matches. He has a particular fondness for Woodstock Country Club, which he describes as one of the most beautiful 9-hole courses in the country.

The Rev. Stewart invites the public to watch the match.

Washington then ended the AL's longst losing string of the season behind the six-hit pitching of Joe McClain (8-14). Billy Pierce (7-8) was the loser.

A two-run triple by Zoilo Versalles in the second inning off Don Schwall (13-4) wrapped it up for the Twins and Pete Ramos (10-16).

Six consecutive hits and a sacrifice fly by starting pitcher Eli Grba gave the Angels five runs in the fourth inning against the A's and beat Norm Bass (7-10). Tom Morgan (7-2) was the winner in relief.

Wills, Roseboro Spark Comeback By 2nd Place Club

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers, with Maury Wills and John Roseboro each batting in two runs, defeated Milwaukee 4-3 last night and climbed within 2½ games of idle Cincinnati again in the National League race.

That dropped the Braves back to fourth place as San Francisco reclaimed third with a 4-3, 14-inning victory at Chicago. The St. Louis Cardinals rapped Pittsburgh 8-4 in the only other NL game scheduled.

The Dodgers, blowing a 3-1 lead after coming from behind, squared their season series with the Braves at 9-9 on Roseboro's tie-breaking single in the ninth. It followed a walk and a sacrifice and beat Don McMahon (6-2) in relief. Dick Farrell (8-6) was the winner in relief, after giving up the Braves' tying run in the eighth with two wild pitches.

13th Straight

Curt Flood, Alex Grammas and Jim Schaffer each drove in two runs for the Cardinals, who won their 13th in a row at home while beating Joe Gibbon (10-9). Right-hander Larry Jackson (11-9) checked the Bucs on eight hits —three by Smoky Burgess, who belted a two-run homer.

The Giants tied it 3-all in the eighth with an unearned run and then won it on a two-out triple by rookie Ernie Bowman off Don Elston (6-6) in the 14th. Billy Loes (6-5) was the winner as the last of six Giant pitchers who blanked the Cubs over the last 12 frames.

U. S. Is Leading In Walker Cup

SEATTLE (AP) — Great Britain sent its two finest amateurs against the pair of aces who head the United States squad today in an all-out effort to check the Yankee bid for victory in the international Walker Cup golf matches.

Michael Bonallack of Thorpe Bay, England, British amateur champion, met Deane Beaman of Arlington, Va., wearer of the American crown, in the first of the eight singles matches which will close out the 1961 competition.

And match No. 5 brought together the two who are regarded as the top members of their teams —veteran Joe Carr of Sutton, Ireland, and 21-year-old Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio.

The invading team from over the Atlantic lost four Scots foursome matches and four points Friday in the opening phase.

Now it must win at least five singles matches and hold the three other even to pull victory out of defeat. A match victory counts one point; a match tie, nothing.

Palmer, John Pott, Stewart Share Lead

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The expected happened in the $30,000 $30,000 Dallas Open Friday — Arnold Palmer and Earl Stewart were tied for the first round lead with a 3-under-par 67.

Johnny Pott, the defending champion, did the unexpected when he also deadlocked for the top with 67.

Stewart seldom plays but he always tried in his own tournament, since he is the Oak Cliff Country Club pro. In three previous tournaments he led part of the time and wound up with a big chunk of the money.

So it was not surprising when Stewart, who knows every inch of the 6,800-yard course, particularly the tricky greens, had himself a great putting day to tie for the lead. He had 11 1-putt greens and only 23 putts in all.

Pott made a great finish to tie for the lead, banging birdies in succession on 12, 13 and 14 to wind up with a 32 on the back nine. This was the lowest score for the stretch during the day. Pott had been the forgotten man when pre-tournament predictions were made. It was all Palmer, Gary Player and Doug Sanders, the first three men in the money race.

But Player had a 72 and complained of the rough greens and the high winds and Sanders shot a 70.

Three little known pros were tied at 68, a stroke back of the leaders. They were Jerry Pittman of Tulsa, Gene Mitchell Jr. of Lubbock, Tex., and Charles Sifford, the first Negro to play in a PGA sponsored tournament in Texas.

50G Handicap Set at Belmont On Labor Day

The second week of Belmont Park's 30-day meeting gets under way with holiday conditions prevailing on Monday, Labor Day, with the $50,000 Aqueduct Handicap, a mile and a furlong for three-year-olds and upward heading the program. The Labor Day card starts off a week that is climaxed next Saturday with the 55th running of the $50,000 added Matron, for two-year-old fillies. In between these stakes the older fillies and mares have their own event, the $25,000 added Maskette Handicap of a mile on Wednesday.

The Aqueduct Handicap on Labor Day figures to draw a fine field of about eleven and among the starters is expected to be the Alamode Farm's Mail Order, winner of three stakes events here in New York in the Spring, but a disappointment in the Fall Highweight last Monday under the steadying weight of 134 pounds.

Among those slated to face Mail Order are such tried campaigners as C. V. Whitney's Tompion, J. F. Gagel's Reinzi, Harbor View Farm's Francis S., Llangollen Farm's Devine Comedy, High Tide Stable's Whodunit, Mrs. Q. A. Shaw McKean's Polylad, Connie Ring's Dress Up, Gustave Ring's Don Poggio, Cain Hoy Stable's Tooth and Nail and Green, and Fisher's Black Thumper.

Tooth and Nail turned in a fine victory at seven furlongs on opening day of the current meeting with a fast-closing Francis S. second.

The Matron is one of the top races of the year for the juvenile fillies and already there is $91,640 in the purse before the $750 which each starter must put into the pot. Of this sum, $41,640 is from the original nomination fees and continuing eligibility payments and the other $50,000 is added by the New York Racing Association.

Among those likely to start are such as the Meadow Stable's Cicada, Ogden Phipps' Broadway, Darby Dan Farm's Bramalea, Mrs. John W. Galdbreath's Annie O., James Drymon's Fiji Flower, C. V. Whitney's Jazz Queen, George D. Widener's Pontivy, Cain Hoy Stable's Starry Pools and Hal Price Headley's No Comment, the latter a winner at Belmont last Tuesday.

Dallas Beats Colts; 49ers in 38-20 Victory

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Dallas Cowboys, only one-year-old but thriving on the formula prepared by coach Tom Landry, are beginning to make menacing gestures in the National Football League.

The Cowboys, who came into existence last year and wound up with 11 losses and one tie, have accomplished an amazing flip-flop by winning two of four exhibition games. Their latest was a 35-24 walloping of the Baltimore Colts Friday night.

Landry, a stern tactician and highly rated strategist who came to the Cowboys from the New York Giants, installed former Southern Methodist star Don Meredith at quarterback against the Colts and he responded with four touchdown passes.

Usually alternated with veteran Eddie LeBaron, Meredith ran the Cowboys throughout, connecting on 15 of 26 passes for 224 yards in a fine performance climaxed by a 35-yard TD toss to Dick Bielski in the third quarter.

In the only other NFL pre-season test, San Francisco whipped Los Angeles 38-20. Boston's Patriots edged Buffalo 15-12 and Houston thumped Denver 42-10 in American League games.

Stickles Scores

Trailing 20-17 in the third quarter, the 49ers won it on a pair of payoff pitches by rookie Billy Kilmer. Kilmer fired a 10-yarder to Monte Stickles, then connected on a 66-yarder to Bernie Casey after the Rams had pulled ahead on Zeke Bratkowski's 45-yard TD pass to Red Phillips and a 73-yard punt return by Jon Arnett.

In games today, St. Louis is at Detroit, Minnesota meets Chicago at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Washington tackles Philadelphia at Bristol, Tenn. and Cleveland takes on Pittsburgh at Akron, Ohio.

Harness Roundup

Matinee-Night Performance Set at Monticello Raceway

Meanwhile, Monticello Raceway has its second matinee program of the year today. Nine betting races are scheduled for the afternoon and eight for the regular night program. In addition, the New York State Sire Stakes for trotters and pacers will be held, without betting, before the afternoon card. World Champion pacer Adios Butler will tour the track between races in a time trial.

The night program lost some of its interest when Elaine Rodney elected to by-pass the Harness Tracks of America Trot and another duel with Merrie Duke. The Duke now should have no trouble taking the winner's share of the $10,000 purse.

The feature at Yonkers Raceway tonight is the $45,470 Bronx Futurity Pace at 1 1-16 miles for 3-year-old fillies.

Two $10,000 races were on Friday night's schedule—one for pacers at Yonkers Raceway, the other for trotters at Vernon Downs.

Adios Don set a track record for 3-year-old colts at Yonkers in a tuneup for next week's Cane Futurity. His 2:01 was a fifth of a second faster than the mark set last week by Flying Baker.

At Vernon, winner Hoot Frost was timed in 2:00 2-5 and paid $3.20. Jimmy Arthur, who drove Harlan Dean to victory in the Hambletonian at DuQuoin, Ill., on Wednesday, was up behind Hoot Frost.

Other feature winners Friday night:

Batavia Downs — Dalyce Blue ($12.60) in the $5,000 Invitational Trot in 2:04 4-5.

Saratoga Raceway — Section Man ($8.80) in the $1,500 Class B Trot in 2:07.

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Chuck McKinley, America's top hope in the National Tennis Championships, today blasted the United States Lawn Tennis Association for the way they:

1. Handled the Dennis Ralston case.

2. Arranged the preliminary Davis Cup rounds.

McKinley, second seeded behind Australia's Rod Laver, marched into the second round with a 7-5, 6-2, 6-2 victory over George Stoesser of Tucson, Ariz., Friday as the 10-day nationals got under way in the West Side Tennis Club.

"There is only one word to describe the action of the USLTA against Ralston—it's ridiculous," said McKinley. The USLTA suspended Ralston, who along with McKinley and Tut Bartzen made up the U.S. Davis Cup team, for unsportsmanlike conduct in the North American Zone final against Mexico two weeks ago.

"I'm the voice of experience on these things," said McKinley.

(He is on probation for arousing the ire of the USLTA in Australia last year.)

"And I know how Dennis feels. He gave everything he had and they suspend him.

"I know just what happened. He cussed exactly once. They accused him of turning his back on the Mexican captain when he offered him a towel. Dennis didn't even see him approach. I was standing right there."

McKinley also said he and Ralston would have had an easier time against the Mexicans if the match had been played on grass instead of clay.

"Now", he said, "I see they're thinking of playing India in the next round on clay in India. They say the members of the India team have obligations at home. They have so many obligations that they're playing all over Europe now.

Behind in Schooling

"Did it ever occur to the USLTA that we have obligations too. I'm behind in my schoolwork at Trinity (Tex) University now. If I got into a real jam, I'd just tell them I couldn't play, so sorry.

"And everyone is asking what's wrong with tennis?"

The lower half of the first round was completed Friday with no surprises. McKinley is ranked No. 2, behind Laver, who doesn't get into action until Sunday.

Roy Emerson, No. 3, Laver's Aussie Davis Cup teammate, whipped Ed Rubinoff of Miami Beach, 6-2, 6-1, 6-0. Bob Mark, No. 5, another Aussie, dropped Herb Fitzgibbon of Garden City, N.Y., 6-2, 6-1, 6-0, and Ron Holmberg, No. 8 of Brooklyn, turned back Mike Green of Philadelphia 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Sickler's Tops Masons, 3-1, To Win Loop Championship

Pushing two runs across the dish in the fifth inning, Sickler's won the American Little League championship with a 3-1 verdict over the Masons on Thursday.

Joel Tomson hurled the victory, a nifty three-hitter. He walked only two and struck out seven in beating tough luck Mike Weishaupt.

Fast Trotters Slated Tonight At Spa Raceway

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Sept. 2—A card that's loaded with fast trotters and pacers is on tap at Saratoga Raceway for tonight's final program of the most successful Summer meeting at the Spa track. The fall meeting of the Orange County Driving Park Association will open Monday night at Saratoga.

In the pace expected to be the faster of the two, Vinn Hanover is returning from campaigns in New York City area, where he was timed in 2:03 2/5 in finishing second at Roosevelt Raceway earlier in the year. He figures to be tough despite coming out of the seven post, but will have some stiff competition from the likes of Philip Model, who has the pole and will be after his fifth win, and Walter Knight a 2:05 2/5 winner her in July. Also promising trouble is Tassy, a seven-time winner with a mark of 2:04 1/5 back in July. Rounding out the field of fleet pacers are Judge Dares, Trumpet, Jackie D. and Brunson.

The other top event will bring together another closely matched field and will mark the first appearance here in some time of the speedy Meadow Mac, a 2:07 3/5 victor recently at Foxboro. He'll have to match strides with such good pacers as Windale Bonnie Box (2:05 1/5), Indian Beach (2:06 2/5), State Barrier (2:05 2/5 on a three quarter mile track). Happy Day Time (2:06 3/5), King Elias (2:06 3/5), Time Study (2:06 4/5) and Bev Hi Le (2:07).

Gino Cappelletti Paces Patriots

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—If the Buffalo Bills never see Boston halfback Gino Cappelletti again, it will be too soon.

Cappelletti, who took his football undergraduate work at Minnesota, did everyting but blow up the ball Friday night as the Patriots bombed the Bills 15-12 in an American Football League exhibition game.

All the Boston points represent Cappelletti treatment, including a nifty play on a 31-yard touchdown pass from Babe Parilli and three lengthy field goals.

It was the final pre-season game for both clubs and left Boston with a 3-1 record. Buffalo went without a victory in four games.

Ulster Dodgers Score 11-8 Win

Scott Miller homered with two runners on base and the Town of Ulster Dodgers walloped the Indians, 11-8. Jeff Perry was the winner over Russ Wilber.

Perry and Charlie Lay rapped doubles while Al Whitmore had a pair of triples. Wilber allowed only eight hits but he issued 13 walks and they kept him in hot water most of the way. Lay stroked two singles in addition to his double.

Birds to Wait Before Hiring New Manager

BALTIMORE (AP) — General manager Lee MacPhail indicated today the Baltimore Orioles would seek a replacement for manager Paul Richards from another major league club.

"We probably won't talk to anyone until after Oct. 1 (the end of the current season)," MacPhail said. "Everyone whom we might consider is under contract."

He also said the club was willing to pay the price necessary to land the man it wants, explaining the club contemplated "no retrenchment" after the departure of Richards.

Richards was in the first year of a three-year contract calling for about $50,000 a year. The 52-year-old Texan left the team Friday to become general manager of the Houston Colts, who will join the expanded National League in 1962.

Oriole coach Luman Harris was named interim manager for the remainder of the season.

MacPhail said the 1962 job was "wide open" and that Harris possibly could be signed for another year. But there already is speculation that Harris will join Richards at Houston.

Richards announced his resignation Tuesday, but had been expected to finish the season with Baltimore. After the team returned from a road trip Friday, however, a conference was held and the club announced his resignation would be accepted immediately "in the interest of everyone concerned."

"Paul was willing to continue," MacPhail said, "and I'm sure it wouldn't have affected his job on the field. But the increased publicity and speculation forced our hand."

Orange Gridders Continue Drills

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A 70-man Syracuse University football squad continues conditioning exercises and basic plays today in a toughening process for the Sept. 23 season opener against Oregon State at Portland, Ore.

The squad began two-a-day drills in hot, humid weather Friday—more than two hours in the morning and another two in the afternoon.

Vernon Officials Are Still Hoping For Hambletonian

VERNON, N.Y. (AP) — Vernon Downs will keep trying to bring the famed Hambletonian harness race back to its home state of New York.

Clarence Gaines, a Vernon vice president, said a decision by the Hambletonian directors to keep the trotting classic in DuQuoin, Ill., for one year instead of five years, was a moral victory for Vernon Downs.

Vernon, between Syracuse and Utica, was offered a one-year contract at the directors' meeting in DuQuoin Thursday. The track withdrew its bid, preferring a longer term.

Gaines commented Friday: "We already are marshalling our forces for next year's meeting to attempt further to bring the Hambletonian to Vernon Downs and keep it here." The race dates back to the '20s and was held variously at Syracuse, Goshen and Yonkers before it was moved to DuQuoin several years ago.

Kingston Glass Mixed Winners

Kingston Glass Co. won the Ferraro Summer Mixed League championship with a 32-13 record. Jones Dairy and Adirondack Transit tied for second with Jones winning a rolloff as Bob Jones unlimbered a 676 blast.

Larry Petersen was in mid-season form with a 199 average for high honors. Rose Schatzel led the women with 172. Petersen had high single (278) and high triple (689). Mrs. Schatzel walloped a 233 single and a 577 triple. Team high three was 2607 by Kingston Glass Co. and team high solo was 921 by T. P. Tavern.

Birds to Wait Before Hiring New Manager

BALTIMORE (AP) — General manager Lee MacPhail indicated today the Baltimore Orioles would seek a replacement for manager Paul Richards from another major league club.

"We probably won't talk to anyone until after Oct. 1 (the end of the current season)," MacPhail said. "Everyone whom we might consider is under contract."

He also said the club was willing to pay the price necessary to land the man it wants, explaining the club contemplated "no retrenchment" after the departure of Richards.

Richards was in the first year of a three-year contract calling for about $50,000 a year. The 52-year-old Texan left the team Friday to become general manager of the Houston Colts, who will join the expanded National League in 1962.

Oriole coach Luman Harris was named interim manager for the remainder of the season.

MacPhail said the 1962 job was "wide open" and that Harris possibly could be signed for another year. But there already is speculation that Harris will join Richards at Houston.

Richards announced his resignation Tuesday, but had been expected to finish the season with Baltimore. After the team returned from a road trip Friday, however, a conference was held and the club announced his resignation would be accepted immediately "in the interest of everyone concerned."

"Paul was willing to continue," MacPhail said, "and I'm sure it wouldn't have affected his job on the field. But the increased publicity and speculation forced our hand."

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A 70-man Syracuse University football squad continues conditioning exercises and basic plays today in a toughening process for the Sept. 23 season opener against Oregon State at Portland, Ore.

The squad began two-a-day drills in hot, humid weather Friday—more than two hours in the morning and another two in the afternoon.

Fast Trotters Slated Tonight At Spa Raceway

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Sept. 2—A card that's loaded with fast trotters and pacers is on tap at Saratoga Raceway for tonight's final program of the most successful Summer meeting at the Spa track. The fall meeting of the Orange County Driving Park Association will open Monday night at Saratoga.

In the pace expected to be the faster of the two, Vinn Hanover is returning from campaigns in New York City area, where he was timed in 2:03 2/5 in finishing second at Roosevelt Raceway earlier in the year. He figures to be tough despite coming out of the seven post, but will have some stiff competition from the likes of Philip Model, who has the pole and will be after his fifth win, and Walter Knight a 2:05 2/5 winner her in July. Also promising trouble is Tassy, a seven-time winner with a mark of 2:04 1/5 back in July. Rounding out the field of fleet pacers are Judge Dares, Trumpet, Jackie D. and Brunson.

The other top event will bring together another closely matched field and will mark the first appearance here in some time of the speedy Meadow Mac, a 2:07 3/5 victor recently at Foxboro. He'll have to match strides with such good pacers as Windale Bonnie Box (2:05 1/5), Indian Beach (2:06 2/5), State Barrier (2:05 2/5 on a three quarter mile track), Happy Day Time (2:06 3/5), King Elias (2:06 3/5), Time Study (2:06 4/5) and Bev Hi Le (2:07).

Gino Cappelletti Paces Patriots

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—If the Buffalo Bills never see Boston halfback Gino Cappelletti again, it will be too soon.

Cappelletti, who took his football undergraduate work at Minnesota, did everyting but blow up the ball Friday night as the Patriots bombed the Bills 15-12 in an American Football League exhibition game.

All the Boston points represent Cappelletti treatment, including a nifty play on a 31-yard touchdown pass from Babe Parilli and three lengthy field goals.

It was the final pre-season game for both clubs and left Boston with a 3-1 record. Buffalo went without a victory in four games.

Set Registration For Adult Classes During September

Registration for classes in this year's Adult Education program will be held the latter part of this month. It is expected that classes will begin early in October. A list of proposed courses will be announced.

This week the members of the lay advisory committee met with the director and assistant director of Adult Education and discussed plans for this year's courses.

Last year some of the most successful courses in terms of attendance were the following: High School equivalency course, English for foreign-born, stenoscript shorthand, Gregg shorthand, beginning typewriting, office practice, automobile mechanics, welding, first aid, oil painting, beginning sewing, intermediate sewing, reupholstering, driver training.

Most of these courses and some new ones will be offered to adults this year. Any adult who is interested in a course that is not listed is invited to make a request for such an offering. If the course falls within the scope of the Adult Education program and if a minimum enrollment can be maintained, the offering of the course will be favorably considered.

Director of the Adult Education program is Dr. Grant D. Morse, assistant director is Leon McLaughlin. All phone calls should be directed to McLaughlin. Lay Advisory Committee members are Roy Helsmoortel, Mrs. Gladys Cutler, Mrs. Carolyn France, Mrs. Inez Steele, Mrs. Ethel Donaldson, Robert Herb.

Jayncees Announ Sewing Contest Blanks Available

All women's organizations in the Saugerties area were sent application blanks this week for the Jayncee sponsored sewing contest which will have its final judging September 23 at Saugerties Dutch Reformed Church, beginning at 1 p. m.

The competition is divided into five categories: Beginners, intermediate, advanced, and children's wear, beginners and advanced.

Entries are limited to two garments per person, and awards will be presented to the three best in each category.

Mrs. Gerald Kurtz of 5 Austin Avenue may be contacted for further information.

All entries, whether winners or not, may model their clothes in the Jayncee Fashion Show, an annual affair, to be held at the high school cafeteria on October 3, at 8 p. m. Richard Messina of Simmons Street will be commentator. Tickets are now available from any member of the Jayncee organization.

Slate Services

"When Jesus Took Command" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Frederick J. Imhoff, pastor of First Congregational Church, at the Sunday morning worship service 10 a. m.

The service on September 10 will also be at this same hour, but on September 17 the Sunday church school will be resumed and held at this hour, and Church services will begin at 11 a. m. This schedule will continue through the fall and winter months.

Events Scheduled

Sunday—Ninth annual VFW barbecue, 2 p. m., Cantine Field, rain or shine.

Monday—Seventy-first annual High Woods Reformed Church Labor Day Fair and ham dinner, 12 noon until evening.

Court Prevents Tightening Bingo Rules on Vets

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A temporary court order restrains the State Lottery Control Commission from enforcing three tightened bingo rules against 19 veterans' and charitable organizations in Brooklyn.

One rule that went into effect only Friday limits to three the number of games that may be conducted in a building in a week.

The two other rules challenged prohibit package sales of cards and sale of new cards after 10 games. These two rules were among 10 that went into effect in June.

The commission said it tightened the rules to better supervise the games after disclosures of abuses and infiltration of undesirable elements.

Justice Russell G. Hunt of State Supreme Court said he would make a decision after a hearing. He issued a temporary restraining order Thursday.

Of the 19 groups, 14 play bingo in the Veterans Hall in Brooklyn. Three use Hicksville Hall in Nassau County. Two rent the Rollerdrome in Brooklyn.

Newburgh City Has Compromise On Urban Plan

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—Newburgh and federal officials have worked out a compromise in a dispute threatening to kill the city's $3-million federally aided urban renewal program.

Property owners, predominantly Negroes, in the area to be rebuilt, have complained that they would not be adequately compensated under the terms of approved real estate appraisals.

On the basis of these complaints, the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency last week ordered a reappraisal of the properties.

Lester Eisner Jr., regional administrator of the federal agency, met Friday with John M. Kenney, Newburgh's director of urban renewal. They agreed upon a reappraisal, starting next Tuesday, but Newburgh officials may proceed with negotiations already under way for property acquisition.

The city promised it would not undertake new negotiations pending report of the federal study group.

Levitt Is Asking For State Probe Campaign Bigotry

NEW YORK (AP)—State comptroller Arthur Levitt has called for a state probe of "the practice of political bigotry" in the city's mayoralty campaign.

Levitt, opposing Mayor Robert F. Wagner for the Democratic nomination, forwarded his request for the investigation Friday to State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, the Republican candidate for mayor.

With it, he sent five exhibits in support of his charges that Wagner's campaign workers were appealing for votes on the basis of racial and religious bigotry.

Lefkowitz said Friday night he would have no comment on Levitt's request until he had a chance to examine the exhibits.

Levitt and Lefkowitz are Jews. Wagner is a Roman Catholic.

Among exhibits Levitt submitted to the attorney general were publications designed to appeal for Wagner votes to Negroes, Jews and Irish-Americans.

No Mail Monday P.O. Lobbies Are Open

Kingston Post Office and its stations will not be open for business on Monday, Labor Day. There will be no city delivery or rural service on this date.

A schedule of hours was announced by Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk during which time lobbys in the three local post offices will be open for the convenience of post office box holders.

Main Post Office from 6 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Uptown Station from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m.

Rondout Station from 9 to 10 a. m.

500,000 More To Get Benefits Of Compensation

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 500,000 workers in the state previously excluded from compensation and disability coverage will be eligible for the protection starting Jan. 1.

The State Workmen's Compensation Board made the announcement Friday. The eligibility of the workers came as a result of amendments to state laws made over the past three years, it said.

S. E. Senior, board chairman, said employers—with few exceptions—will be required to insure their employes on the effective date, regardless of the number of workers they have.

He warned that "failure to insure the required payments of benefits for employes subjects the non-complying employer to both monetary and criminal penalties."

To Develop Gas Storage

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Iroquois Gas Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y., will develop and operate underground gas-storage facilities in the Perrysburg gas field in southwestern New York.

The Power Commission Friday authorized the $1,812,000 project. The commission said the company also will build about two miles of pipeline to connect two Iroquois main transmissin lines that feed the metropolitan Buffalo area.

The gas field is in Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties.

Central Schools To Open Sept. 6

Frederick C. Dippel, supervising principal of New Paltz Central School, announced that classes will resume Wednesday.

Letters will be sent to all pupils who are registered giving details about the opening of the school.

This year, for the first time, because of a shortage of classrooms, Kindergarten, First and Second Grades will be on double sessions. The morning session will begin 8 a. m., and be dismissed at noon. The afternoon session will start at noon and be dismissed at about 4 p. m.

Any pupils new to the community who have not as yet been registered, should report in the central school office as soon as possible.

Any high school students who desire a change of schedule, should take care of this matter before the opening of school.

Mr. Benenati, Guidance Counselor, will be in his office each day to take care of new entrants and schedule problems.

Red Sox, Winners Of Little Paltz League Play-off

The Red Sox emerged as winners at the end-of-season play-off of the Little New Paltz League, with Giants second at the Campus School Field last Sunday.

Accepts Position As First Harpist

Miss Joyce Resenfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Resenfield of 8 North Manheim Boulevard, New Paltz, has accepted the position of first harpist in the Oklahoma City Symphony for the 1961-62 season.

Previous to this she was first harpist in both the Fort Worth Symphony and Fort Worth Opera orchestras. During the year she was in charge of the Harp Department at Texas Christian University.

During the past summer, Miss Resenfield was the harp teacher at Brevard Music Center in North Carolina and first harpist with the Transylvania Symphony Orchestra. Two weeks ago in Charlotte, N. C., this orchestra made a TV educational tape, "The Union and the Confederacy" with music by Richard Bales. This program is scheduled on various stations throughout the country.

On August 22, Miss Rosenfield appeared with the Transylvania Symphony at the White House, Washington, D. C. The performance was in answer to an invitation by President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy to present a concert as part of the Youth for America program.

Joyce is a graduate of Oberlin and the Curtis Institute, Carlos Salxedo has said of her. "She is one of my most gifted students; a sensitive and disciplined artist whose interpretation of a composer's work speaks of a deep understanding. I expect her to be one of our great harpists. This is why on her graduation from Curtis Institute, I offer her an unlimited scholarship."

Miss Rosenfield will be at her parents home here for the first three weeks in September, and tentative arrangements are being made for a harp concert during the time she will be in New Paltz.

Spoon Collection

MORRISTOWN, N. J. (AP)—James A. Crotty has collected over 1,000 spoons in the last 14 years, each with a history. One commemorates the coronation of William and Mary in England in 1689, another is a rare French spoon made in 1412, the year Joan of Arc was born, and a third was made in Arabia in 1313. Asked which is his favorite spoon, Crotty replied: "That's easy—the one I eat with."

Think and Thin

One way to curb an appetite for fattening foods is to eat your salad and drink a glass of milk at the start of your meal. Both are filling and you won't be inclined to eat more than you should of the rest of the dinner.

Set Registration For Adult Classes During September

Registration for classes in this year's Adult Education program will be held the latter part of this month. It is expected that classes will begin early in October. A list of proposed courses will be announced.

This week the members of the lay advisory committee met with the director and assistant director of Adult Education and discussed plans for this year's courses.

Last year some of the most successful courses in terms of attendance were the following: High School equivalency course, English for foreign-born, stenoscript shorthand, Gregg shorthand, beginning typewriting, office practice, automobile mechanics, welding, first aid, oil painting, beginning sewing, intermediate sewing, reupholstering, driver training.

Most of these courses and some new ones will be offered to adults this year. Any adult who is interested in a course that is not listed is invited to make a request for such an offering. If the course falls within the scope of the Adult Education program and if a minimum enrollment can be maintained, the offering of the course will be favorably considered.

Director of the Adult Education program is Dr. Grant D. Morse, assistant director is Leon McLaughlin. All phone calls should be directed to McLaughlin. Lay Advisory Committee members are Roy Helsmoortel, Mrs. Gladys Cutler, Mrs. Carolyn France, Mrs. Inez Steele, Mrs. Ethel Donaldson, Robert Herb.

Jayncees Announ Sewing Contest Blanks Available

All women's organizations in the Saugerties area were sent application blanks this week for the Jayncee sponsored sewing contest which will have its final judging September 23 at Saugerties Dutch Reformed Church, beginning at 1 p. m.

The competition is divided into five categories: Beginners, intermediate, advanced, and children's wear, beginners and advanced.

Entries are limited to two garments per person, and awards will be presented to the three best in each category.

Mrs. Gerald Kurtz of 5 Austin Avenue may be contacted for further information.

All entries, whether winners or not, may model their clothes in the Jayncee Fashion Show, an annual affair, to be held at the high school cafeteria on October 3, at 8 p. m. Richard Messina of Simmons Street will be commentator. Tickets are now available from any member of the Jayncee organization.

Slate Services

"When Jesus Took Command" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Frederick J. Imhoff, pastor of First Congregational Church, at the Sunday morning worship service 10 a. m.

The service on September 10 will also be at this same hour, but on September 17 the Sunday church school will be resumed and held at this hour, and Church services will begin at 11 a. m. This schedule will continue through the fall and winter months.

Events Scheduled

Sunday—Ninth annual VFW barbecue, 2 p. m., Cantine Field, rain or shine.

Monday—Seventy-first annual High Woods Reformed Church Labor Day Fair and ham dinner, 12 noon until evening.

Court Prevents Tightening Bingo Rules on Vets

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A temporary court order restrains the State Lottery Control Commission from enforcing three tightened bingo rules against 19 veterans' and charitable organizations in Brooklyn.

The organizations challenged the regulations on the ground the commission exceeded its authority.

One rule that went into effect only Friday limits to three the number of games that may be conducted in a building in a week.

The two other rules challenged prohibit package sales of cards and sale of new cards after 10 games. These two rules were among 10 that went into effect in June.

The commission said it tightened the rules to better supervise the games after disclosures of abuses and infiltration of undesirable elements.

Justice Russell G. Hunt of State Supreme Court said he would make a decision after a hearing. He issued a temporary restraining order Thursday.

Of the 19 groups, 14 play bingo in the Veterans Hall in Brooklyn. Three use Hicksville Hall in Nassau County. Two rent the Rollerdrome in Brooklyn.

Newburgh City Has Compromise On Urban Plan

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—Newburgh and federal officials have worked out a compromise in a dispute threatening to kill the city's $3-million federally aided urban renewal program.

Property owners, predominantly Negroes, in the area to be rebuilt, have complained that they would not be adequately compensated under the terms of approved real estate appraisals.

On the basis of these complaints, the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency last week ordered a reappraisal of the properties.

Lester Eisner Jr., regional administrator of the federal agency, met Friday with John M. Kenney, Newburgh's director of urban renewal. They agreed upon a reappraisal, starting next Tuesday, but Newburgh officials may proceed with negotiations already under way for property acquisition.

The city promised it would not undertake new negotiations pending report of the federal study group.

Levitt Is Asking For State Probe Campaign Bigotry

NEW YORK (AP)—State comptroller Arthur Levitt has called for a state probe of "the practice of political bigotry" in the city's mayoralty campaign.

Levitt, opposing Mayor Robert F. Wagner for the Democratic nomination, forwarded his request for the investigation Friday to State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, the Republican candidate for mayor.

With it, he sent five exhibits in support of his charges that Wagner's campaign workers were appealing for votes on the basis of racial and religious bigotry.

Lefkowitz said Friday night he would have no comment on Levitt's request until he had a chance to examine the exhibits.

Levitt and Lefkowitz are Jews. Wagner is a Roman Catholic.

Among exhibits Levitt submitted to the attorney general were publications designed to appeal for Wagner votes to Negroes, Jews and Irish-Americans.

No Mail Monday P.O. Lobbies Are Open

500,000 More To Get Benefits Of Compensation

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 500,000 workers in the state previously excluded from compensation and disability coverage will be eligible for the protection starting Jan. 1.

The State Workmen's Compensation Board made the announcement Friday. The eligibility of the workers came as a result of amendments to state laws made over the past three years, it said.

S. E. Senior, board chairman, said employers—with few exceptions—will be required to insure their employes on the effective date, regardless of the number of workers they have.

He warned that "failure to insure the required payments of benefits for employes subjects the non-complying employer to both monetary and criminal penalties."

To Develop Gas Storage

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Iroquois Gas Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y., will develop and operate underground gas-storage facilities in the Perrysburg gas field in southwestern New York.

The Power Commission Friday authorized the $1,812,000 project. The commission said the company also will build about two miles of pipeline to connect two Iroquois main transmissin lines that feed the metropolitan Buffalo area.

The gas field is in Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties.

Central Schools To Open Sept. 6

Frederick C. Dippel, supervising principal of New Paltz Central School, announced that classes will resume Wednesday.

Letters will be sent to all pupils who are registered giving details about the opening of the school.

This year, for the first time, because of a shortage of classrooms, Kindergarten, First and Second Grades will be on double sessions. The morning session will begin 8 a. m., and be dismissed at noon. The afternoon session will start at noon and be dismissed at about 4 p. m.

Any pupils new to the community who have not as yet been registered, should report in the central school office as soon as possible.

Any high school students who desire a change of schedule should take care of this matter before the opening of school.

Mr. Benenati, Guidance Counselor, will be in his office each day to take care of new entrants and schedule problems.

Issue 19 Warrants In Freight Train Theft at Selkirk

Nineteen new warrants were issued Friday by Town of South Bethlehem Justice of the Peace Harold White during the past few days in connection with the freight train theft ring which police authorities said have been operating in the Selkirk railroad yards.

Four additional suspects were apprehended by Leeds and Clavarack state police BCI Troopers said they were from Cementon and South Cairo.

Sherwood Van Keuren, 20 of Athens, one of the first suspects arrested by the BCI alleged to be a member of the ring, was again in Greene County Jail. Troopers said he was involved in burglaries in Columbia County; the Peckham Corp., Ashland, and in another break-in in Albany County. Bail of $1,000 was posted in Columbia County.

Van Keuren was later arraigned before Catskill Justice of the Peace George Carl on another third degree burglary charge in connection with the Peckham firm. He waived examination and is being held pending grand jury action. Bail of $1,000 was set.

A skin diving team under the direction of Sgt. Robert Lund of Saratoga made an attempt to find missing loot and burglars tools in the Hudson River under the Rip Van Winkle Bridge. No results were reported by authorities.

A break in the case came on August 20 when Troopers L. R. Garramone and R. F. Cleary arrested two Athens youths in the alleged act of loading stolen goods into a car. Troopers said they discovered the seal on the freight car broken.

To Emphasize Safety

In conjunction with a nationwide safety program by truck drivers to be conducted through the Labor Day weekend as a reminder to motorists to drive carefully, Mayor Edwin F. Radel today instructed the city police officials to have all department vehicles operated with headlights on until Tuesday morning. The mayor said this is a reminder to motorists to keep accidents in the city at a minimum. The program was endorsed by the Thruway Authority and Motor Vehicle Department.

9 Killed in Blast

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nine workers were killed and three seriously injured Friday in an explosion in a coal mine at Juifang in northeast Formosa. An investigation into safety measures at the mine was begun.

IRS Reminds Of Tax Returns Due September 15

Taxpayers were reminded today by local district director James A. O'Hara that the following tax returns and payments are due to be filed by September 15.

1. Payment of third quarter installment on Declaration of Estimated Tax (Form 1040ES) for calendar year 1961. If the expected earnings as of September 1, 1961, have changed substantially since June 1, 1961, an amended declaration must be filed accompanied by payment of at least one half the remaining estimated amount due for the year.

2. Declaration of Estimated Tax (Form 1040ES) for the calendar year 1961, from individuals other than farmers, whose expected income was such that they were not required to file a declaration by April 17, 1961, or June 15, 1961, but whose expected earnings on or before September 1, have changed to the extent that they are now required to file. Such declaration must be accompanied by payment of at least one half the estimated amount due for the year.

3. Payment of first installment of 25 per cent of the estimated tax together with the Corporation Declaration of Estimated Income Tax (Form 1120ES) for the calendar year 1961 if the corporation income tax can reasonably be expected to exceed $1000,000 plus the amount of any estimated credits against the tax.

4. U. S. Exempt Cooperative Association Income Tax Return (Form 990C) for Farmer's Cooperative Marketing and Purchasing Associations taxable for the calendar year 1960 under the provisions of Sections 521 and 522 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Payment of 50 per cent of the balance of income tax due must accompany the return.

5. Employers liable for income tax withheld and social security taxes in excess of $100 for August 1961, must deposit such taxes (accompanied by Form 450, "Federal Depository Receipt") with the Federal Reserve Bank or with any commercial bank authorized to accept remittances of these taxes for transmission to a Federal Reserve Bank.

The tax official advised taxpayers having questions on the above tax returns to contact the nearest internal revenue district office.

Says Reds Blast Has Huge Power Range With TNT

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's first nuclear weapons test in three years has triggered speculation that Soviet scientists tested a component for one of the superbombs about which Premier Khrushchev has boasted.

The White House announcement Friday described the blast as "in the intermediate range." This would be, according to U.S. scientists, a blast with a force ranging from the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT up to 500,000 tons.

Studies Megaton Bomb

Khrushchev, in announcing a resumption of nuclear weapons tests Wednesday, said Russian scientists now would proceed to develop a 100 megaton bomb, equivalent to 100 million tons of TNT.

U.S. experts do not consider the size of the latest Soviet blast significant. They said an explosion in the intermediate range could be used to test components essential to the successful development of huge nuclear weapons. Smaller nuclear weapons are used to trigger the high yield blasts.

Another theory, expressed by Dr. Ralph Lapp, is that the blast may have been a step in the development of a super warhead for a Minuteman-type intercontinental ballistic missile.

Lapp, a nuclear physicist who is not associated with the government but makes a close study of nuclear weapons, speculated the Russians may have exploded the device before or shortly after they announced their intention to resume nuclear tests.

The blast, Lapp said, may have been a test of a trigger or some other component of a 1 or 2 megaton missile warhead.

He explained: "With the American U2 (spy plane) activities already known, and the Samos (spy-in-the-sky) satellite pending. The Russians are no longer secure with their huge liquid-fueled ICBMS.

"Therefore I believe the Russian generals are now convinced they will have to replace their large-yield ICBMS with smaller ones, like our Minuteman — but that they intend to arm them with a super warhead."

Lapp said he estimates the warheads on Russia's big liquid-fueled ICBMs range up to 8 megaton. He said he believes the Russians feel these big missiles are vulnerable to surprise attack.

Minuteman Weapon

The American Minuteman is a three-stage, solid fuel ICBM which Lapp estimates will carry a warhead with a punch equal to 500,000 tons of TNT. It is designed to be fired from concrete underground silos or moved about on railroad flatcars.

Lapp said the Minuteman probably would be fired at Russian cities in response to Soviet attack and would be effective against those targets.

However, he said Russia's targets in a surprise attack would be Atlas, Titan and Minuteman sites in an effort to prevent any U.S. counterattack.

To be successful, Lapp said, the Russians would need a larger warhead than that used on the U.S. Minuteman missiles.

Woodstock Has Candidates Night: GOP Rally Sept. 16

"Candidates Night" was the theme of the regular meeting of the Woodstock Republican Club held at Deanie's Thursday night.

Republicans who wished to declare their candidacy for nomination at the forthcoming Republican caucus were invited to speak. The local posts to be filled are supervisor, highway superintendent, town clerk, town councilman, justice of the peace and assessor.

Abram F. Molyneaux, incumbent supervisor, made formal announcement of his candidacy to succeed himself. In a brief speech he stated he would stand on his record during his term in office.

Albert Cashdollar, highway superintendent, is also a candidate to continue in office. He pointed with some pride to the improvements to town roads which have been accomplished with virtually no increase in the highway budget over the last 10 years.

William R. West and Gotlob Wagner both announced their candidacy for councilman to succeed Tobie Geertsema, whose term expires this year.

Charles Farley, whose term as justice of the peace expires this year, announced his candidacy to continue in that position. Robert Carr also made known his availability for nomination to this post.

Announcement of the final plans for the Republican Rally on September 16 was also made by Thomas Dendy, president of the club. He stated that Mead's Mountain House had been selected because of its highly pictorial setting and the ample parking space available for the large crowds that are expected. A steak dinner will be starting at 12:30. L. Judson Morhouse, principal speaker and chairman of the New York Republican State Committee, will be on the program at 2 o'clock. A second serving of dinner will follow the program. Deanie will have charge of refreshments.

Dendy also announced interim appointments to fill vacancies among the officers of the club due to two resignations. Andrew Shekitka Jr. is third vice president and Edith B. Melvile recording secretary.

Maurice Goldberg, assistant state attorney general made a brief but eloquent speech urging a concerted effort and unity during the forthcoming campaign.

City Police Seek Hit and Run Driver

Police conducted a search Friday night for a hit-and-run motorist who struck and damaged a car owned by Walter Murdock of 122 Hone Street and drove away from the scene.

Murdock said his car was parked at the curb on McEntee Street, when the accident occurred at 10:50 p. m. Murdock said he was in his home and heard the crash, but before he could reach the sidewalk the other motorist had gone in the direction of Hudson Street.

Murdock said he noted two numerals of the registration plate as the car disappeared.

GROWTH OF A CANADIAN INDUSTRY

St. Andrews-By-the-Sea, New Brunswick, Canada . . . Lobsters constitute an important industry in this Canadian community where I am vacationing. This afternoon I visited the world's largest lobster pound and learned firsthand about a business that employs thousands of men and women, and sells its merchandise to hotels and restaurants in 150 cities throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

Sixty years ago a determined and resourceful young New Brunswick, Canada lobsterman, about 30 years old, organized a company which today is the biggest single lobster establishment in the world. From two to three tons of lobsters are shipped every day. His son is now the owner and manager.

The pound is at Deer Island off the coast of New Brunswick. It has a million pound capacity. It is a small arm of the Bay of Fundy where the tides rise 40 feet in a few hours. It is a year 'round storage place.

Lobsters are taken from this pound into the sorting and shipping establishment at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea in New Brunswick. Its capacity is 200,000 pounds and today it was filled. I spent an hour in the shipping department where barrels of lobsters consigned to Belgium in Europe, to Seattle and San Francisco and to a dozen other Canadian and American cities were being sealed. A young undergraduate from a leading Canadian university, temporarily employed during the busy season, was in charge.

Last year, Canada shipped 52,000,000 pounds of lobster. The five provinces producing this food ranked in the following order:

1. Nova Scotia — 22 million pounds.
2. New Brunswick — 11 million pounds.
3. Prince Edward Island — 10 million pounds.
4. Newfoundland — 5 million pounds.
5. Quebec — 4 million pounds.

Trucks from New Brunswick deliver lobsters to many Eastern Canadian and American cities. Freight shipping declines from year to year as highways improve. This afternoon while spending 30 minutes talking with the owner of the establishment already mentioned, long-distance calls came in from several cities asking when lobster deliveries could be expected.

The Communists are making political capital out of the wretched living conditions in many countries around the world where the natural resources, labor power, and the will-to-work, if properly organized, could bring a better social and economic life.

When a young 30-year-old Canadian lobsterman can organize a company that today is the biggest establishment of its kind in the world, giving employment directly and indirectly to thousands of men and women, it does not take much imagination to see what could be done in other sections of the world if men of determination, resourcefulness and vision could be found to do something along the lines of the lobsterman.

He built a sound business by merchandising the food of the sea. He put into his work the enterprise, thrift and saving that are so greatly needed everywhere in the world.

His establisment here in New Brunswick would thrill any investor interested in seeing what one individual can do for himself, his province and even international society. There is no adequate substitute for integrity, enterprise, thrift and saving.

Requests Probe Of Equalization In Two Townships

A battle in the Towns of Olive and Shandaken over State Equalization rates, appears to be taking on a political complexion. The battle arises over new rates suggested by the state in which the Town of Olive has a suggested rate of 13 instead of its former 15 and Shandaken was dropped from 32 to 29.

Residents of the adjoining towns are concerned over the school tax situation, some Olive residents alleging that they will pay an "unfair" percentage of the Onteora Central School tax.

The latest move was made by Robert Haver of Ashokan, a former Democratic state committeeman and Town of Olive Democratic leader.

Haver sent a telegram to Governor Rockefeller on Wednesday asking for a "State investigation of the entire Ulster County tax structure" and that the Town of Olive counsel be consulted.

Haver, in his request to the governor stated that he believed "the decision of the State Equalization Board last week on the tax readjustment rate of town of Olive and Hurley unfair" and said the citizens of his town are unable to pay any extra tax burden.

He alleges the review of the tax situation in Olive is the result of a request from the Town of Shandaken made last spring to the effect that Olive was not paying its fair share of school tax. In July, Haver states, Olive residents learned of the matter and went to Albany and suggested a review of the Shandaken tax rate. Haver alleges Olive opposition to a school in Phoenicia may have triggered the Shandaken move.

In a lenthy statement issued to the press, Haver offers to debate the tax problem publicly.

Connecticut Youth Killed in Crash Near Pine Plains

An 18-year-old Bristol, Conn. youth was killed at 1:20 a. m. today when the 1957 car he was driving went out of control on a right curve on Route 199, Town of Pine Plains and crashed into a tree.

Dover Plains tropers said Barry E. Bechard, who was driving a car owned by Gilbert A. Bechard, also of Bristol was Dutchess County's first Labor Day weekend traffic fatality.

According to Trooper D. W. Erskine, Bechard was alone in the car traveling west on Route 199 when the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve. The sedan veered off the south side of the highway and crashed into a tree.

Kingston Police Hold Two After Altercation

Police booked John Wilson, 56, of 20 Franklin Street, on a disorderly conduct charge on complaint of Louis Gerbon, 47, of the same address. Gerbon was booked on a third degree assault on complaint of Wilson, police said.

Rhode Island Dealers In Milk Price War

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A wave of price cuts by Rhode Island milk dealers began Friday night. The head of the State Milk Control Board said it appeared that a major price war had started.

Hollywood News, Views

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— This season may be known as television's Mickey Mouse year—except that Disney's famed mouse is probably the only cartoon character who won't be seen on TV.

Television, like the movie industry, is cycle-happy. Remember when Warner Bros. made "Little Caesar" and "Public Enemy" in the early thirties; for years afterward, it took an armored car and submachine guns to get into a theater.

TV producers, many of them alumni of the movie industry, are avid follow-the leader players.

When "The Flintstones," "Yogi Bear," "Huckleberry Hound," and "Rocky and His Friends" and others hit big, it was inevitable that more would follow.

By quick count, at least 10 new cartoon series will be on the air by next spring, including one on "Laurel and Hardy," whose two reelers made 30 years ago still are comedy classics on TV.

Is the cartoon trend accenting the old Hollywood theory that the average fan has a 12-year-old mentality?

"Not in the least," says one top cartoon producer. "Surveys show that 'Yogi Bear' and 'Huck Hound' have greater adult audiences than juvenile. The kids all watch the 'Untouchables' and 'Twilight 'Zone' while the old man watches the cartoons. He gets enough violence out of the world situation."

Recently Jay Ward and Bill Scott introduced their new "Bullwinkle" show at a fancy premiere at the Screen Directors Guild Theater. The premiere and party afterwards was something that Mike Todd might have staged.

Duke's Ring Stolen

LONDON (AP)—Two gold signet rings that once belonged to the duke of Wellington have been stolen from the Bankfield Museum in Halifax, Yorkshire.

Eleven days ago a Goya portrait of the duke, valued at 140,000 pounds ($392,000) was stolen from the National Art Gallery in London.

Museum officials were inclined to believe the theft of the rings was a prank suggested by the theft of the portrait.

"The rings were not worth much," said R.A. Innes, director of the museum.

Hails Partnership

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller, in his annual Labor Day message issued Friday hailed "a genuine partnership between labor and management and the state government" in New York.

Winter Program For Barley Listed

Winter barley producers have the opportunity of participating in the 1962 Feed Grain Program, according to E. M. Wood, chairman, Ulster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Registration for winter barley producers will take place in September and November.

The 1962 barley program, with certain malting varieties excepted, will be similar to the 1961 Feed Grain Program for corn and grain sorghums—designed to bring supplies in balance and cut government costs. Spring barley signups probably will be in March-April at corn-grain sorghum signup time. Those diverting barley acreage to an approved conserving use will receive payments which will serve to stabilize their income level.

For winter barley, approximately half of the diversion payment will be available at registration time, and the balance after compliance is checked in 1962. The 1962 national average support level for barley will not be less than for 1961.

This week County ASCS Offices will mail producers information concerning base acreage and yields (established on the basis of 1959-60 average acreage and production) and payment rates per acre.

Wood said that the minimum diversion under the barley program will be 20 per cent of the farm base (1959-60 average acreage). Up to 20 acres may be diverted if this is more than 20 per cent of the base. The maximum diversion will be 40 per cent of the farm base or 20 acres plus 20 per cent of the base. In no case can the diversion be more than the base.

Farmers who grew barley in 1959 and 1960 are advised to contact the Ulster County ASCS Office, 54 John Street, Kingston, in order that an index and payment rate can be set for the farm.

Kingston Man Hurt In Fall From Ladder

While repairing a chimney at a residence at 274 Albany Avenue shortly after 2 p. m. Friday, Robert DeGroat, 32, of Colonial Gardens suffered injuries when he fell from a ladder.

He was taken to Kingston Hospital in Fatum's ambulance. According to police, DeGroat suffered a concussion, lacerations of the forehead which required 14 sutures and a fractured wrist.

Police said DeGroat was pulling up stone as he stood on a ladder, when suddenly a rung broke. DeGroat was hit on the head with a pulley, and toppled from the ladder to the ground, authorities said.

4-Year-Old Girl Hurt, Struck by Automobile

A four-year-old girl was injured at 4:35 p. m. Friday when struck by an automobile as she was crossing Bruyn Avenue.

Police said Catherine Peterson, of Elmwood Street, was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated for abrasions and contusions and possible concussion.

Oscar Eugene Palmer Jr., 16, of 15 Jansen Avenue, told police he was driving a 1955 car west on Bruyn Avenue when the girl ran from the sidewalk into the path of the vehicle. The car belongs to the Rev. Oscar Palmer of the Jansen Avenue address.

Issue 19 Warrants In Freight Train Theft at Selkirk

Nineteen new warrants were issued Friday by Town of South Bethlehem Justice of the Peace Harold White during the past few days in connection with the freight train theft ring which police authorities said have been operating in the Selkirk railroad yards.

Four additional suspects were apprehended by Leeds and Clavarack state police BCI Troopers said they were from Cementon and South Cairo.

Sherwood Van Keuren, 20 of Athens, one of the first suspects arrested by the BCI alleged to be a member of the ring, was again in Greene County Jail. Troopers said he was involved in burglaries in Columbia County; the Peckham Corp., Ashland, and in another break-in in Albany County. Bail of $1,000 was posted in Columbia County.

Van Keuren was later arraigned before Catskill Justice of the Peace George Carl on another third degree burglary charge in connection with the Peckham firm. He waived examination and is being held pending grand jury action. Bail of $1,000 was set.

A skin diving team under the direction of Sgt. Robert Lund of Saratoga made an attempt to find missing loot and burglars tools in the Hudson River under the Rip Van Winkle Bridge. No results were reported by authorities.

A break in the case came on August 20 when Troopers L. R. Garramone and R. F. Cleary arrested two Athens youths in the alleged act of loading stolen goods into a car. Troopers said they discovered the seal on the freight car broken.

To Emphasize Safety

In conjunction with a nationwide safety program by truck drivers to be conducted through the Labor Day weekend as a reminder to motorists to drive carefully, Mayor Edwin F. Radel today instructed the city police officials to have all department vehicles operated with headlights on until Tuesday morning. The mayor said this is a reminder to motorists to keep accidents in the city at a minimum. The program was endorsed by the Thruway Authority and Motor Vehicle Department.

IRS Reminds Of Tax Returns Due September 15

Taxpayers were reminded today by local district director James A. O'Hara that the following tax returns and payments are due to be filed by September 15.

1. Payment of third quarter installment on Declaration of Estimated Tax (Form 1040ES) for calendar year 1961. If the expected earnings as of September 1, 1961, have changed substantially since June 1, 1961, an amended declaration must be filed accompanied by payment of at least one half the remaining estimated amount due for the year.

2. Declaration of Estimated Tax (Form 1040ES) for the calendar year 1961, from individuals other than farmers, whose expected income was such that they were not required to file a declaration by April 17, 1961, or June 15, 1961, but whose expected earnings on or before September 1, have changed to the extent that they are now required to file. Such declaration must be accompanied by payment of at least one half the estimated amount due for the year.

3. Payment of first installment of 25 per cent of the estimated tax together with the Corporation Declaration of Estimated Income Tax (Form 1120ES) for the calendar year 1961 if the corporation income tax can reasonably be expected to exceed $1000,000 plus the amount of any estimated credits against the tax.

4. U. S. Exempt Cooperative Association Income Tax Return (Form 990C) for Farmer's Cooperative Marketing and Purchasing Associations taxable for the calendar year 1960 under the provisions of Sections 521 and 522 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Payment of 50 per cent of the balance of income tax due must accompany the return.

5. Employers liable for income tax withheld and social security taxes in excess of $100 for August 1961, must deposit such taxes (accompanied by Form 450, "Federal Depository Receipt") with the Federal Reserve Bank or with any commercial bank authorized to accept remittances of these taxes for transmission to a Federal Reserve Bank.

The tax official advised taxpayers having questions on the above tax returns to contact the nearest internal revenue district office.

Says Reds Blast Has Huge Power Range With TNT

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's first nuclear weapons test in three years has triggered speculation that Soviet scientists tested a component for one of the superbombs about which Premier Khrushchev has boasted.

The White House announcement Friday described the blast as "in the intermediate range." This would be, according to U.S. scientists, a blast with a force ranging from the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT up to 500,000 tons.

Studies Megaton Bomb

Khrushchev, in announcing a resumption of nuclear weapons tests Wednesday, said Russian scientists now would proceed to develop a 100 megaton bomb, equivalent to 100 million tons of TNT.

U.S. experts do not consider the size of the latest Soviet blast significant. They said an explosion in the intermediate range could be used to test components essential to the successful development of huge nuclear weapons. Smaller nuclear weapons are used to trigger the high yield blasts.

Another theory, expressed by Dr. Ralph Lapp, is that the blast may have been a step in the development of a super warhead for a Minuteman-type intercontinental ballistic missile.

Lapp, a nuclear physicist who is not associated with the government but makes a close study of nuclear weapons, speculated the Russians may have exploded the device before or shortly after they announced their intention to resume nuclear tests.

The blast, Lapp said, may have been a test of a trigger or some other component of a 1 or 2 megaton missile warhead.

He explained: "With the American U2 (spy plane) activities already known, and the Samos (spy-in-the-sky) satellite pending. The Russians are no longer secure with their huge liquid-fueled ICBMS.

"Therefore I believe the Russian generals are now convinced they will have to replace their large-yield ICBMS with smaller ones, like our Minuteman — but that they intend to arm them with a super warhead."

Lapp said he estimates the warheads on Russia's big liquid-fueled ICBMs range up to 8 megaton. He said he believes the Russians feel these big missiles are vulnerable to surprise attack.

Minuteman Weapon

The American Minuteman is a three-stage, solid fuel ICBM which Lapp estimates will carry a warhead with a punch equal to 500,000 tons of TNT. It is designed to be fired from concrete underground silos or moved about on railroad flatcars.

Lapp said the Minuteman probably would be fired at Russian cities in response to Soviet attack and would be effective against those targets.

However, he said Russia's targets in a surprise attack would be Atlas, Titan and Minuteman sites in an effort to prevent any U.S. counterattack.

To be successful, Lapp said, the Russians would need a larger warhead than that used on the U.S. Minuteman missiles.

Woodstock Has Candidates Night: GOP Rally Sept. 16

"Candidates Night" was the theme of the regular meeting of the Woodstock Republican Club held at Deanie's Thursday night.

Republicans who wished to declare their candidacy for nomination at the forthcoming Republican caucus were invited to speak. The local posts to be filled are supervisor, highway superintendent, town clerk, town councilman, justice of the peace and assessor.

Abram F. Molyneaux, incumbent supervisor, made formal announcement of his candidacy to succeed himself. In a brief speech he stated he would stand on his record during his term in office.

Albert Cashdollar, highway superintendent, is also a candidate to continue in office. He pointed with some pride to the improvements to town roads which have been accomplished with virtually no increase in the highway budget over the last 10 years.

Marjorie Harder, Town Clerk, stated her willingness to continue to handle the constantly increasing work load of her office.

William R. West and Gotlob Wagner both announced their candidacy for councilman to succeed Tobie Geertsema, whose term expires this year.

Charles Farley, whose term as justice of the peace expires this year, announced his candidacy to continue in that position. Robert Carr also made known his availability for nomination to this post.

Announcement of the final plans for the Republican Rally on September 16 was also made by Thomas Dendy, president of the club. He stated that Mead's Mountain House had been selected because of its highly pictorial setting and the ample parking space available for the large crowds that are expected. A steak dinner will be starting at 12:30. L. Judson Morhouse, principal speaker and chairman of the New York Republican State Committee, will be on the program at 2 o'clock. A second serving of dinner will follow the program. Deanie will have charge of refreshments.

Dendy also announced interim appointments to fill vacancies among the officers of the club due to two resignations. Andrew Shekitka Jr. is third vice president and Edith B. Melvile recording secretary.

Maurice Goldberg, assistant state attorney general made a brief but eloquent speech urging a concerted effort and unity during the forthcoming campaign.

City Police Seek Hit and Run Driver

Police conducted a search Friday night for a hit-and-run motorist who struck and damaged a car owned by Walter Murdock of 122 Hone Street and drove away from the scene.

Murdock said his car was parked at the curb on McEntee Street, when the accident occurred at 10:50 p. m. Murdock said he was in his home and heard the crash, but before he could reach the sidewalk the other motorist had gone in the direction of Hudson Street.

Murdock said he noted two numerals of the registration plate as the car disappeared.

GROWTH OF A CANADIAN INDUSTRY

St. Andrews-By-the-Sea, New Brunswick, Canada . . . Lobsters constitute an important industry in this Canadian community where I am vacationing. This afternoon I visited the world's largest lobster pound and learned firsthand about a business that employs thousands of men and women, and sells its merchandise to hotels and restaurants in 150 cities throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

Sixty years ago a determined and resourceful young New Brunswick, Canada lobsterman, about 30 years old, organized a company which today is the biggest single lobster establishment in the world. From two to three tons of lobsters are shipped every day. His son is now the owner and manager.

The pound is at Deer Island off the coast of New Brunswick. It has a million pound capacity. It is a small arm of the Bay of Fundy where the tides rise 40 feet in a few hours. It is a year 'round storage place.

Lobsters are taken from this pound into the sorting and shipping establishment at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea in New Brunswick. Its capacity is 200,000 pounds and today it was filled. I spent an hour in the shipping department where barrels of lobsters consigned to Belgium in Europe, to Seattle and San Francisco and to a dozen other Canadian and American cities were being sealed. A young undergraduate from a leading Canadian university, temporarily employed during the busy season, was in charge.

Last year, Canada shipped 52,000,000 pounds of lobster. The five provinces producing this food ranked in the following order:

1. Nova Scotia — 22 million pounds.
2. New Brunswick — 11 million pounds.
3. Prince Edward Island — 10 million pounds.
4. Newfoundland — 5 million pounds.
5. Quebec — 4 million pounds.

Trucks from New Brunswick deliver lobsters to many Eastern Canadian and American cities. Freight shipping declines from year to year as highways improve. This afternoon while spending 30 minutes talking with the owner of the establishment already mentioned, long-distance calls came in from several cities asking when lobster deliveries could be expected.

The Communists are making political capital out of the wretched living conditions in many countries around the world where the natural resources, labor power, and the will-to-work, if properly organized, could bring a better social and economic life.

When a young 30-year-old Canadian lobsterman can organize a company that today is the biggest establishment of its kind in the world, giving employment directly and indirectly to thousands of men and women, it does not take much imagination to see what could be done in other sections of the world if men of determination, resourcefulness and vision could be found to do something along the lines of the lobsterman.

He built a sound business by merchandising the food of the sea. He put into his work the enterprise, thrift and saving that are so greatly needed everywhere in the world.

His establisment here in New Brunswick would thrill any investor interested in seeing what one individual can do for himself, his province and even international society. There is no adequate substitute for integrity, enterprise, thrift and saving.

Requests Probe Of Equalization In Two Townships

A battle in the Towns of Olive and Shandaken over State Equalization rates, appears to be taking on a political complexion. The battle arises over new rates suggested by the state in which the Town of Olive has a suggested rate of 13 instead of its former 15 and Shandaken was dropped from 32 to 29.

Residents of the adjoining towns are concerned over the school tax situation, some Olive residents alleging that they will pay an "unfair" percentage of the Onteora Central School tax.

The latest move was made by Robert Haver of Ashokan, a former Democratic state committeeman and Town of Olive Democratic leader.

Haver sent a telegram to Governor Rockefeller on Wednesday asking for a "State investigation of the entire Ulster County tax structure" and that the Town of Olive counsel be consulted.

Haver, in his request to the governor stated that he believed "the decision of the State Equalization Board last week on the tax readjustment rate of town of Olive and Hurley unfair" and said the citizens of his town are unable to pay any extra tax burden.

He alleges the review of the tax situation in Olive is the result of a request from the Town of Shandaken made last spring to the effect that Olive was not paying its fair share of school tax. In July, Haver states, Olive residents learned of the matter and went to Albany and suggested a review of the Shandaken tax rate. Haver alleges Olive opposition to a school in Phoenicia may have triggered the Shandaken move.

In a lenthy statement issued to the press, Haver offers to debate the tax problem publicly.

ConnecticutYouth Killed in Crash Near Pine Plains

An 18-year-old Bristol, Conn. youth was killed at 1:20 a. m. today when the 1957 car he was driving went out of control on a right curve on Route 199, Town of Pine Plains and crashed into a tree.

Dover Plains tropers said Barry E. Bechard, who was driving a car owned by Gilbert A. Bechard, also of Bristol was Dutchess County's first Labor Day weekend traffic fatality.

According to Trooper D. W. Erskine, Bechard was alone in the car traveling west on Route 199 when the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve. The sedan veered off the south side of the highway and crashed into a tree.

Dr. E. Alan Larkin, Amenia, assistant medical examiner, and state police are continuing the investigation.

Kingston Police Hold Two After Altercation

Police booked John Wilson, 56, of 20 Franklin Street, on a disorderly conduct charge on complaint of Louis Gerbon, 47, of the same address. Gerbon was booked on a third degree assault on complaint of Wilson, police said.

Rhode Island Dealers In Milk Price War

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A wave of price cuts by Rhode Island milk dealers began Friday night. The head of the State Milk Control Board said it appeared that a major price war had started.

The price cuts apparently resulted from a Superior Court ruling last week that blocked the state board from taking action against two dairies selling milk below established prices.

Cumberland Farms Dairy of Woonsocket and Sunnybrook Farm of Seekonk, Mass., have been charging up to 9 cents a gallon less than established minimums.

Hollywood News, Views

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— This season may be known as television's Mickey Mouse year—except that Disney's famed mouse is probably the only cartoon character who won't be seen on TV.

Television, like the movie industry, is cycle-happy. Remember when Warner Bros. made "Little Caesar" and "Public Enemy" in the early thirties; for years afterward, it took an armored car and submachine guns to get into a theater.

When "The Flintstones," "Yogi Bear," "Huckleberry Hound," and "Rocky and His Friends" and others hit big, it was inevitable that more would follow.

By quick count, at least 10 new cartoon series will be on the air by next spring, including one on "Laurel and Hardy," whose two reelers made 30 years ago still are comedy classics on TV.

"Not in the least," says one top cartoon producer. "Surveys show that 'Yogi Bear' and 'Huck Hound' have greater adult audiences than juvenile. The kids all watch the 'Untouchables' and 'Twilight 'Zone' while the old man watches the cartoons. He gets enough violence out of the world situation."

Recently Jay Ward and Bill Scott introduced their new "Bullwinkle" show at a fancy premiere at the Screen Directors Guild Theater. The premiere and party afterwards was something that Mike Todd might have staged.

Next the two cartoon producers are going to hold a block party on Sunset Strip, where their studio is located.

Duke's Ring Stolen

LONDON (AP)—Two gold signet rings that once belonged to the duke of Wellington have been stolen from the Bankfield Museum in Halifax, Yorkshire.

Eleven days ago a Goya portrait of the duke, valued at 140,000 pounds ($392,000) was stolen from the National Art Gallery in London.

Museum officials were inclined to believe the theft of the rings was a prank suggested by the theft of the portrait.

"The rings were not worth much," said R.A. Innes, director of the museum.

Hails Partnership

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller, in his annual Labor Day message issued Friday hailed "a genuine partnership between labor and management and the state government" in New York.

Winter Program For Barley Listed

Winter barley producers have the opportunity of participating in the 1962 Feed Grain Program, according to E. M. Wood, chairman, Ulster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Registration for winter barley producers will take place in September and November.

The 1962 barley program, with certain malting varieties excepted, will be similar to the 1961 Feed Grain Program for corn and grain sorghums—designed to bring supplies in balance and cut government costs. Spring barley signups probably will be in March-April at corn-grain sorghum signup time. Those diverting barley acreage to an approved conserving use will receive payments which will serve to stabilize their income level.

For winter barley, approximately half of the diversion payment will be available at registration time, and the balance after compliance is checked in 1962. The 1962 national average support level for barley will not be less than for 1961.

This week County ASCS Offices will mail producers information concerning base acreage and yields (established on the basis of 1959-60 average acreage and production) and payment rates per acre.

Wood said that the minimum diversion under the barley program will be 20 per cent of the farm base (1959-60 average acreage). Up to 20 acres may be diverted if this is more than 20 per cent of the base. The maximum diversion will be 40 per cent of the farm base or 20 acres plus 20 per cent of the base. In no case can the diversion be more than the base.

Farmers who grew barley in 1959 and 1960 are advised to contact the Ulster County ASCS Office, 54 John Street, Kingston, in order that an index and payment rate can be set for the farm.

Kingston Man Hurt In Fall From Ladder

While repairing a chimney at a residence at 274 Albany Avenue shortly after 2 p. m. Friday, Robert DeGroat, 32, of Colonial Gardens suffered injuries when he fell from a ladder.

He was taken to Kingston Hospital in Fatum's ambulance, According to police, DeGroat suffered a concussion, lacerations of the forehead which required 14 sutures and a fractured wrist.

Police said DeGroat was pulling up stone as he stood on a ladder, when suddenly a rung broke. DeGroat was hit on the head with a pulley, and toppled from the ladder to the ground, authorities said.

4-Year-Old Girl Hurt, Struck by Automobile

A four-year-old girl was injured at 4:35 p. m. Friday when struck by an automobile as she was crossing Bruyn Avenue.

Police said Catherine Peterson, of Elmwood Street, was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated for abrasions and contusions and possible concussion.

Oscar Eugene Palmer Jr., 16, of 15 Jansen Avenue, told police he was driving a 1955 car west on Bruyn Avenue when the girl ran from the sidewalk into the path of the vehicle. The car belongs to the Rev. Oscar Palmer of the Jansen Avenue address.
